Lindbergh, Rogers, Baldwin.
Labor Will Try Again.
Federal Reserve Sees Light Farmers and Wheat.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

COL. LINDBERGH is discovered, enjoying himself on a motor boat, and wearing goggles. It has amused him to "keep the reporters guessing."

WILL ROGERS celebrates his birthday at Beverly Hills, Cal., and is older than Lindbergh in years only. He is much younger, generally speaking. His fame came gradually.

THE German problem appears to be settled, actually, definitely settled.

The Allies got a hundred billions less than they asked for at first.

BALDWIN will resign as premier, and King George will ask Ramsay MacDonald to take the premiership and form a government.

And everything will go along as smoothly as ever.

THAT would not happen in this country.

For one thing, we have no Ramsay MacDonald, and our high finance has a great fear of labor and other bogey men.

THE Federal Reserve Board has decided, so it's said, that American adults may be permitted to invest their own money in their own American securities, in their own way.

The 5 per cent discount rate is to be preserved indefinitely.

THAT is discouraging to the usurious gouging money lenders. But, having had a taste of 15 and 20 per cent money, they may find some way to continue usury as the foundation of American business.

WHEN farmers hear the word "wheat" they have conflicting emotions.

First came the special session, to save the farmer.

While they were preparing to save him, wheat fell to 94 cents a bushel, lowest price since before the war.

FARMERS had been hanging on in the hope of better prices, ever since last fall. At last, with a new crop in sight, they were forced to sell. Buyers leaned back and let the price fall.

Why should a farmer get good prices for wheat?

THEN our save-the-farmer politicians began to worry about the farmers' vote next time. It became evident that something would be done AFTER the farmer had sold his wheat, as usual. A fund of $100,000,000, to be supplied by the government and used to protect wheat prices, was discussed, believed, and the price of wheat jumped violently.

Great excitement in Chicago's wheat pit, much delight and profit for wheat speculators.

THE farmer wonders what will happen next time he has wheat for sale.

With that proposed debenture scheme, or government wheat bonus, working, wheat bought here for 94 cents could be shipped abroad, sold at Europe's price, the exporter getting as bonus half the tariff on wheat. But middlemen, not farmers, would get that bonus.

It seems hard to help the farmer, even when you really want to help him.

ALFRED P. SLOAN, JR., head of General Motors; Henry Ford, Thomas A. Edison and 21 others urge the people to "give prohibition an honest chance."

These good, solemn business men, in their touching appeal, say:

"There would be little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it. We must awake to the fact that this patronage from large numbers of law-abiding citizens is supplying the rewards and stimulating crime."

AT LEAST 10,000,000 people have been awake to that fact for some years. The bootlegger's list of customers is a complete Who's Who and Social Register.

A law that "respectability" defies proudly, and that gives hundreds of millions a year to organized crime, is something that business men and others may well take seriously.

NOTE one curious fact. The government could diminish bootleg profits at least 60 per cent by making it a felony to buy liquor.

Respectability would be less proud of breaking the law if it meant jail.

Can it be that real enforcement of prohibition is not wanted? In burglary you punish the burglar and the man that buys stolen goods from him, knowing them to be stolen.

Why the tender treatment of those that buy illegal whisky? More than half the politicians buy it and drink it. That is one explanation.

CONSIDER the Very Rev. Herbert L. Johnson, dean of St. Paul's Episcopal Cathedral in Detroit.

He told a congress of the Protestant Episcopal Church at Ann Arbor that his congregation, which he called capitalistic in character, would not let him preach on prohibition, sex or labor.

HE HAS resigned and gone abroad. "I know that six of my nine vestrymen have wine cellars," is one of his statements. That may interest the 24 business men, and six in nine is not a high percentage.

YESTERDAY was King George's birthday, and the world learns with pleasure that his health is better. He is a good man and a

CASHIER HALTS AT POINT OF REVOLVER

Sixth Street Restaurant's Clerk Calls Aid; Shot Stops Further Pursuit

An armed robber got a handful of currency in the Saratoga Restaurant at 140 Sixth street early today and escaped, despite an attempt by the cashier, Mrs. Jackie Weber, to capture him.

Mrs. Weber was having breakfast at the table nearest the cash register when the robber, described by her as "small and desperate looking," walked in.

GUN HALTS PURSUIT

He announced his presence by tapping the keys of the cash register.

Mrs. Weber turned, saw him grab $44 from the register and rush out the front exit.

She followed, screaming. She chased him across Sixth street. He turned, flashed a revolver at the girl and she stopped.

Max King, a bus boy, hearing the screams, ran from the restaurant and pursued the thief into an alley in the rear of the Roosevelt Hotel.

FIRES AT PURSUER

King halted when the fugitive fired a shot at him.

Mrs. Weber, 22, lives at 521 Woodward avenue, McKees Rocks. She said she had seen the thief loitering outside the restaurant during the night.

The man timed the robbery. The patrolman on the beat went off duty 10 minutes before the holdup occurred.

The Pirates and Phillies are slated to wind up their series this afternoon, with the invaders holding the edge over the home players, despite a 14-to-2 pasting they sustained yesterday. The Quakers having won the first two scraps, it is needless to remark that the Oaklanders will show them no quarter in the finale.

Burleigh Grimes rang up his ninth victory of the season yesterday as the Pirates batted freely. The undefeated hurler, who now stands alone at the top in both major leagues owing to George Uhle's defeat of yesterday, held the hard-hitting Quakers to six hits. The spitball star could not entirely close the home-run gate, however, Walter Lerian cashing in with a four-sacker. P. Waner and George Grantham hit homers for the Pirates.

Steve Swetonic will be on the mound today. The Braves will be here tomorrow.

ACID BURNS ONE AS MEN FALL

One workman was seriously burned and another escaped with slight injuries when the scaffold on which they were working at Irwin avenue and Jackson street, North Side, was knocked loose today.

George Smith, employed by the Penn Building and Window Cleaning Company, fell 30 feet. He suffered most from burns by the acid with which he was cleaning the building.

Earl Harman, fellow-worker, saw the accident in the making and jumped to a fire escape 10 feet distant.

The police said the accident occurred when a cornice to which one of the scaffold hooks was attached became loose. The scaffold remained in the air, but the sudden jar threw Smith to the street. At the Allegheny General Hospital he was reported in serious condition.

Text of Third Temperance Prize Winner

Following is the complete text of the third prize winner, $2,000 award, plan No. 16,876, in the Hearst $25,000 temperance contest.

By THOMAS W. THERKILDSEN, Executive Secretary, the Moderation League, New York City.

In preparing a plan to establish temperance in the United States the first question to answer is, "Can such a plan be established without repealing the Eighteenth Amendment?"

A careful reading of the amendment shows that it prohibits only intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes. Mark well the words "intoxicating" and "beverage purposes."

With the above facts in mind I believe that temperance can be established in the United States by the adoption of the following plan:

Repeal Volstead Act

First. Repeal the present national prohibition (Volstead) act.

Second. Enact a new law which shall be known as the national temperance act, providing:

(A) For the manufacture, sale, transportation, importation and exportation of alcoholic liquor for medicinal purposes, to be sold by licensed druggists only upon prescription by a licensed physician, without limitation as to the

NIGHT STUDENT WINS $2,000

The story of a boyhood spent in gainful pursuits, supplemented by continued attendance at night schools, is the story of the success of Thomas W. Therkildsen, winner of the third prize award, $2,000, in the Hearst temperance prize contest.

Capt. Therkildsen is at present executive secretary of the Moderation League, and is assistant secretary of the New York Society, Military and Naval Officers of the World War. He lives at 343 East Fiftieth street, is married and has one son, 13, now attending a private school and who expects to enter Kent School next autumn.

VARIED CAREER

Mr. Therkildsen started work at an early age as an errand boy in a drug store and worked in many other lines of business while continuing his education at night. He has been a general manager of a large commercial organization, a farmer, a banker, superintendent of a brick yard, and his last commercial position was with a firm of New York lawyers, where he assisted in corporation work.

He enlisted as a private in the Tenth Infantry, New York National Guard, and with his company was later assigned to guarding the New York aqueduct, as a unit of the

TOWNS PERILED BY VESUVIUS LAVA FLOOD

Molten Torrent Is Moving Rapidly, Leaving Ruin To Crops in Its Wake

NAPLES, Italy, June 4.—(AP.)—The eruption which burst from Mount Vesuvius yesterday became more serious today and caused the evacuation late this afternoon of the town of Barre before a heavily increased flow of lava from the crater.

Latest dispatches said that the lava was moving with irresistible force at the rate of 900 feet an hour and had increased in width to more than 160 feet. Panic had seized upon the population of neighboring towns.

INCREASE IN LAVA FLOW

Director Malladra, of the Vesuvian observatory, said this afternoon that there was a decided increase in the lava flow from the cone through which the eruption burst. The interior of this cone in the crater is a lake of boiling rock and lava.

Vineyards and woods near Terzigno were destroyed by the lava today.

Prompt measures were taken. A trainload of soldiers was sent to Barre to superintend the evacuation of the town. Gen. Taranto, commandant of the army corps in this area, Count Capialbi, vice prefect, and a number of engineers went in a special train to Terzigno to survey the menaced territory.

SITUATION DANGEROUS

Although an early official statement from the Vesuvian observatory declared that the eruption would gradually die away, the au-

NEW YORK, June 4.—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, America's elusive bridal couple, took the advice of the late O. Henry, and lost themselves in a crowd.

While the cudious eyes of the world have been scanning sea and horizon for the missing honeymooners, they have spent considerable time in New York City.

In fact they have made their headquarters at the town house of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow in exclusive East Sixty-sixth street, International News Service was informed today.

The lad who drove Ambassador Morrow in a taxicab from Englewood to the Morrow town house off Fifth avenue, today excitedly confirmed the story. Numerous other reports of the Lindberghs'

FAIRBANKS, JR., WEDS JOAN

NEW YORK, June 4.—(INS.)—The second Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks made her bow to the world today, but she still looks like, and is, Joan Crawford of the screen.

The pretty young movie star was married here yesterday to Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in St. Malachy's Roman Catholic Church, long a favorite wedding spot for folks of the stage and screen. There were few witnesses.

Young Fairbanks and Miss Crawford surprised every one by going to the church a short while after they had obtained a marriage license here yesterday, and no newspaper men were present to give the affair the publicity usually attendant upon movie marriages.

Those who witnessed the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Case, Jack Whiting and Mr. and Mrs. Weimer Waite, all friends of the bride and bridegroom, and Beth Sully, young Douglas' mother, the first wife of Douglas Fairbanks, Sr.

Fairbanks said after the ceremony that he had told his famous father of his intentions before he left Hollywood, and that the latter had given his blessing. He proudly displayed a telegram of congratulations from the elder "Doug," which arrived at his hotel soon after the marriage.

YOUNG PLAN ACCEPTED BY ALLIES, GERMANY

Report Ending Long Dispute On War Debts to Assist In Settlements With U. S.

PARIS, June 4.—(AP.)—The last barrier to a complete agreement by the experts committee on the reparations question was removed today and the long outstanding problem of Europe's post war life may be considered officially settled.

The Belgians this afternoon accepted proposals presented by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht looking toward solution of the controversial problem of the redemption of German marks left in Belgium after the war for which Belgium is demanding 27 annuities of 25,000,000 marks (about $5,000,000).

YOUNG PLAN WINS

With the acceptance of the Belgians of the German proposal, approval of the experts' report embodying the reparations annuities suggested by Owen D. Young, the chairman, now becomes unanimous and the historic report which must still be submitted to the governments concerned for ratification, will be signed either on Friday or Saturday.

The Belgians accepted the procedure proposed in a letter presented by Dr. Schacht yesterday to Mr. Young.

GERMAN DEBT CUT

The reparations experts brought their efforts to solve the reparations problem to a successful issue about 1 o'clock this afternoon when the Belgians announced acceptance of the proposed procedure. This disposed of the last contested points in four months of negotiations in the course of which the conference was twice on the point of breaking up.

The agreement, as will be notified to the reparations commission and the governments concerned, reduces Germany's reparations debt from $33,000,000,000 present value to $9,000,000,000.

U. S. DEBT FACILITATED

It will eventually give France between 40,000,000,000 and 50,000,000,000 francs (between $1,600,000,000 and $2,000,000,000) to

Public Relations Reform Urged by Power Chief

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 4.—(INS.)—An echo of the Federal Trade Commission's recent probe into power company activities was seen here today in a speech delivered before the convention of the National Electric Light Association by J. F. Owens, vice president of the Oklahoma Gas and Electric Company.

Owens, who is chairman of the public relations national section of the association, urged the delegates to adopt four reforms in their attitude toward the public.

These are:

1—The creation of measures designed to bring about the appointment in each state of a representative of the power industry who will pass upon all proposed measures of co-operation between schools and the power industry.

2—The discontinuance of bureaus which have been in charge of distribution of all information relating to the power industry.

3—More efficient co-operation within their organization to assure sound development of relations with educational institutions, free from ligitimate criticism.

4—Encouragement of measures which will lead to the pronouncement by "educational administrators of national prominence and standing of guiding principles to control future co-operative activities involving educational institutions."

The proposed reforms were part of a program proposed by Owens, which is designed to meet the criticism leveled at the power industry during the past year.

Money Matters Holding Up Corey-Prince Marriage

SAN REMO, Italy, June 4.—(INS.)—A financial settlement is holding up the marriage of Mrs. Mabelle Gilman Corey, divorced wife of William Ellis Corey, former head of the United States Steel Corporation, and Prince Louis Ferdinand, of Bourbon-Orleans, a cousin of the King of Spain. The ceremony was to have been held today, but it has been postponed indefinitely.

The Infanta Eulalia, mother of the prince, was quoted as assigning as a reason Mrs. Corey's unwillingness to take up the simple life Prince Luis has found to his liking.

"I bought my son a villa at San Remo and he is living there now very happily," the Infanta said. "He has taken to gardening. It is so much healthier for him than the night life he used to follow. But now Mrs. Corey says she won't live with him down there and she wants him to come to her chateau.

"He wants her to go to him. I don't know which will give way but I hope not my son.

"There is also the question of the marriage settlement. They do not agree about that either. Mrs. Corey received £400,000 (about $2,000,000) from her late husband. She told him she did not think that such a tremendous sum of money after all. 'It is only about £700 monthly,' she said. Mrs. Corey is very charming—."

At this point the Infanta was said to have checked herself suddenly and to have left the sentence and interview unfinished.

The engagement of the former stage beauty and the Spanish aristocrat, who has been exiled from Paris for several years, was announced recently, with the marriage to take place about June 1 at San Remo. It did not eventuate.

U. P. ASSEMBLY VETOES SOUTHERN UNION PROPOSAL

'OVER HASTY' DECISION FEARED

Overture Plan Defeated, Commissioners Declare For Further Negotiation

The United Presbyterian Church is not ready for union with the Southern Presbyterians, it became clear at today's session of the United Presbyterian General Assembly, meeting in North Church.

committee on closer relations fered a resolution expressing iation of the Southern denomination's spirit in proposing union. Thereupon an amendment was offered, proposing that an overture on immediate union be sent to the United Presbyterian presbyteries for decision. Overwhelmingly, the assembly voted down the amendment, but passed the original resolution.

"TIME NOT RIPE"

The resolution further reads:

"Resolved, that the general assembly record its conviction that a union with the Southern Presbyterian Church is desirable, providing that the union be a real union without loss of any considerable minority in other denominations.

"Since the Presbyterial reports do not indicate that the time is quite ripe for the submission of a formal overture on the question of an organic union, we recommend that the assembly's committee on closer relations be authorized to prosecute its work more vigorously, in order that the way may be prepared for a true and happy union of our two denominations of mutual acquaintance and brotherly love."

Considerable opposition was registered to the consummation of an early merger by a number of leading ministers of the denominations.

"TOO ANXIOUS"

"If the Southern Church is so anxious to unite with us, we had better not unite at all," said the Rev. Dr. W. W. Woodfin, Third Church, Pittsburgh. "Our church is doing a grand a glorious work and we are unwilling to have it wrecked by a precipitated move. Better five years in consummation than 25 years in reconstruction."

The Rev. Dr. E. S. McKittrick, of Pasadena, Cal., a former moderator, held that the basis of the union is vague. "There are too questions to be included merger is consummated," ared. "There is too much of leaving these questions unsettled."

Others who argued against a precipitate union were the Rev. Dr. J. Alvin Orr, Pittsburgh, and the Rev. Dr. Charles Gilmore, Cadiz, O.

The Rev. Dr. C. E. McStravick, of Texas, was the only commissioner who advocated an overture for an immediate merger.

"We can be sure of a fair deal from our southern brethren," he said.

"If we do not ask the presbyteries to take action on the matter, the Southern Presbyterians will think that we are not anxious about union.

"Now seems to be the time when we ought to take the step. Already 15 years have elapsed since negotiations were begun. Therefore, to delay action again is apt to be regarded by them as an indication that we are not taking their overture too seriously."

WIDER UNION SOUGHT

The report of the committee on bills and overtures also recommended that a union with the southern body be deferred, although it recognized the non-existence of doctrinal differences. It recommended that the committee on closer relationship continue negotiations during the coming year. It recommended a union of all members of the Presbyterian family as a more desirable move, and appointment of a committee on Presbyterian unity to meet with all Presbyterian bodies with a view of negotiating for such a union.

The question of union of all Presbyterian bodies was discussed at length by the Rev. Dr. R. M. Swearingen, of St. Paul. He predicted that such a union is not far off and assured the assembly that the United Presbyterian body would be received with open arms into the "big family" of Presbyterians.

HOSPITAL FIRE, FILMS PERIL 17

CHICAGO, June 4.—(AP.)—The Chicago General Hospital was swept by fire at 1 a. m. today, and although 17 patients, several doctors and nurses were in the building as the flames and smoke mounted to the fourth floor, all escaped unhurt.

Some were carried down ladders by firemen. Passersby, seeing the fire, ran into the smoke-filled rooms and brought others out. Fire department ambulances removed the patients to other hospitals.

STARTS IN LAUNDRY

The fire, which did $25,000 damage, started in the laundry room and was confined to one side of the building, which is divided by a fire wall.

Chief Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan was particularly interested in the quantity of X-ray films stored in the hospital. With the recent Cleveland hospital fire in mind, Corrigan's first thought was to keep the flames from these films.

Corrigan said he would start an immediate investigation into the apparently careless manner in which the X-ray films were left in a jumbled heap in a room dangerously close to the flames.

"If the flames had reached the film, we would have had a disaster similar to that in Cleveland," he said.

FILMS LAY LOOSE

Dr. Edward C. Meyer, house physician, said a man had come to the hospital Saturday with an offer to buy the old X-ray films.

"The films were taken from the vaults in various parts of the hospital and placed in the room where they were found, pending the man's return," Dr. Meyer said.

Many thousands of persons watched the fire and the rescue of the patients, the hospital being located at 741 Diversey parkway, close to the busy Clark-Diversey-Broadway intersection.

Twelve of the 17 patients had to be carried from the smoke-filled rooms. Eight persons in another section of the hospital not touched by fire, were moved from their beds to the elevator doors, in case an emergency evacuation were necessary.

Contract Awarded For Metro Ballots

Meeting today without Commissioner C. C. McGovern, who is out of the city, the County Commissioners awarded to the William G. Johnston Company the contract for printing the ballots for the special metropolitan charter election on June 25 at a cost of $2,494.10.

The commissioners also authorized a temporary loan of $200,000 to the airport fund to pay pressing bills, the loan to be returned when bonds for the new airport are sold.

CITE BABY STAR EMPLOYERS

CHICAGO, June 4.—(INS.)—Orders for warrants for the arrest of Herbert I. Stern, president, Barney Balaban and other officials of the Balaban and Katz corporation operating motion picture theaters, were given by Corporation Counsel Samuel Ettelson to City Prosecutor Peska here yesterday when the men indicated they would not end the appearances of 4-year-old Davy Lee, child film star, on the stage of one o their theaters.

Davy Lee, child prodigy, appears five times daily for 15 minutes at each appearance.

Women's organizations and juvenile associations have complained against the child's exploitation, pointing out it is a violation of the state child labor law and a city ordinance.

RULING IN MILK WAR HELD UP

When Thomas McGreevy, Charles Arensberg, Paul Vandergrift, John Morgan and Eugene McCormick came into Common Pleas Court today to learn if they had been adjudged in contempt for alleged violation of the injunction against interfering with deliveries by the Liberty Dairy Products Company, Judge Richard W. Martin announced he would postpone decision until tomorrow.

The five are alleged to have participated in the West End riot which resulted in the killing of Michael Rockford.

"I am satisfied," Judge Martin declared, "that these men engaged in this affair, and I will so find. The only question is whether they knew this injunction was outstanding.

"While I have the greatest sympathy for labor organizations in their efforts to improve conditions I have no sympathy with violence.

"This is not a picketing case. It was a needless killing, and some one has the responsibility for it besides the man who fired the shot."

DAY WILL JOIN SINCLAIR IN CAPITAL JAIL

'Auto a Block Long' Will Bear Soldier of Fortune To Cell With Former Boss.

By GEORGE E. DURNO.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The "auto a block long" is going to roll up to the District jail house about a month from today and unload some company for Harry F. Sinclair, pharmacist-extraordinary to the institution.

The visit is to be a four-month affair.

DAY TO JOIN BOSS

For that dashing soldier of fortune, Henry Mason Day, is going to join his boss. It will take 25 days, not counting Sundays, for the Supreme Court's mandate to reach the court that orginally sentenced him.

Day will have company as far as the marshal's office in the person of W. Sherman Burns, who is to be relieved of $1,000 under the same mandate, but he will have to get along without the presence of William J. Burns. The Supreme Court ruled the 15-day sentence on the elder detective out on the ground no evidence had been adduced he actually participated in the jury-shadowing episode that resulted in the downfall of Day and young Burns.

SINCLAIR GETS MORE

And, by token of the privilege of his lieutenant's company, Sinclair's own stay in the jail is going to be increased by a matter of from four to six months, depending upon the court's interpretation of the verdict. He was to have gotten out on July 20, but Thanksgiving turkeys will be on sale before he sees the unblemished light of day again.

It all grew out of Sinclair's overanxiety when he and former Secretary of the Interior, Albert B. Fall, were standing trial for criminal conspiracy in connection with the leasing of the naval oil reserves. The oil baron called in Day and instructed him to have the jury shadowed. Day put the William J. Burns detective agency on the job.

Messrs. Roberts and Pomerene, the federal prosecutors, found it out, and almost simultaneously a newspaper reporter came forward and told of a conversation he had had with one of the jurors in a local speakeasy in which the juror speculated on the possibility of "getting an auto a block long" out of the case.

ELDER BURNS FREED

Justice F. L. Siddons immediately declared a mistrial and U. S. Attorney Leo Rover successfully prosecuted them for criminal contempt of court, Sinclair drawing six months, Day four months, W. J. Burns, 15 days, and Sherman Burns, a fine of $1,000. Yesterday the Supreme Court upheld all except the sentence imposed on the elder Burns.

It may be that because Sinclair already has been in a jail a month for contempt of the Senate, and because it will be another month before the new commitment comes down, this second "rap" actually will be a little less than four months. Justice Siddons' sentence read that his term was to begin "the day he enters jail," and that was the sixth of last May. However, one sentence was for contempt of the Senate, the other for contempt of court, and legal opinion differed here today as to whether the sentences would run concurrently or consecutively.

PART COMPANY, REPORT

Whether Sinclair will greet Day with open arms is a matter of conjecture. Dame rumor has whispered that the two came to a parting of the ways shortly before Sinclair went to jail.

What Maj. William L. Peak, warden of the jail, will do with Day is a problem. Up to recently Day has been vice president of "The Sinclair Exploration Company," that subsidiary of the oil baron's holdings which deals in his affairs far afield.

reduce her interior debt, relieving the budget of from 2,000,000,000 to 2,500,000,000 francs.

The accord, incidentally, is expected to facilitate ratification of the allied war debts toward the United States since the settlement provides that annuities are to run throughout the period of the debt payments to amounts sufficient to meet them.

It will also lead to evacuation of the Rhineland by the Allied armies of occupation within the space of time required for necessary negotiations and material arrangements to withdraw the forces now there.

The settlement, in the opinion of all the experts who took part in it, will go farther to consolidate the peace of Europe than anything which has happened since the peace conference.

GERMAN-AMERICAN PROBLEM

One consequence much commented upon in Allied circles is that it is felt here virtually to make the reparations and debt settlement a German-American problem since, apart from greatly reduced sums for the reconstruction of devastated regions, the greater portion of annuities will go to meet payments by the United States war debtors.

Mr. Young, who played so prominent a part in the Dawes agreement, was the first to receive the congratulations of his colleagues on this second agreement. It was felt to be his success. It was his intervention that saved the conference from foundering.

Mr. Young sails for home Saturday on the Aquitania, a tired, but a happy man. He will be remembered as the man who twice played so prominent a part in lifting Europe out of the mire of post-war complications. In all his work here he was seconded throughout by J. P. Morgan, Thomas W. Lamont and Thomas N. Perkins.

NINE BILLIONS TOTAL

After nine years of discussion and controversy, the reparations settlement agreed upon today by the experts requires Germany to pay the Allies approximately $9,000,000,000 in addition to what she has already paid.

The allies recognize that Germany has paid $2,000,000,000 while Germany claims credit for $10,000,000,000, largely represented by German property seized during the war or now held by other countries.

Of the $9,000,000,000 agreed upon a little more than half goes to France and two-thirds of these $9,000,000,000 would just cover the Allies' debts to the United States. The settlement is nine times what France paid to Germany after the war of 1870.

These $9,000,000,000 represent the total debt, but Germany in fact will pay an average of about $492,000,000 yearly for 37 years as interest and amortization. Thereafter, for 21½ years she will pay about $408,000,000 to meet exactly the Allies debts to the United States.

If the United States ever cancels any part of these debts, two-thirds of the reduction will go to reduce the German payment and the other third will benefit the Allies..

The "town house" of Ambassador Morrow is not listed in the directory, but friends admitted the ambassador frequently stayed at a house off Fifth avenue when in the city.

From another source, it was learned that Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh dined in New York City last Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Bench, of Englewood, N. J.

If the captain and the crew of the motor cabin cruiser Mouette consist of the colonel and his bride, as reported from various points along Long Island, it means apparently that sorties were made from the Lindbergh town house in the newly acquired vessel.

The motor boat was bought by Col. Lindbergh a week before his marriage, according to Irwin Chase, general manager of a shipyard at Bayonne, N. J., who revealed how the aviator and his bride escaped on their honeymoon.

Chase said that he took the boat on the afternoon of the wedding to "a lonely spot" on the Long Island shore. After the marriage, the bridal couple motored from Englewood and boarded the boat.

Coast guardsmen reported Lindbergh's yacht, Mouette, spent the night in the harbor of Woods Hole, Mass., and put out to sea early this morning.

GUARD ACCUSED

BOSTON, June 4.—(AP.)—The solution of the mystery of a long series of threatening letters received by prominent persons appeared nearer today through the introduction on the scene of George E. Long, a customs guard.

The latest in the series was a demand of $50,000 from Dwight W. Morrow under threat of violence to his daughter, Constance, sister-in-law of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Long is the 50-year-old father of three children.

Inspectors who visited his home said they discovered a typewriter the type faces of which corresponded to those on letters to several of the persons threatened.

GERMAN MOVING VAN ARRIVES

The old saying has it, "A moving is as bad as a fire."

But Dr. A. Nadai, 558 East End avenue, will tell the world it is not so.

Not even if one's good are carried from one's home in Gottingen, Germany, to a railroad train, hauled from Gottingen to Bremen, transferred to a ship, brought across the ocean to Baltimore, loaded on another railroad train, conveyed to Pittsburgh, and finally transported by motor truck to one's new home. That was what was involved in Dr. Nadai's moving, and his goods arrived safe and sound, with not the smallest item missing.

The goods were packed in a huge box-like affair known as a "lift van" furnished by W. A. C. Keim, of Hamburg, Germany. The van was then locked and sealed and sent on its journey. On its arrival here, the van was lifted by a crane from a freight car in the Pennsylvania Railroad's East Liberty yards, set on a truck and taken to Dr. Nadai's new home.

George Devlin, examiner of merchandise for the United States Customs Service, was summoned. He broke the seal on the van and appraised the goods for the purpose of levying import duties.

The evacuation of Barre was carried out in perfect order. The scene was extremely picturesque as the inhabitants of the threatened town carried og all their belongings that they could load into carts. Vehicles of all kinds were pressed into service, mostly the brilliant two-wheeled carts for which Southern Italy is famous.

The soldiers were turned into moving-men and aided the inhabitants. Volunteers from other towns also came to the rescue.

SENATE SETS TIME LIMIT ON TARIFF

Aiming at Final Action by Nov. 1, Program Halts Public Hearings June 10

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP.)—Aiming at final congressional action on tariff revision about November 1, the Senate Finance Committee has adopted a program designed to complete public hearings by June 10 and have a bill ready for Senate consideration by mid-August.

The hearings will be conducted, not by the full committee, as desired by the Democrats, but by subcommittees of three Republicans and two Democrats each, working simultaneously to expedite the task, which involves the taking of testimony on the 16 schedules proposed in the tariff bill passed by the House. Four or five schedules probably will be assigned to each subcommittee.

Recognizing the probability of a fight on the Senate floor if an attempt were made to have the hearings conducted in closed session, Republican members of the committee who favored that procedure have agreed that they shall be open to the public. June 12 has been fixed as the date for the beginning of these hearings, and the California congressional delegation was called by Senator Shortridge, a Republican member of the committee, to get together today on changes they desire to have made in the House bill.

The question of selecting a date for a Senate vote on passage of the bill and a later date for final action on the report of the joint conference committee which will be called upon to adjust differences between the two branches of Congress over the legislation, was raised in the committee as soon as its program for hearings was adopted, but action was deferred until today. President Hoover has made it clear that he will not sanction a summer recess of Congress until the Senate has bound itself to such voting dates to assure enactment of the legislation before the regular session begins in December.

DRY PADLOCKS ON 50 PLACES

Final hearings are being held today by Judge R. M. Gibson in United States District Court on the application of the government for permanent padlock injunctions against 122 persons in whose places, it is alleged, the national prohibition law was violated.

In the first 100 hearings Judge Gibson dismissed 23 cases in which the proprietors testified the nuisances had been abated; ordered 50 injunctions made permanent; instructed 21 property owners to post bonds assuring no further violation, and continued six cases.

Among those hit was Leo Von Hedemann, enjoined from doing business at 439 Graeme street, downtown, for one year, although the property was not padlocked.

At Louis Miezel's Red Tile Inn, Library road, one room-described as "the drinking room"—was padlocked for one year.

Jake Hartman's Place in Lowrie Run road was closed for a year.

Weds Senator's Daughter After Stormy Courtship

NEW YORK, June 4.—(AP.)—The New York Herald-Tribune said today that Miss Mary Culberson, only daughter of the late United States Senator Charles A. Culberson, of Texas, has informed relatives she was married in New York Sunday to Alexander E. Robertson, English World War veteran, after a courtship of seven years.

Mr. Robertson in 1922 charged that private detectives were attempting to drive him from this country because of his affection for Miss Culberson. He caused the arrest of one detective on a charge of kidnaping, but an indictment that was returned in Newark, N. J., was dismissed when the court was informed Robertson had refused to testify in order to avoid publicity.

The courtship started when both he and Miss Culberson were students at the University of Texas at Austin, Tex. Robertson had come to this country in 1919 after serving in France with England's "first hundred thousand." He was gassed and shell shocked.

Maj. H. M. Reed, professor of English at Virginia Military Institute, a cousin of Miss Culberson, told the Herald Tribune his wife was informed of the marriage by Miss Culberson, but that she did not say where it had been performed. At the municipal building here there is no record of a marriage license.

Robertson was to have come to this city yesterday to begin employment with the banking firm of Dillion, Reed & Co., but it was said there he had phoned from Washington that he would not report before today.

Robertson, since coming to this country, has resided at times with an aunt, Mrs. May Andrews at Bloomfield, N. J.

PACT LACKING, U. S. TO PUSH NAVY BUILDING PLANS

NEXT BUDGET TO PROVIDE MORE SHIPS

Construction Held Mandatory Until Leading Nations Join In Sea Limitation Treaty

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP.)—The American cruiser building program will be carried forward by President Hoover as laid down by Congress and provision for new ships will be made in the next federal budget.

The administration recognizes that work toward construction of 15 additional 10,000-ton fighting ships is made mandatory under the program until an agreement for reduction of sea armaments is reached by the leading nations and ratified by the Senate, and the President has no intention of attempting to modify or abandon that policy.

Contrary interpretations drawn from the President's Memorial Day address and the statement issued afterward by Secretary Stimson emphasizing the tremendous economic burden placed upon the powers by present naval requirements, are described in high administration circles as erroneous.

PACT SOON UNLIKELY

Although the administration is heartily in favor of a reduction of naval armaments and has moved toward that end by suggesting, through Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson at the Geneva preparatory disarmament conference, a new basis for evaluating relative naval strength, it regards an actual agreement as unlikely in the near future. Without such an agreement, ratified by the Senate, no modification or abandonment of the American building program can be considered.

As the disarmament situation now stands, the preparatory commission is marking time while the principal powers are studying and undertaking to make practical application to their own navies of the "yardstick" formula presented by Ambassador Gibson.

This formula is that in evaluating relative naval strength there be taken into account, besides tonnage, armament, armor, speed and age as well as some less important factors. The delegates to the Geneva conference received the proposal with a show of enthusiasm.

SLOW PROGRESS SEEN

Officials here say that, since highly technical questions are involved, slow progress is to be expected. First, the naval experts of the other powers must determine how the "yardstick" can be applied to their own navies, taking into account their individual needs for certain types and classes of ships.

Having made this determination they, like the American experts, must then settle upon the ratio in the whole equation that is to be given to tonnage; to armament and to the other factors. The opinion here is that the experts of no two nations will arrive at precisely the same figures of percentage.

After the experts of the five leading sea powers have computed their percentage scale, they will report to the preparatory commission, which adjourned subject to call.

Reassembling in Switzerland, the experts of the various nations then will be faced with the problem of composing their differences in the effort to reach a common "yardstick" applicable to all the navies.

MAY ADVANCE 1931 MEET

These computations and agreements are essential to a future disarmament conference unless some other formula can be worked out in the meantime, and there is no suggestion that any other will be forthcoming until every effort has been made to apply the American plan.

While officials here say they do not care to make any predictions as to the time for holding the next disarmament meeting, from the nature of the task ahead of the naval experts, such a conference during the present year is regarded generally in Washington as highly improbable.

Some naval opinion seems to be that there is little likelihood of a meeting of the great powers in advance of that provided for in the Washington Arms Conference treaties, which is in 1931. The date, however, may be advanced from mid-summer of that year to the early spring.

DRY KILLING OF STUDENT HELD WANTON

Prosecutor Assails Raiders Held in Shooting as Trial Goes Into Second Day

International News Service.

ABINGDON, Va., June 4.—A jury composed largely of Cumberland farmers sat in the box today to determine the fate of three county enforcement officers who a month ago shot and killed J. M. Kendrick, college freshman, because they suspected he had liquor in his automobile or had been drinking.

Kendrick was killed in a car driven by Paul Phelps, another local youth, when the dry agents opened fire into the back of the machine at close range. Sterling Dutton also was in the machine.

Phelps said they had not been drinking, nor had they any liquor. He said he was driving toward Bristol when another car passed him and cut in ahead of him.

FEARED HOLDUP

Fearing a hold-up, as it was a dark night, he "stepped on it." The next thing he knew shots poured into the back of the machine, and Kendrick was hit. A bullet passed through his head.

Defense counsel, led by Charles Warren, declared before they were through they would prove "these boys were no saints." Warren also intimated that Kendrick was not in the automobile when shot.

For the prosecution, Commonwealth Attorney Parks declared it made no difference whether the boys had liquor or not.

"NO EXCUSE FOR KILLING"

"Even if this boy had been drunk," he said, "that would not make his life forfeit."

"Jim" Crowe, deputy sheriff, is being tried alone, but his fellow agents, "Jim" McReynolds and "Bill" Worley, will follow him in the dock.

Public feeling is still running high against the officers, and the courtroom is jammed to suffocation with spectators.

The old bills will not be called in, according to an announcement by the Federal Reserve Branch here today, but will be replaced in accordance with the normal use of new currency, which is estimated at 1-10 of 1 per cent of deposits for each denomination monthly. An intensive demand with limitation of supply makes some control necessary, the announcement states.

KING CALLS MACDONALD TO PARLEY

Baldwin Cabinet Resigns And Labor Leader Is Seen As New Government Head.

International News Service.

WINDSOR, England, June 4.—Premier Stanley Baldwin today tendered the resignation of his Conservative cabinet to King George, and the King accepted it.

The Conservative party had been in power for slightly more than four and one-half years. The Labor party will now come into control by virtue of the big gain in parliamentary power made by that party in Thursday's general election. While the Laborites will not have a clear cut majority in the new House of Commons, they will have more seats than any other party.

SUMMONS MACDONALD

The King formally summoned J. Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the Labor party, to Windsor castle. Mr. MacDonald probably will visit the castle tomorrow when he will be commissioned to form a new government.

Mr. MacDonald held a conference at his Hampstead home with labor's "big four"—J. H. Thomas, Philip Snowden, Arthur Henderson and J. R. Clynes, when they discussed the make-up of the forthcoming Labor cabinet.

There is much speculation over the identity of the Labor foreign secretary. In addition to Mr. Henderson, three others have been mentioned in this connection—Sir Oswald Mosely and two non-laborites, Lord Cecil, of Chelwood, and Lord D'Abernon.

Mr. MacDonald was premier of the Labor government that was ousted from power by the Conservatives in 1924 when Baldwin was appointed prime minister.

It is confidently believed that there will be a woman minister in the new government, thus setting a precedent in British politics.

Reports were current during the political campaign that, if the Laborites came into power, Miss Susan Lawrence might become England's first woman cabinet minister. She is slated, it is said, for the post of minister of health.

ANOTHER WOMAN NAMED

Another woman was mentioned with equal prominence. She is Miss Margaret Bondfield, long a prominent figure in Labor circles and a member of the last House of Commons. She was re-elected in the recent general election.

David Lloyd George and his Liberal colleagues still figured collectively today as the dark horse in the political future. With Mr. Baldwin's decision to resign known, the question as to the Liberal leader's future policy was heard everywhere.

VOTE CHEATING LAID TO 'BOSS'

Samuel F. Williams, inspector of election in the Eighth district, Stowe Township, testified in one of three vote fraud cases today that while he was at lunch during the primaries, September 20, 1927, 100 additional names were written in the voters' list.

Williams, who was indicted along with other members of the election board, but turned state's evidence, was not placed on trial.

"What does this mean?" I asked, Williams testified.

" 'Keep your mouth shut. I'll attend to that,' " Township Commissioner J. B. Duerr, replied, Williams said.

" 'I am one of your bosses and you keep still or you will be out of a job,' Duerr told me," Williams said. He was a clerk in the township police station.

Williams testified he refused to stay and help count the ballots and notified the board he would not sign the return. Later the return showed his name, but on the witness stand he repudiated the signature.

James E. Routley, assistant chief clerk in the county commissioners' office, testified that Otto Eichnin, listed as having voted, had been dead for two years. Thirty-five alleged fraudulent names were on the voters' list made up by the election board, he testified.

On trial before Visiting Judge A. B. Chase, of Clearfield County, are August Weiser, judge; Quintilia Recchione, inspector; Florence Crawford and Edna Craig, clerks, and George Panno, overseer.

Juries in both cases, including 12 women, were locked up last night as are murder juries.

The soviet automobile trust will buy $30,000,000 worth of Ford cars and parts during the next four years, the statement said.

Besides the Ford company, the Amtorg officials announced they had now entered into technical assistance contracts with the following concerns:

International General Electric Company, Radio Corporation of America, E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co., Hugh L. Cooper Company, Freynd Engineering Company, the Nitrogen Engineering Company and others.

3 KILLED IN BUS, AUTO CRASH

BATAVIA, O., June 4.—(AP.)—Three persons, a man and two women, were killed and 10 other persons injured near here last night when a bus bound from Cincinnati to Columbus hooked wheels with an automobile and both went into a ditch.

The dead are Mrs. Lucy B. Schoyer, 60, address unknown, and Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Ireton, of Marathon, O., all occupants of the bus.

Seven of the injured were taken to Cincinnati hospitals and the others to Hillsboro. Extent of their injuries was undetermined.

The injured include: Mrs. Inez Post, 30, address unknown; Miss Florence Bobb, 24, address unknown; Joseph Brown, 40, San Antonio, Tex; The Rev. Alvis S. Bennett, 57, Hartford, Ky., and an unidentified woman, believed to be Mrs. G. B. Beecher, of Hillsboro, O.

Mrs. Schoyer formerly was a resident of Pittsburgh, but for many years has not maintained a residence here, spending her time traveling. She was a sister of Mrs. Frederick G. Kay, of 5430 Forbes street, who left immediately for Batavia, O., upon receiving word of the death of her sister.

Then came the carpenters complaining that if the scaffolding is to be built on the outside it should be carpenters' work rather than that of masons' helpers.

SHRINERS TAKE LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—(AP.)—Los Angeles became the official playground of Free Masonry yesterday as the last of numerous trainloads of Shriners arrived for their fifty-fifth annual convention which formally opens today.

The downtown section was a riot of color and a bedlam of noise. While Shrine bands blared their melodies and auto horns and sirens shrieked, the delegations climbed out of their Pullmans and marched, perspiring but happy, to their various headquarters to check in.

Heading the list of arrivals was a delegation of 1,500 Shriners from Medinah Temple, Chicago, the order's largest temple. This delegation had an entire train. Twenty other trains brought notables from many other sections and cities.

Members of the Imperial Divan went to Santa Catalina Island off the Southern California Coast to spend the day.

Two business sessions were held. Recorders of the temples met in executive session and the trustees of the Shrine hospitals held a conference with Sam P. Cochrane, of Dallas, Tex, presiding. While these meetings were in session, the Shrine jesters, the organization which develops the comic rites for the convention, laid their plans for amusements for the next three days.

Concerts by Shrine bands were given in Los Angeles and Hollywood high schools throughout the day.

The audience frequently applauded, although the songs were in English and not understood by many.

MACKRELL MAY BACK CHARTER

Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, who on Saturday assailed Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong for the latter's efforts to have all county officials declare in favor of the Pittsburgh Metropolitan Charter, may reverse his position.

According to reports in political circles today, Mackrell has informed former Republican State Chairman W. L. Mellon that he will support the charter.

These reports go on to say that, following the publicity given his attack upon Armstrong's advocacy of the charter, Mackrell yesterday sought in vain an opportunity to pledge personally his support of the measure to Mellon. After pledging his support over the telephone, according to these reports, Mackrell arranged to meet Mellon today.

THREE ANGLES

The Mackrell statement against Armstrong Saturday was regarded from three angles by politicians here: First, an attack on the charter proposal itself; second, a challenge to the Mellon political leadership here, as Armstrong is regarded as the closest political associate of W. L. Mellon, and third, as a move in the mayoralty contest. The second view was supported by the fact that in 1926 Mackrell left the Allegheny County organization to support Vare for Senator and Beidleman for governor against the Pepper-Fisher ticket backed by the Mellon group and its allies.

LESLIE BLAMED

Senator Max G. Leslie, when the Mackrell statement appeared, generally was charged with some responsibility. If that is true, Mackrell was left on a limb, for several county officials, regarded as lieutenants of Leslie, appeared at Mellon's office yesterday to swear allegiance to the charter and the organization. Among these, according to reports, was Sheriff Robert H. Braun, who is said to be desirous of a place on the organization councilmanic slate in the September primary election.

Friends of Mellon and Armstrong said today that both were very displeased at the Mackrell pronouncement Saturday, which, wittingly or unwittingly, gave an impetus to the opposition to the charter. His refusa to issue a statement favoring a charter was hailed as a victory by the opponents of that measure, especially in the boroughs and townships where there is considerable opposition.

OFFICER TRIED IN KILLING

Four women and two men testified yesterday of seeing all or part of the affray in which Patrolman James L. Shaw, of the North Side district, is alleged to have shot and killed Charner Dee, Negro, 43, of 24 Porter street, last April 2. Shaw is on trial for murder, the third Pittsburgh policeman to face a jury on this charge within a month. The other two were acquitted.

Assistant District Attorney Earl T. Jackson told the jury that Patrolman Shaw had gone to Porter street to break up a dice game among some boys and that Dee, standing near his own home, had refused to move on when ordered away by the policeman. When the latter tried to arrest him, Dee seized the handcuffs from the officer and ran to his home. The officer fired on him as he fled, Jackson said.

Charles Pitichuk, 17, of Cass avenue, star witness for the state, corroborated the prosecutor's charge.

Vacation School Workers Meeting

Three hundred delegates were to attend the second session of the ninth annual institute for vacation church school workers in the Smithfield Evangelical Protestant Church today. The institute is being held under auspices of the Pittsburgh Council of Churches and the Allegheny Sabbath School Association. It opened yesterday with 150 delegates in attendance and will close tomorrow.

Woman Held in $500,000 Borrowing Swindle

FORT WAYNE, Ind., June 4.—(AP.)—A "get-rich-quick" scheme involving half a million dollars was laid today at the door of Miss Irma Bitzinger, 39, a former bank employe. Her attorneys indicated she would plead guilty to the grand larceny charge which resulted from it.

Miss Bitzinger began by borrowing $100 from a friend, detectives related, saying she would invest the money in bonds to earn a profit of $50 in 30 days. Before that time was up, they said, she obtained $200 from a second friend, using $150 of it to pay the first debt. This so pleased the first friend that she asked to have the entire amount reinvested. From that point the scheme grew to surprising proportions, the detectives declared. They said her victims numbered some 300 persons.

Miss Bitzinger declared no one except herself knew her business was a swindle. She started it about five years ago, and was discharged from the bank three years ago.

Custer Indian Aid Buried With Military Honors

BILLINGS, Mont., June 4.—(AP.)—White-Man-Runs-Him rests today beside his comrades of the ill-fated Custer expedition in the National Cemetery on the Little Big Horn overlooking the battlefield where, 53 years ago this month, an entire fighting unit of the United States Army was wiped out.

With military pomp and every honor that is accorded one who has served his country in time of stress, the body of the aged Indian scout, one of the four Crow Indians who guided Gen. George A. Custer and the five troops of his immediate command from the Rosebud to the Little Big Horn on June 25, 1876, was buried yesterday at the battlefield.

In nearby graves lie the bodies of Curley, Goes-Ahead and Hairy Moccasin, who, with Trumpeter Martin, were the last to see Custer alive. Curley remained with the command after the start of the battle and later escaped, but Goes-Ahead, Hairy Moccasin and White-Man-Runs-Him were ordered back to the pack train in the rear at the beginning of the hostilities. The grave of White-Man-Runs-Him is the fourteen hundred and sixty-sixth at the battlefield, dedicated as a national cemetery some years ago.

M'BRIDE RAKES TEMPERANCE PRIZE PLAN

Head of Anti-Saloon League Says Hoover and Congress Will Prevent Modification

The Hearst newspapers publish the following statement of F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, because it faithfully reflects the attitude of that organization in assuming to state what temperance legislation is likely to be passed or approved by the President of the United States, by the Congress of the United States, by the Supreme Court and by the State Legislatures.

The "four insurmountable barriers" to the workability of the Hoyt temperance plan illustrate this attitude well, and are factual evidence of what has been charged repeatedly by opponents of prohibition and of what has been termed the "supergovernment" of Washington. Since the statement was solicited, it is published in full in Mr. McBride's exact words.—Editor's note.

By F. SCOTT M'BRIDE,
General Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League.

The Hearst prize contest was apparently a great success as a newspaper publicity project, but it was a flat failure as an effort to reach a solution of the liquor problem. That the winning plan would advocate beer and wine was a foregone conclusion in view of the well-known attitude of the Hearst papers, and of most, if not all, of the judges.

The plan presented is not worth the paper that the $25,000 check was printed on, because it has no chance to be adopted, and if adopted would not have the shadow of a chance to succeed. Although the prize was offered for a practical plan, the judges by some strange process of reasoning selected a method that would have to get past four practically unsurmountable barriers.

HIS FOUR OBSTACLES

First—The present Congress will not pass a law calling beer and wine not intoxicating, and the people are not likely to elect a future Congress that would.

Second—President Hoover will never sign a bill restoring legal intoxicants by indirection and the people are not likely to elect a president that would.

Third—The Supreme Court is not likely to uphold a law permitting what the constitution plainly and clearly forbids.

Fourth—The various states would not permit beer and wine even if incredibly the three branches of the federal government should.

Invariably dry states have defeated beer and wine proposals by larger majorities than those by which state prohibition was adopted. A few eastern states might conceivably try beer and wine, but the prize plan was supposed to be a nation-wide solution of the problem. But judged abstractly on its merits, aside from the extremely remote possibility of its adoption, the prize plan, worth $25,000 to its author, is not worth 25 cents as a remedy for the evils of alcoholism.

FEARS CREATING DESIRE

It would increase, instead of decrease, the alcohol habit. It would entrench instead of rout the liquor traffic. It would restore all the evils of beer and wine and infinitely increase the difficulty of enforcing the law against whisky.

Beer and wine would stimulate the desire for stronger intoxicants and protect the whisky bootleggers. Beer and wine would re-enthrone the brewers as the dominating political powers in the nation, with the resulting corruption such as was uncovered in Pittsburgh and in Texas in the days when beer was legal.

Beer and wine would restore the saloon in some form, and it would be as bad as the old institution, now universally condemned. Not even some new $25,000 Hearst prize names could change its nature. No plan at whatever prize price it may have been obtained, will solve the liquor problem by any method that permits the manufacture and sale of habit-forming alcoholic liquor. So long as intoxicants intoxicate, and civilization demands sobriety, alcoholism must be prevented by observant and informed prohibition.

WINS TEMPERANCE PRIZE

CAPT. THOMAS W. THERKILDSEN

Capt. Therkildsen, executive secretary, The Moderation League, New York, who won the third prize of $2,000 for his plan submitted in the Hearst Temperance Prize Contest.

amount or kind of liquor which the doctor may prescribe.

At the present time doctors may prescribe only one pint of whisky or one quart of wine in 10 days. If, in the doctor's judgment, a patient requires some other kind of liquor, or an additional quantity, it is necessary either for the doctor or the patient to break the law.

(B) For the manufacture, sale, transportation, importation and exportation of cider and natural wines; that is, wines that result from the natural fermentation of fruit juices.

2.75 Per Cent Beer

At the present time these wines may be legally made in the home, and the legality of their manufacture has been upheld in the cases of United States vs. Hill and the United States vs. Isner. The above provision is to be inserted in the law so that persons who by reason of locality or home conditions are not able to carry on home manufacture may legally procure such cider and wines.

(C) For the manufacture, sale, transportation, importation and exportation of beer containing not more than 2.75 per cent of alcohol.

That such beer is not intoxicating was conceded by the government in the case of Ruppert vs. Caffey. Also Wayne B. Wheeler, in "The American Issue," of March 21, 1924, said that Congress could legalize 2.75 per cent beer.

In Sealed Packages

(D) That the federal government shall enforce this law only in so far as interstate commerce, importation and exportation are concerned; leaving enforcement within the states to the states themselves. This would obviate the double jeopardy inevitable under the present system of dual enforcement.

(E) That medicinal liquor shall be sold only by manufacturers' and wholesale and retail druggists licensed by the various states.

(F) That the sale of cider, wine and beer permitted in this act shall be by stores established exclusively for that purpose under license by the various states.

(G) That the beverages permitted in this act shall be sold in sealed packages only, for consumption at places other than the place of sale.

This provision will be an insurance against the return of the saloon and at the same time make it possible to procure beverages legally for home consumption, or to transport them to hotels or restaurants to be consumed.

Option by Counties

Third. Each state that wishes to permit the beverages permitted by the national temperance act would enact laws providing for the required licenses. These laws should provide that counties shall have the right to vote at specified times on the question whether or not the manufacture or sale of such liquors or beverages shall be permitted in the county. If the county votes for permission, the law should provide that the number and location of places licensed to sell shall be determined by a committee of three citizens of the county, appointed by the county judge, except where a county consists in part of cities of the first or second class, in which case the appointment of the committee should be by the senior Supreme Court judge located in such county.

Nothing in the proposed legislation would force any state to permit what its present laws forbid.

New York World Praises Hoyt Temperance Plan

Following is editorial from New York World Monday, June 3:

JUSTICE HOYT'S TEMPERANCE PLAN.

The plan submitted by Presiding Justice Franklin Chase Hoyt, of the Children's Court, who has been declared the winner in the temperance prize contest sponsored by William Randolph Hearst, has the rare merit of simplicity. He accepts the eighteenth amendment as beyond repeal.

In the existing situation the trouble lies with the Volstead act; there, with the change of only a few words, the law and public opinion throughout the country could be brought into conformity. It is an ingenious expedient that Justice Hoyt recommends. In brief, what he proposes is that the prohibition in the Eighteenth Amendment against "the manufacture, sale and transportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes" be defined by Congress as applying to "all alcoholic products of distillation;" then each state should be permitted 'to regulate and control the manufacture and sale of all malt, brewed and fermented beverages within its own borders.

In support of his proposal Justice Hoyt points out that "the word 'liquor' in the past was very generally applied to distilled spirits in contradistinction to fermented products, and in common parlance, even at the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment, the word 'liquor' usually meant spirituous drinks, such as whisky, gin, brandy, etc." What position the United States Supreme Court might take is a matter that must be left to the future in any event. There, however, the author of the plan hopefully holds that common sense would rule in rendering a final decision.

The bar to adoption of Justice Hoyt's proposal would be the hostility of fanatics of the Anti-Saloon League type to any change for the better. To a theory that is unworkable and a statute that is unenforceable they are committed beyond chance of conversion; and Congress is as yet in awek of their political power to punish those who disagree with them.

Announcement was made that the opera house would be razed to afford room for an addition to an adjoining hotel.

LIQUOR SELLER ADMITS GUILT

John Kosakolski, confectioner, 876 River avenue, North Side, was up before Magistrate Edward M. Hough in police court today for bootlegging. Police Lieutenant James Callaghan said he confiscated a five-gallon can of whisky in Kosakolski's shop.

Hough started to examine the defendant, but before he had proceeded a Kosakolski, with a bored air, interrupted to say:

"Never mind the questions. I'm guilty—that's all there is to it. Let's get this over with."

Hough held him for the grand jury.

RICH CONVICT'S GIRL BEATEN

CHICAGO, June 4.—(INS.)—Robert Elliot Burns, magazine editor and escaped Georgia chain gang member, told police here that his friend, Miss Lillian Salow, had been kidnaped and beaten by Negroes while the couple were leaving a cabaret.

Burns said Miss Salow returned to her home and told him she had been struck over the head and had been abducted to a strange room, from which she fled after being beaten.

Hearing on the writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Burns was continued for two weeks to enable Gov. Emmerson to act upon a petition for extradition forwarded to him by Gov. Hardman of Georgia.

Burns, who has become rich since his escape, is fighting return to Georgia, where he would have to serve out a sentence for a store hold-up.

PITT LIBERALS FILE PROTEST

Attorney Henry Ellenbogen, counsel for Arthur G. McDowell and William Albertson, expelled Pitt students, dispatched a letter to Dr. Samuel B. Linhart, secretary of the University of Pittsburgh Board of Trustees, in which he protested against the expulsion of the students for their Liberal Club activities and asked their reinstatement.

The expulsion was in utter disregard of the fundamental principles of justice, Ellenbogen asserted.

The demand for reinstatement was made following the decision of Judge Ambrose B. Reid in refusing the injunction the students asked for against the university. The court pointed out that formal demand had not been made on the board for reinstatement.

Ellenbogen would not predict that the demand would be successful, but he did anticipate developments.

This demand follows a similar one made to Chancellor John G. Bowman, who formally instructed the students to deal with the trustees.

They bought everything new EXCEPT THEIR CAR

EVERY YOUNG COUPLE must buy new curtains, new carpets, new chairs, new kitchen utensils, new linen. But, thanks to the used car market, they can have dependable transportation for even less than the lowest priced new car.

Of the cars you see on the road today, three out of five have been purchased by their owners as "used cars." Many of them are serving as "second cars" for a family which needs two or more cars to meet the requirements of all its members. Many others are affording satisfactory transportation to families who otherwise would be denied automobile ownership.

A used car is unused transportation

We invite you to visit the stores of General Motors dealers and see the cars which they have accepted in trade. Their unused transportation may be enjoyed at very low cost. For the purchase of used cars, as well as new cars, General Motors extends the convenience of the GMAC Purchase Plan.

CHARTER WON'T RAISE TAXES

In view of the interest in the forthcoming referendum election for the approval of the Pittsburgh metropolitan charter, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will publish daily brief statements by Joseph T. Miller chairman of the commission. In this series the provisions of the charter will be set forth in plain language shorn of its legal verbiage.

By JOSEPH T. MILLER,
Chairman Metropolitan Plan Commission

Observe this important point in the charter:

The tax now raised for Allegheny county becomes the Consolidated City tax.

That is, there will be no county tax as such; it will be transferred to the Metropolitan government.

So, nothing is added; the old tax is merely retained for the new government.

Understand this provision and you understand why there will be no taxation increase through adoption of the Metropolitan charter.

TAX LEVY LIMITED

Certain is the fact that industrial and business leaders would not have given the charter their united support if they had believed that its adoption would mean the addition of one cent to existing levies.

What is more, Article Two of the charter carries this important limitation:

"No tax levy for the general purpose of the Consolidated City shall exceed 10 mills on the dollar."

GUARANTEE GIVEN

That is the present limit, set by the state legislature, but changeable by the state legislature without the consent of the people.

Whereas, the people get this guarantee by the Metropolitan plan.

Having been written into the charter, the taxation limit cannot be raised above 10 mills except by a direct vote of the people.

(To Be Continued.)

Voters are invited to propound any proper question regarding the charter and these will be answered promptly if addressed to Chairman Joseph T. Miller, 519 Smithfield street, Pittsburgh, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope. Some answers to inquiries of pertinent interest will be published in the Sun-Telegraph.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS ON CHARTER

Richard Walton, Pittsburgh—Will all the municipalities of the county keep control of their own governments under the Metropolitan plan?

ANSWER—Yes; the Metropolitan plan is largely the work of borough and township men, all advocates of home rule.

TAX REVISION LEAGUE GROWS

With its enrollment increasing at the rate of thousands daily, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph League for the Downward Revision of Taxes on Earned Incomes soon will have a membership embracing a majority of the registered voters in Allegheny County. Emphasizing the support given the campaign for the reduction of the Federal tax on wage earners, the league brings to bear the moral support of the entire community in behalf of the movement. At the same time other Hearst newspapers throughout the country have aroused equally great interest in the effort to emancipate workers from the tax burden.

D. C. W. Birmingham, president of the Hazlewood Savings and Trust Company, who indorsed the movement, has placed petitions in the counting room for patrons to sign. He declared that opportunity should be given every citizen to declare his views on the question of taxing earned incomes.

The Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company, one of the largest industrial concerns in the Pittsburgh district to assist in the campaign, gave added impetus to the work today when the executives and employes in its big plant in the Beaver Valley signed the petitions circulated with the indorsement of the Beaver County Manufacturers' Association.

The Union Drawn Steel Company is another large Beaver Valley concern that is supporting the movement. In Etna, Spang, Chalfant & Co. officers and employes signed virtually 100 per cent and in West Homestead the Mesta Machine Company workers gave whole-hearted assistance in increasing the number of petitioners. The Duquesne Lumber Company signed up its entire executive office staff.

Widow Hurt by Auto Sues for $25,000

She alleged that while walking in Liberty avenue, near Taylor street, February 14, 1928, she was struck by Lippard's automobile, driven by his son, Alvin, and suffered a broken collarbone and other injuries.

THE DANGERS OF DIET FADS

Serious Loss in the Tissues May Result

Leading medical authorities are emphatic in stating that overemphasis on slimness frequently results in permanent injury to the tissues. This is especially true with women and young girls.

"What is a normal weight for one person is an abnormal weight for another," one famous authority stated recently. "The proper weight for anyone is that at which he or she is most capable and productive."

The reduction of fat in the tissues, brought about by foolish dieting, increases the danger of numerous diseases. It lowers the vitality and general well-being of the individual to a point which may be lastingly harmful.

One mistaken idea about dieting, which is being rapidly corrected, is that sugar is largely to blame for overweight. Intelligent use of sugar as a flavoring for making almost all other foods more enjoyable is one of the most necessary steps in arranging a healthful balanced diet.

Serve healthful fruits and vegetables with the addition of flavor-giving sugar. Use sugar with cereals, milk desserts, and as a seasoner with most vegetables. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

One hundred and thirty-five national manufacturers will be represented in the huge display that will occupy 40,000 square feet of floor space.

Among the national officers expected to attend the convention along with 1,500 delegates and 10,000 visitors are C. S. Proudfoot, president, Vanadium Corporation of America; F. W. Cramer, R. M. Hussey, James Farrington, A. A. Stewart, A. J. Standing, S. S. Wales, Karl L. Landgrebe, M. J. Conway, E. F. Blank, I. N. Tull, E. L. Upp, J. E. Sayer, P. T. Vanderwaart and E. Friedlaender.

Pittsburgh Dentists To Attend Meeting

Several hundred dentists, including nearly 50 from Pittsburgh, will attend the sixty-sixth annual convention of the Lake Erie Dental Association at the Hotel Bartlett, Cambridge Springs, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. Hollander, of Pittsburgh, will give an illustrated lecture before the convention Thursday night.

How much is a Happy Youngster Worth? 57

Why, bless you, he's worth his weight in—Heinz Rice Flakes. And just think how much joy he can get from a single bowlful of this delightful new cereal food!

That's how you make a youngster happy. Every morning—a bowl of these crispy, crunchy flakes with a flavor like butter-browned nut-meats.

That's how you keep him happy too. For it's fun to be healthy, you know, and Heinz Rice Flakes help keep him healthy. Due to a patented, Heinz process which transforms the natural roughage element of the rice into a pure cellulose that acts as a gentle, natural laxative.

Isn't it an easy way, a wonderful way to add to the "Joy of Living"? For all the family.

"Delicate to discuss this, yet smart women should know"

—Says a society leader

Sensitive women discover that this new way of deodorizing sanitary pads* relieves all self-consciousness.

A RECENT discovery of Kotex Laboratories makes one former worry unnecessary for women. Each sanitary pad is scientifically treated, by patented process,* to deodorize.

That "conspicuous" feeling

The other fear—the feeling of being conspicuous—is also eliminated. Corners of the Kotex pad are scientifically rounded so as to leave no evidence of sanitary protection when worn.

You can so easily remove or adjust layers of filler. Its remarkable absorbency is still one of the most important advantages of Kotex. Cellucotton absorbent wadding takes up 16 times its own weight in moisture—5 times more than cotton itself. The fact that you can so easily dispose of it makes a great difference.

Buy the Improved Kotex today—45c for a box of 12 at any drug, dry goods or department store. Also in vending cabinets of rest-rooms. Kotex Co., 180 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago.

SUPER-SIZE KOTEX

Formerly 90c—Now 65c

Some women find Super-size Kotex a special comfort. Exactly the same as the Regular size Kotex but with added layers of Cellucotton absorbent wadding.

Tired, Burning Feet

Tender feet—tired, aching, burning and swollen feet! The minute you put them into a "Tiz" bath you can feel the pain being drawn out and glorious comfort being restored. "Tiz" draws out the poisons and acids that cause your feet to ache, swell and burn. It also takes the soreness out of corns, calluses and bunions. Get a box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store and have real foot comfort at last. Costs only a few cents.

Introducing a half-hour program devoted to the attractions of New York City, Mayor James J. Walker will open the sketch.

Following Mayor Walker's talk, a special radio version of O. Henry's famous short story, "The Last Leaf," will be heard. "The Last Leaf" has been chosen from all his stories of "The Four Million" because it portrays vividly life in the Greenwich Village of 20 years ago —a life that is typical of "Bagdad On the Subway" and of no other city in the world.

LIVES OF "THE POTTERS."

A series of episodes in the lives of "The Potters," that characteristic American family generally described as "just folks," will begin tonight.

Written by J. P. McEvoy, author of the "Show Girl," the sketches of "The Potters" have been described by dramatic critics as keen bits of realistic drama and essentially truthful to the types they portray.

The episodes will be in serial form, and each week's playlet will be supplemented by a program of peppy dance music and light selections by the Eveready Hour Orchestra.

THE FIRST DIP

Drawn by Dorothy Flack

"O-O-O-O-H! It's cold!" That's the cry you'll hear every minute, now that the bathing season is here. Miss Summer Girl knows how adorable she looks in her brand new swimming suit and nothing in the world will stop her from parading her charms and enjoying the swimming for which she's been waiting all Winter. Of course, she may have been in the pools during the Winter, but they are nicely heated and she could swim and dive in comfort. But going into the cold ocean water is something else.

So she shivers and exclaims until after she takes the first plunge—then it's all right.

Just like everything in life, it's hard at first, but after the first try comes so easily that you wonder why you were ever afraid. It's that way sometimes, too, with Love. Lots of people are scared to death to fall in love, for they believe all sorts of foolish things about losing their freedom and merging their personalities with another's. But when they once fall in love they wonder why they were ever scared.

So don't be afraid either of the first dip or the first time you fall in love. They are both wonderful and both the most invigorating things in the world—especially falling in love. True, lots of times girls simply pretend they are scared when they really aren't. So be brave and take the first dip secure in the knowledge that everything is going to be lovely and you are going to have the best time of your life. And here's hoping that you'll find Love and Romance and Happiness in this Vacation Time.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, June 5.

CONFLICTING planetary forces point to the affairs of this day as hazardous. Although there is some recognition or advancement for those in employment, and things in general will be lively, yet the strong influence of the major malefics in mutual aspect warns of peril and difficult situations. Finances are in real jeopardy through speculation or prodigality, and there is a presage of personal or physical danger. Also there is the prospect of a sudden change, removal, or journey, but these should not be rashly embraced.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of conflicting fortunes, with the substance as well as physical safety in jeopardy. Shun all manner of speculation and be on guard against accident or violence. With restrained activities there may be some advancement or honors in employment. There is a presage of unexpected change or travel.

A child born on this day may be clever, skillful and versatile, but may promote its own undoing by a tendency to contention, strife and headstrong conduct.

Aim high or low, it matters not, shooting over the mark is as bad as under it, it is a miss in both cases.—Madison C. Peters.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Modern Lovers

MAN'S greatest charm for woman is his faculty for remaining just a little boy—at heart—usually, a "bad little boy," who has to be mothered all his life.

There was a time when a he-man would have fought the whole class, single-handed, before he would have let them elect him "Class Beauty" in a college contest.

* * *

Jealousy is a very effete emotion now that a man starts right in by offering you merely a co-operative interest in his affections and a limited parking time in his heart.

HELEN ROWLAND

Neither age nor avoirdupois can stifle a woman's yearning to be called "Cutie"—and no amount of brains ever killed her desire to be cuddled.

* * *

When a man begins telling you of his love these days, it sounds less like a plea than as though he were trying to sell you something at a great big, wonderful bargain.

Red hair is a "gift of the gods," says a British critic. Sometimes it is—and sometimes it comes from the beauty parlors, and then it's no GIFT!

* * *

Just about the time when men get through being shocked at one style of woman's clothes, the fashions change, and it takes them nearly a whole week to catch their breath and begin finding fault with her all over again.

* * *

When a man reaches the age where he can no longer feel the ecstasy and enchantment of love, he begins trying to convince the world that it is nothing but a sex impulse, and thus dates himself as a sex-agenarian.

* * *

When a woman has been fooled by a lot of them, she can look at a window full of melons or a ballroom full of men without a glimmer of curiosity.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Local Infection May Be Basis of Illness

ONLY a few years ago we had practically little or no knowledge of the effects of many infections. In this matter, science has made great strides in the past years.

DR. COPELAND

Diseased tonsils and abscessed teeth were given attention only because they caused pain. The possible connection between disease of these organs and the average case of rheumatism or auto-intoxication would have caused a smile.

Experiment and careful observation have shown that the pockets of the tonsils, the roots of the teeth and the nasal sinuses are ideal breeding places for millions of germs of many varieties. Not only are they germ-breeding and pus-producing, but their products quickly travel to the blood stream. In this way the infection spreads to distant parts of the body.

The effect may manifest itself first in some of the joints, taking the form of articular rheumatism. Or the kidneys may become infected, causing the symptoms of Bright's disease. The onset or first sign of many such conditions may come on without distinct warning.

"Auto-intoxication," eye trouble, nasal trouble, poor circulation, headache, sleeplessness and many other disagreeable ailments may result from abscessed teeth, tonsils and nasal sinuses. We must not overlook this possibility.

It is not an uncommon sight even in this day to see persons whose teeth are plainly neglected. There is little or no excuse for this. Even the poorest in purse can find relief. Every large city now has one or more dental clinics where treatment of all kinds is given by experts for a very nominal fee.

Begin right away to give thought to some of these things. If you have not done so lately, go to your dentist. Have him examine your teeth carefully. If There is doubt of the presence of infection, the X-ray will search it out and show which tooth or teeth can be blamed. Make a practice of having your teeth examined at regular intervals.

The same attention should be given the cavities where pus is likely to form. Have the tonsils and nasal sinuses examined. Infection here will account for the symptoms and discomfort you have recently suffered.

The value of attention to all these things is demonstrated by the fine work done in some of the insane asylums. It has been demonstrated that many of the inmates have been returned to useful and normal lives by the correction of conditions arising from such infections as I have mentioned. These are extreme examples of what I have in mind, but they show how important the various infections really are.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

Lillian Realizes That Marion Is in Love

AS Lillian put the question to Marion about the rules of her school concerning parties, I think she realized the oddity of her not knowing the regulations herself. She had been so particular in familiarizing herself with every other regulation of the school which she had selected with so much care, that her omission of this one came to her as a shock.

"I've never had to think of this before," she explained apologetically to the rest of us before Marion had an opportunity to answer. "Marion and I have been such social hermits that we've never had to settle the question of parties before. She dances, of course—"

She hesitated, and Ronald enthusiastically filled in the hiatus.

"I'll say she does!" he exclaimed with an admiring glance at Marion. Lillian looked at her daughter's flushed cheeks and answered the boy promptly, patently shielding the girl from embarrassment.

"That's very nice of you, Ronald," she said easily, "and I hope we shall be able to take advantage your invitation. Do you think it's pososible, Marion?"

"Oh! yes, mother." Marion's voice was a lilting carol. "It's just a question of choosing what I want to do most. You see if a girl's mother requests it, she may have an occasional special weekend, although Mrs. Barnes isn't especially keen about it, and if you take more than one a term you're likely to hear from her. She says that three regular weekends a year, besides the Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter vacations, are enough without specials. But if your mother asks for you, she doesn't kick. You remember she let me come to New York when you asked for me last year."

She poured it all out eagerly, her eyes searching her mother's face. As she finished, I saw Lillian wince, though I am sure no one else noticed her agitation.

"Yes, I remember," she said slowly, and I knew what she was thinking as well as if she had spoken the words aloud. She was realizing that last year Marion's whole thought was to have an extra week-end with her, but that now the child's dearest wish was to go to the basketball game and dance with Ronald Brixton whom she had known less than 24 hours.

She kept that realization from everyone else, however, and explained her hesitation plausibly with a smile at Marion.

"I was trying to think if I had planned anything special for you this winter," she said, "but I'm sure I haven't, and that you may go if Mrs. Barnes makes no objection. Have any of the other girls gone to college games or dances?"

"Oh, yes!" Marion answered. "Several of 'em went last year—seniors they all were, though. And then, twice during the year, two of the teachers chaperoned a busload of girls over to Treger—a boy's prep school 15 miles away—to their senior and junior dances. Some of the girls were especially invited, and some were approved by Mrs. Barnes to fill in for the boys who hadn't invited especial girls."

"Oh, yes," Carolyn put in, nodding her elfish head sagely, "blind dates. We had those, too."

I saw Helena Brixton's delicate eyebrows go up, and the look she sent to Lillian, the smile she received in reply held amused toleration and acceptance of the new standards of youth.

"Didn't you go, Marion?" Carolyn went on. "Of course, you were one of the girls selected?"

Marion flushed. "Yes, she said I could go," she admitted, "but I told her I didn't want to."

Carolyn's jaw dropped in amazement. "Oh! what a whopper that must have been!" she cried in honest amazement. "No girl in her senses could have meant that."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

'Mrs. John Smith'

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

If the wife of John Smith, whose name is Mary Smith, attends a public function, unaccompanied by her husband, and her name would be printed in a subsequent newspaper item among those present, would this item have to mention her as Mrs. John Smith or Mrs. Mary Smith?

2. If this same condition would arise and Mrs. Smith was a widow, what would be the proper naming in public print?

3. If the same Mrs. Smith would write letters, how should she sign them while her husband is alive and after she is a widow?

May I add that your column is always very interesting and has helped me many a time in avoiding an otherwise unavoidable social error. B. E. M.

MRS. JOHN SMITH. The names listed in such formal circumstances should be given in the formal manner.

2. Just as in the first answer—Mrs. John Smith. A widow uses the same form of name as she used when her husband was living.

3. In both cases the signature is the same: For instance, in a business letter or a letter to someone who must be informed of her married name, the married woman and the widow should sign:

Very truly yours,
Mary Brown Smith.
(Mrs. John Smith.)

Thank you for your most kind words!

The Butter Spreader

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Will you please tell me, when placing silver, where you would put the salad fork? I know the forks go on the left of the plate, but does the salad fork go between the dinner fork and the plate or does it go before the dinner fork?

2. Also will you please tell me if, when one buys silver, butter spreaders come with the set? Or are they not used as much now?

READER.

THE salad fork is placed on the left side of the plate, nearest the plate. The silver utensils are placed in the order in which they are to be used by the person dining, and the rule is to use first the utensil farthest from the plate and "work toward the plate." And the salad course comes after the roast course. Even if the salad is to be served with the roast course, the salad fork should be placed, and should be placed on the left of the plate, nearest the plate.

2. Sets vary, but with all patterns of silver you may and can get butter spreaders. Many people prefer to use the small knives (called "tea knives" and of the size of the "child's knife") as butter spreaders, and this is an attractive English custom. If butter is served, there should be some kind of specialized knife for its use—either the butter spreader, or the small tea knife. The advantage of having the tea knife is that you can use these small knives and forks for so many other things—buffet suppers, salad knives and forks, and a hundred different other uses.

Agents Seize Stills, Arrest Two Men

Two men were arrested by prohibition agents last night when stills were found in their homes, the officers reported. Sam Wax, 29, of 2223 Webster avenue, was taken following the seizure of a 35-gallon outfit in his home, according to the agents. In the home of John Pavolick, 48, Frazer Township, the raiders reported confiscating a still of a similar size. Pavolick was released on bond.

BRANDON CALLS RAID ILLEGAL

Replying to a charge by Police Inspector Charles Faulkner that two men and two women, arrested in a raid at 1616 East Ohio street, were discharged in the face of incriminating evidence, Magistrate A. D. Brandon in a statement declared that "there was not the slightest trace of evidence against anyone arrested." He characterized the raid as illegal, since it was made without a warrant, citing as the only evidence the fact that two men were eating at a table on the first floor of the place and the women were found alone in an upstairs room.

"Police can raid on suspicion," the statement concluded, "but magistrates can't sentence on suspicion. They have to have evidence."

ISOLATE WOMAN IN KILLING

VALPARAISO, Ind., June 4.—(INS.)—A petition for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Mrs. Catherine Cassler, held here in connection with the death of Miss Carmeola Soutar, whose body was found with a bullet through the heart in an Indiana swamp, was denied here today by Judge Grant Crumpacker in the Circuit Court.

Judge Crumpacker indicated in refusing the petition for the writ that Mrs. Cassler would be asked to take the stand when the inquest is resumed today. Mrs. Cassler has been denied consultation with lawyers, Coroner Ebbo H. Miller contending he has the right to interrogate all witnesses before they are "influenced by outside agencies."

Mrs. Cassler was to be questioned concerning an alleged visit made at her home last Monday by Miss Soutar, who was said to have been friendly with the husband of Mrs. Cassler while she was in prison, under a sentence of death in connection with another murder.

'PIGS' BETTER THAN 'SKIDDING' HAS REAL PORK CHOPS AND RURAL TYPES

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

MRS. PATRICK CAMPBELL never played Topsy, but if she had the surprise wouldn't have been greater than the audience at the Pitt got last night when Pauline MacLean played a snooping village hoyden in the rustic comedy called "Pigs." It was one of those characters we find in James Whitcomb Riley or in Edward Eggleston. Not an easy part to play even when an actress of the bucolic type undertakes it—and Miss MacLean has been so persistently identified with social belles that her rural adventure seems almost incredible. But there she was—bubbling over with gossip, full of ideas how to get the $250 her Tommy needed to buy those Pigs, and playing benevolent fairy or manifest destiny to everybody around.

George Seibel

And another woman of the company assembled by George Sharp also presented a miniature masterpiece of characterization—Alice Ann Baker as a querulous grandmother who is sour upon all the family except its most worthless member, her chronically tired son, Uncle Hector.

A potted palm apiece, sundry wreaths of laurel, and whatever other horticultural specime are in season, are herewith presented to these two ladies for the best character work of the season at the Pitt Theater.

Newcomers do Well

Half a dozen newcomers were in the cast, besides a substitute. Mabel Kroman having sprained an ankle, her part was taken by Sarah Franklin, a Pittsburgh girl, on six hours' notice—and no one would have known how brief was her acquaintance with the part.

The newcomers were Robert Lowes, the new leading juvenile, who made an excellent impression, and Ada Sinclair, who played the understanding mother with true understanding.

And the other four newcomers were the Pigs. These porcine Thespians, who have really the most important parts in the comedy, deserve the highest encomiums. Whether Sappho, Methuselah, Hiawatha or Omar Khayyam is the best actor of the quartet, it is impossible to decide at their debut. But they are all bristling with ability. Being given fat parts, they could prove they were no hams. The program doesn't say whether they came from Kansas City or Herr's Island.

'Tis a Juicy Comedy

Nearly every member of the company had an opportunity to minister to the hilarity of the evening, for "Pigs" is a juicy comedy even better than "Skidding." Ann Morrison, now Mrs. Chapin, who wrote it in collaboration with Patterson McNutt, was in the audience last night and must have felt proud of the fine reception her work received and well deserved. She has painted her types with such rich humorous colors that they are irresistible. At the same time she has used such homespun materials for her plot that it becomes thoroughly credible.

The situations of most comedies are absurd—they could hardly ever have happened—but here is a comedy that might have been lifted from any country newspaper. All except Junior's dress suit, which fitted Kenneth Daigneau so well.

Gus A. Forbes did not have much to do, but did it with his usual finish. Robert Fiske was the tired uncle to perfection, and J. S. Murray a hard-fisted skinflint that wasn't overdone.

But the honors in an ascending scale go to Sarah Franklin, Alice Ann Baker and Pauline MacLean.

And don't forget Sappho, Methuselah, Hiawatha and Omar Khayyam!

STRUMMER

This banjo player is one of the characters in "Hearts In Dixie," talk picture in Harris and Sheridan Square.

NOVARRO ON SCREEN IN PENN

"The Pagan," photoplay feature in the Penn, is chiefly interesting because in it one hears the appealing singing voice of Ramon Novarro, who at times has been credited with having operatic aspirations. His voice certainly has a quality that really is musical and pleasing. The native songs and music of this South Seas tale are its only audible features.

Novarro plays a half-breed native of a tropical isle, owner of much property, which he is too indolent to make profitable to himself. That is, if native preference for a life of ease and willingness to let nature provide for his wants while he enjoys its bounties and beauties may be called indolence. Into his paradise comes a trader having as his ward a girl who, like himself, is half white and half-native, whom the trader is rearing as his "Christian duty."

LOVE IN THE TROPICS

The young people are attracted to each other, and this, coupled with the trader's determination to protect her from "a pagan," forms the basis of the action. There are numerous beautiful tropic scenes. Also some comedy mixed with the romance. The picture as a whole is merely average entertainment.

Donald Crisp makes the trader an acid and rather slantwise Christian for whom there is no sorrow when a shark gets him. Novarro pleases but arouses no special enthusiasm as the native youth. Renee Adoree wins sympathy and admiration for her portrayal of a white girl drifting on the tide to back currents of life. Dorothy Janis is charmingly ingenuous as the native girl.

EDDY PLAYS HANDSAW

In the stage acts, headed by Wesley Eddy, who reveals handsaw music-making as one of his accomplishments, there is a remarkable dancing act by Chilton and Thomas, as neat a pair of steppers as ever graced the Penn stage. The Three Demons, adagio dancers, also amaze. Harry Downing, comic using natural and falsetto voice to good effect, a male quartet, the Four Merrymakers and ensemble dancing by the Gamby-Hale girls complete this part of the program, entitled "Parisian Life."

A musical novelty that is much appreciated is the overture "Yarmakraw," directed by Elias Breeskin, a kind of symphonic creation interpreting Negro themes, the creditable work of James Johnston, Negro composer. Dick Liebert's organlogue, having to do with the month of weddings, is seasonable and humorously effective.

Fast Steppers On Harris Bill

Campus Colleagues furnish a lively time as one of the features of the three-day vaudeville current on the Harris stage. They display vocal and stepping talent and some raccoon coats. There are four of them in all, two of whom are son and daughter of Friml, composer of operettas. Joe Freed, former burlesque star, exhibits a funny skit and a travesty. He is assisted by three players. Meehan and Newman, a young man and a young woman, give a pleasing act that includes tap dancing and some songs. A novelty act completes the stage show.

The screen feature is "Hearts in Dixie," meritorious song, dance and talk picture of Negro life. The picture was acclaimed with enthusiasm by critics when it had its premier in Pittsburgh about three weeks ago. The production offers something different in a movie way. There are no hot romances nor flaming youth-heroes. There is nothing sensational about it. Yet, in making it, the movie cameras have caught elements of life that touch the emotions. Tears and smiles are blended, with two well portrayed characters as champions of them—Old Nathan, aged Negro, with a vision in his mind and unhappiness in his heart, and Gummy, indolent, lazy and dancing Negro, whose voice and actions (or lack of them) bring the laughs every time.

Milwaukee Repeals All Dry Ordinances

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 4.—(AP.)—The City Council last night voted to repeal all city ordinances for enforcement of the prohibition law. The action, which must be approved by the mayor, is in line with recent referendum which resulted in repeal of the state prohibition enforcement act.

WHOOPIE

Lola Lane has a leading role in "Speakeasy," showing the intricacies of whoopie-making on the Aldine screen.

PAGAN

Ramon Navarro, on Penn screen in "The Pagan," plays a half-caste native of a tropical island.

"SPEAKEASY" NOISY IN ALDINE

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Speakeasy," current in the Aldine, is about the loudest thing we have had in the sound screen line to date. It, in reality, is a noisy jargon of New York life. The subways roar, motor-car horns toot, fight fans yell and revolvers bark and spit deadly fire. In between all this noise the characters move and talk.

The story concerns a prize fighter's comeback and his romance with a woman newspaper reporter. Paul Page and Lola Lane, young recruits from the legitimate stage, essay these roles. Rather well they do, too. Mr. Page is easy to take as a hero. And Lola is a very pretty girl and quite talented. Also she is quite a runner. She is called upon to do the marathon act twice. First, she speeds and dodges vehicle traffic in a dash to reach her sweetheart, whom she believes has been injured. Then, 500 or so film feet later, she does a repeat in an effort to get to his side and the ringside in Madison Square Garden.

A RUNNING HEROINE

Incidentally, it is that latter run that saves the day. Paul, fighting to regain the championship crown, is getting a terrible beating when Lola races down the aisle to the ringside. "I love you, Paul," she says. And you should see Paul when he hears that. He wallops his opponent to the floor—once, twice, thrice, with the opponent staying out the third time. Then comes the final fadeout with Paul and Lola in the favorite movie clinch and the crowd "hollering" gleefully.

Of course, there is nothing original about this latest movie boxing bout. Its climax fails to thrill because we have seen many heroines make timely arrivals at screen ringsides before.

MR. WALTHALL'S GESTURE

As the title indicates a speakeasy has a lot to do with the story. It is there that Lola first meets Paul. She is there to get a story from him. It is there also that Henry B. Walthall, as a tune-tinkler, meets his death in a noble gesture to save the heroine. With one hand he pounds terrific music out of a piano, while, with the other, he plugs lead into a crooked fight manager, the villain of the piece. A little later he is filled with lead himself by gunmen pals of the man he shoots.

There's quite a lot of melodrama and some exciting episodes in the picture. And don't forget the noise! What we like most about the film is a dummy telephone booth entrance to the speakeasy. What we dislike most is the gentleman who represents the latest movie version of a newspaper editor.

The bill includes a number of short sound screen specialties and a talking Hal Roach comedy that is as funny a short comedy as you've seen in a long time.

Grand Retains 'Desert Song'

"The Desert Song," the movie translation of the stage operetta, is being seen in the Grand for a third and final week. Carlotta King and John Boles play and sing the romantic leads. The picture features desert scenes, love and songs. There are dancing ensembles and singing choruses.

All-Screen Bill In Harris June 10

The showing of talk and sound pictures to run for a full week in the Harris is to begin next Monday, June 10. The premiere picture in this period will be "Mother's Boy," a singing, talking production in which the tenor, Morton Downey, is starred. Downey sings about a dozen songs during the action. As customary in the Harris, performances will be continuous from noon until 11:30 each day. In addition to "Mother's Boy" the screen program will include Clark and McCullough, vaudeville and musical comedy stars, in a new sound comedy, "In Holland;" short fables, Movietone News and other features.

3 Injured at Cresson In Bus-Truck Crash

ALTOONA, Pa., June 4.—(AP.)—Three persons were injured in the collision of a westbound Greyhound bus with a truck at Cresson, Cambria County. C. W. Thomas, Johnstown, truck driver, suffered a severe head wound and Lester Hatch, Sioux City, Ia., bus driver, and an unidentified passenger had minor injuries. The collision occurred at the bottom of a long grade as the bus was slowing down to pick up a passenger.

BIG RINGLING SHOW THRILLS WITH EXHIBITIONS OF MARVELS OF ARENA

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS.

"'TWAS away last spring, I think in May, that old Si Hubbard to me did say, 'I hear there's a circus a' coming to town, so let's both go and see the clown.' So we sold our oats and hay and corn, in fact we 'most cleaned out the barn, and when that circus came around, we two were the first one's on the ground."

The old comic song, beginning thus, of interminable length, goes on to relate the many adventures of Silas and Abner, who had a corking good time. But Si and Ab were old timers and did not have half the fun they'd have had they held crops until now and expended them upon the wonders of the Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey combined shows, which gave the first performances of a two-day exhibition on a lot in Penn avenue, near Fifth avenue, yesterday afternoon and last night. Sell-out audiences were thrilled.

ARENIC MAGIC IMPROVES

The arenic marvels of the day of Si and Ab, like everything else, have been modernized and speeded up to the zippy tempo of a time when airplanes look down on the road where a high bicycle frightened the horses of our two friends from the country as they drove into town to have a swell time watching the clown chase a "butterfly" which he never could catch.

Inventive clowns of the Ringling B. B. B. show have gone far past that simple device to trap laughs. They introduce all kinds of mechanical aids, including the steam roller that rolls over one of them and flattens him (at least, what the "undertakers" pick up is flat pattern of him), and a motor truck which rears up on its rear wheels like a balky horse, and a taxicab that falls apart and moves forward and backwards without the aid of a driver and lot of other devices guaranteed to make the Sphinx laugh. And the clowns, themselves, hordes of 'em, are all sizes from midgets to giants.

See "the" clown indeed! Why Si and Ab could see dozens of them now and laugh themselves sick.

ACROBATS 'N EVERYTHING

And the beautiful equestriennes on the snow white horses! And the beautiful trapeze performers 'way up at the top of the tent almost And the acrobats and everything! How they have improved in their technique, too. Some say that a circus is always the same—never changes. In one way that's true. The pattern is the same but the fabric is different—richer, more full of color, more pleasing.

Individual features of the big show in East Liberty are so numerous that they cannot conveniently be enumerated. Following a grand entry pageant, that is an entrancing sight, they are presented on four stages and three rings, all of which at times present similar acts, as well as in the air and on the track encircling the rings and stages.

PERFORMING ANIMALS

Performing elephants, horses, seals, dogs, zebras and even pigeons, create laughs and exclamations of "ah" as they appear with their trainers, who, you may be sure have done excellent jobs of teaching, the horses and seals especially arousing interest, the horses dancing and the seals doing such things as balancing themselves on their flippers as they balance balls on their noses.

Outstanding performances include those of the charming Lillian Leitzel, sporting on the flying rings and whirling herself over and over, and over and over, as she grasps a rope with one hand; the Mitzirose Sisters, mistresses of the art of riding; Hart Brothers, comedy acrobats; Miss Winifred leaping from a flying trapeze, high in the air, to a perpendicular rope; Lucita Beers, whirling over and over on a trapeze over the bar of which she locks her arms; Con Colleano, dancing merveloulsy and turning a forward somersault on the tight wire; and numerous other troupes and families of riders and acrobats and plastic posers and dancing girls all appearing in something that approaches fairyland.

"GOLIATH" LIKES FISH

"Goliath," the monster sea elephant, again is a feature this year, being hauled around the arena on a heavy truck drawn by four horses. Goliath likes fish and eats about two bucketsful as he journeys around the track. Then, too, there is the elephant that carries its trainer around the interior of the tent, holding man from the ground by enveloping his head in its mouth.

These are but a few of the marvels of the big show, which has the usual interesting menagerie exhibition and sideshows, say nothing of the wild west show and rodeo, given "immediately after the main show, ladies and gentlemen, and the agents will now pass among you to dispose of tickets, which are only 25 cents."

SOCIETY

Billie Dove, appearing on the Stanley screen in "Careers," which has a dramatic background with romance.

STENOG

Jacqueline Logan is stenographer and the romantic interest in "The Bachelor Girl," movie in Enright.

Young Collier Enright Star

William Collier, Jr., and Jacqueline Logan make love and ride on a roller-coaster in "The Bachelor Girl," current photoplay in the Enright. In the film, William begins as a shipping clerk with a clothing firm. After bluffing his way into high-salaried job and flirting his way into high society, he ends up as a shipping clerk again. Miss Logan is seen as an efficient secretary who loves William, but who becomes engaged to marry a wealthy business man. But she doesn't, of course, it being obvious from the beginning that she and Mr. Collier were made for each other. The picture mixes talk and silent episodes. Thelma Todd is seen in a sort of vampish role. The best thing about the production, which is a very ordinary film, is young Mr. Collier.

On the stage Dick Powell is celebrating his birthday. He leads his band, sings a song or so and introduces several featured entertainers, who help with the fun. Harriet Hilliard, personality girl, is prominent. The Enright Rockets also appear. A silent screen comedy, featuring Ben Turpin, and an organlogue also are on the bill.

BILLIE DOVE EMOTES IN STANLEY

David Broudy supplies the best feature of the Stanley's bill this week with a colorful arrangement of the popular Barcarolle from the "Tales of Hoffmann," and a Venetian scene that closes with a silken-sailed caravel coming into port. It is a gorgeous picture and Offenbach's music is music.

Charles Melson's soiree is entitled "Campus Frolics," introducing student jaunts, songs and yells. The closing skit of the installment collectors who collect the various parts of Herr Melson's apparel is especially amusing.

BILLIE DOVE FLUTTERS

The talking film presents Billie Dove in a panting emotional role that is modeled on the famous Tosca who wielded such a wicked paper-knife. Billie is the wife of a French diplomat in Cochin-China or some such place, where Noah Beery is the wicked resident who doesn't promote his underlings unless their wives prove amiable and compliant. Billie flutters frantically and Noah leers and laughs sardonically, while Antonio Moreno looks very romantic as the husband. When a murder is committed there are fade-outs to keep you guessing—but anyway the right man was murdered, so who cares by whom it was done?

MUSIC AND FUN

Very good entertainment is furnished by a buffoon who plays conductor when Melson isn't looking, and there are two comedians who extract melody of a kind from carpet-sweepers and tire-pumps. The usual quota of acrobatic dancers, warblers of sentimental ballads, well-trained chorus maids in festive garb, etc., fill in the bill, while Bernie Armstrong gives his singing class a music lesson. Now we know what sharps and flats are.

Musicians Top Sheridan Show

Dorothy Bush and a group of six musicians, billed as the Del Monte Blue Dogs, present syncopation on the Sheridan Square stage. An all-talking picture, "Hearts in Dixie," termed a "symphony of the Southland," is the screen feature. Another stage act is offered by Sylvia Miller, radio star, making her first appearance in Pittsburgh. Ray and Stone offer comedy in their act, "Late Stars of Nothing." Short screen entertainment is on the bill.

Man, Shot, Offers Reward for Gunman

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 4.—Believing that efforts of police to find the persons who shot him two years ago have ceased, L. W. York, local resident, has announced a reward of $1,000 for their apprehension.

York was shot in March, 1927, while standing on a street corner. The bullet came from an automobile bearing two men and a woman. He knew no reason for the attack.

As a result of his wound, York had to have a leg amputated.

"They ruined my life," he said, "and I want them prosecuted."

Weather Conditions.

High pressure covers practically the entire interior of the country this morning in the form of a wide ridge extending from the Canadian Northwest southeastward to the Atlantic Coststates. It is attended by clear skies, generally, and moderately cool. The temperatures, however, are slightly higher than yesterday morning over the entire northern half of the country.

Relatively low pressure occupies the country west of the Rocky Mountains, but there is no well defined storm center on the map. The rainfall since yesterday morning was light and was limited to scattered places along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, and to the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling. Stage at Pittsburgh is 12.0 feet; Dam No. 2, 7.4; Dam No. 6, 8.7; Dam No. 9, 9.5, and Dam No. 12, 3.0 feet. The dams are up.

"Snake-drivers," that species which wiggles in and out of traffic without regard for safety, were denounced in a statement issued by C. H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor Club.

"WOULD THAT I HAD KNOWN OF KONJOLA SOONER"

Months of Pain and Misery Brought to Happy End by New and Different Medicine.

"What is there about this new Konjola that everyone is talking about it?" Every day that question is asked wherever Konjola is known, and no wonder, for the news of Konjola's victories spreads rapidly, as this new and different medicine triumphs when all else tried has failed.

MISS ISABELLE HARRISON

Remember this: no medicine ever became famous through promises. Konjola has won matchless fame not with promises, but by its deeds. Here is a medicine that brings results, quickly and to last. Get the facts about this super-remedy of 32 ingredients, 22 of which are the juices of roots and herbs. Meet the Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where daily he is telling the wonderful story of this wonderful remedy for the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and for rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Learn how Konjola appears at its very best when pitted against the obstinate cases that have baffled, resisted and defied every other medicine tried. Hear of case after case in which this super-compound has given the only relief. Know what Konjola does, and then decide what you will do about Konjola. Surely it means much to all who suffer to know that more than three million bottles of Konjola were used in one State in four months. A medicine that can make a record like that must have merit. That is the one secret of Konjola's astounding success — it has MERIT.

As an example of Konjola at work, read the statement of Miss Isabelle Harrison, 705 Arch St., Pittsburgh, who said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

"Would that I had known of Konjola sooner; what pain and expense it could have saved me. For months I suffered from disorders of the kidneys and liver. Sharp pains pierced the kidney region and all through my back a dull, sickening ache was always present. My limbs and feet were so swollen that I could hardly get my shoes on, and at times I had to sit down until the pain eased up. I had frequent dizzy spells, which kept coming at shorter intervals, and black specks danced before my eyes. Naturally, my general health declined, and to make matters all the worse, I failed in every attempt to find relief.

"Just about this time, when I was greatly discouraged, I decided to try Konjola, about which I had heard so much. That turned out to be a wise decision. Konjola went to work without delay, and mighty soon I was convinced that I had found the right medicine at last. Gradually but surely my liver and kidneys were whipped into condition. The pains faded away; swelling subsided and the dizzy spells ceased. In three weeks, with all my health problems solved by Konjola, I felt like shouting for joy. Gladly do I indorse Konjola."

Konjola comes, not with claims and promises, but stands alone on its merits; on a foundation of deeds actually accomplished. Konjola brings a great reward to those who put their faith in its power.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine.

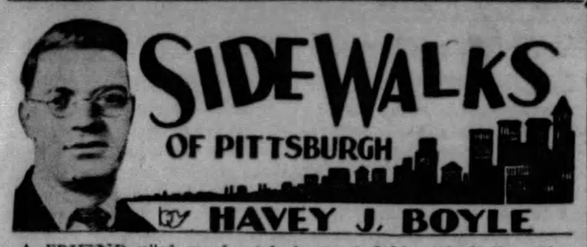
TWO CHILDREN RUN DOWN BY AUTOMOBILES



SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

A FRIEND called me by telephone at 6:30 o'clock the other morning and started the conversation by saying: "I hope I didn't get you out of bed." He probably thought that around 6:30 in the morning most men are out cutting the grass or taking a bicycle ride. The idea that a man might be still in bed struck my friend, probably, as too fantastic to entertain.

In a baseball game the other day a manager who probably gets $20,000 or more for a year of six months' work rushed up to the umpire, said a few words in anger, and was ordered from the diamond.

Long have baseball heads been worried by these affairs with umpires. A solution might come from different apparel and new properties. Take those short pants off the manager, give him a cutaway coat and striped pants, and he'd never think of running out in front of a crowd of 25,000 persons to heckle an umpire. His new uniform would give him a larger sense of dignity.

If you made him wear a silk hat and made the penalty for an argument the knocking off of his hat by the umpire, such delays in the progress of the game would be eliminated.

It's the short pants that make the baseball boys insist on being boys.

Whether the umpire in baseball is always right or always wrong, or alternates between right and wrong, I can never tell, but it's always a queer sight to see the fans cheer the umpire when the visiting player squawks, and always denounce the umpire when it is a home player who voices a grievance.

Baseball would lose some of its native flavor without the old theme song: "Kill the umpire," but on the side of fairness something might be gained.

A YOUTHFUL policeman was elated over his transfer from a dull district to a lively one. "In that other place," he said, "there was nothing doing at all. Everyone was orderly. Why in my new job I've made four arrests in the last week and one of the victims in a cutting scrape may die."

In a Smithfield street store there are on sale those articles that a great many of us always promise ourselves we'll buy, but we never quite get around to it. There are clothes hooks made of rubber, cigars of the trick variety, puzzles and pocket mirrors whose back carries the face of a colored man, into whose mouth you try to place small balls to fill in for teeth. No visitor but who stops and surveys the large display, but the sales are few. The proprietor depends on such conventional sales as tobacco, combs and pocket knives. I happened into the store on the lookout for a red top and a new string. The button on the old string broke just recently.

IN THE new charter to make Pittsburgh metropolitan let's hope there's a provision for a restaurant or two with metropolitan atmosphere. There should be a restaurant in town where you go in, look over a tank of fish and select the one you want to have prepared for your dinner. There should be another where the ice box is on display and where you select therefrom the steak or chop you want cooked. In one of these places there should be a few tables covered with red and white blocked table cloths. Finally there should be two or three waiters who take out their own tips. With one or two exceptions, our restaurants are modelled after small town and not metropolitan eating places.

One restaurant in town which specializes in sandwiches, gargantuan affairs of three layers, does not serve chicken sandwiches.

FLAG WINNERS WIND UP VISIT TO BOSTON

After Cardinal's Reception 36 Champions Depart for Saratoga and West Point

BOSTON, Mass., June 4.—After a wonderful day in Boston, during which the 36 regional flag champions in the first annual flag contest of the United States Flag Association visited many places of historic interest, including Bunker Hill Monument, the home of Paul Revere, Old North Church, Lexington, Concord and Cambridge, and were received by His Eminence William Cardinal O'Connell.

They were guests of the new B. F. Keith Theater at a theater party last night.

Yesterday was the outstanding day of the patriotic pilgrimage so far. The boys and girls were tremendously impressed at the reception they received at the home of Cardinal O'Connell, and were enthusiastic in their praise of the theater party. Immediately after the theater party they left from Back Bay Station on the flag champion special in private Pullmans for Albany, N. Y. Today they are to tour the historic battleground at Saratoga, scene of the decisive battle of the Revolutionary War.

After a journey to Peekskill, they will then board busses for West Point, a trip of 10 miles by way of the Bear Mountain Bridge.

An elaborate program has been arranged for the champions at West Point, including a parade by cadets.

IS 90, SEES FEW CHANGES

Mrs. Susannah Doty Cox, 90, doesn't think the world has improved a great deal except in the matter of scientific development. "People are the same" she said yesterday, her birthday, "but times have changed."

The radio is Mrs. Cox's chief diversion. She sits for hours before the loud speaker in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ida B. Miller, 206 Shady avenue, where friends thronged to her side yesterday to extend congratulations.

Mrs. Cox is a direct descendant of Edward Doty who came over on the Mayflower. She was born near Ithaca, O., and came to this city in 1903. The aged woman is a member of the Shady Avenue Presbyterian Church and hardly a Sunday passes that she does not attend either Sunday school or church services, most of the time both.

Circus Man Clubbed, Assailant Sought

Clarence Gordon, 36, a Negro, of Philadelphia, an employe of the Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey Circus, Fifth and Penn avenues, suffered a fracture of the skull last night when struck with a club by a fellow worker, police said. Gordon was taken to the Pittsburgh Hospital and a search is being conducted for his assailant.

Parking Space 'Sold' Near Circus Grounds

Ben David, 35, of New York, was arrested at Fifth avenue and Beechwood boulevard last night when police say they discovered him selling parking space on the Mellon baseball field at 50 cents a car to motorists going to the circus. He was held as a suspicious person.

Rush to See Circus Looms With Closing Tonight

With two more chances to see the fun, several thousand persons who last night were turned away from the Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey circus at Fifth and Penn avenues, were ready to make a grand rush for the big tent at the two performances today.

Although the circus arrived in town on the coldest June 3 in many years, the weather failed to check the enthusiasm of at least 35,000 men, women and children who during the day and last night jammed the grounds.

It is unlikely that any exhibition of its kind ever was surpassed on a circus ground in Pittsburgh. From the opening of the doors for the special morning performance, when 13,000 children, guests of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, crowded into the main tent, until the last clown made his farewell bow at the night performance, the "Greatest Show on Earth" held everybody under a spell.

Nor were the sideshows ignored by the milling throngs. While long lines waited for admission to the main show, many of whom were unable to gain admittance, the freaks and wild men, fat ladies and what not received their share of attention.

Zero Hour in Baby Hippo Naming Arrives

The deadline approaches for the nameless hippo. At 6 p. m. tomorrow the name for the newest inmate of Highland Park Zoo will be in one of hundreds of letters in the Sun-Telegraph office.

And when the name is selected the grade schoolboy or girl (this contest is confined to them) who picked the best designation will receive a present of $25 from this newspaper.

Interesting and varied have been the names thus far submitted. The common fault has been to submit lengthy names. Short, descriptive names are better fitted, the judges pointed out.

All suggestions must be received before 6 p. m. Wednesday. The attached ballot is for your suggestion.

MOTHER AND HER BOY

MORTON DOWNEY BERYL MERCER

"Tommy O'Day" and his mother as they appear in "Mother's Boy." The Sun-Telegraph today announces a contest open to all with a prize for the five single words best telling the most five desirable qualities of a model son.

Mothers of Boys Asked To Describe Ideal Son

What five qualities, each expressed in a single word, denote a mother's boy?

What single virtue, above all others, does the ideal mother believe her ideal boy should possess, and why?

Mothers of boys are invited to answer these questions which are inspired by a film "Mother's Boy," which opens June 10 at the Harris Theater. The contest opens with this announcement and all entries must be in by next Saturday midnight. The awards to be made to the winners follow:

FIRST PRIZE .....$25 in Cash
SECOND PRIZE ....$15 in Cash
THIRD PRIZE .....$10 in Cash
FOURTH PRIZE, theater box (12 seats) for "Mother's Boy," at the Harris Theater.

The rules of this contest are simple: On Question 1: What five qualities, each expressed in a single word, denote a mother's boy? It is necessary to write down only the five words. On the second question: What single virtue, above all others, does the ideal mother believe her ideal boy should possess, and why? it is only necessary to write the single word and THEN GIVE THE REASON IN ONE SENTENCE OF NOT MORE THAN 15 WORDS, telling WHY this virtue is selected. Your reason is very important for in the event the same virtue is selected, the best REASON will decide.

Write on one side of a sheet of paper and be sure to put your name and address on it. The decision of a committee of judges selected by the Sun-Telegraph is final, and in the event of a tie duplicate prizes will be paid winners. Address all letters to Mother's Boy Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh.

Will Rogers Says

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 4.

We crossed states yesterday just like you cross street intersections—Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California. Into the airport at 4 in the afternoon.

After being away a long time, how can anyone stand to come home any other way?

I never saw as much airplane activities in my life as I have seen from St. Louis west. Millions of dollars being spent on fields and hangars and equipment.

Well, what do you think I come home and run into? The Shriners' convention is being held in Beverly Hills this year. It's worse than a Democratic convention.

Haven't seen any papers. Did Congress help anybody yet?

Yours,

WILL.

Italy Gives King Of Albania Nice New Throne

DURAZZO, Albania, June 4.—(AP.)—A magnificent golden throne and throne room for the new summer palace of King Zogu overlooking Durazzo Bay was presented to him yesterday by King Victor Emmanuel through Premier Mussolini.

The throne room is finished in marble, bronze and walnut. The ceiling is embellished with panels embossed with the double headed eagles of the national arms of Albania. The throne of walnut is finished with gold and colonnades of porphyry on either side surmounted by allegorical figures of justice and power holding a huge golden crown.

DIPLOMAS GIVEN DESPITE ROW

DES MOINES, Ia., June 4.—(AP.)—Sixty seniors of Des Moines University were granted diplomas yesterday under a court injunction which restrained trustees from closing the institution.

The exercises were in charge of Dr. Harry C. Wayman, president, who, with his entire faculty, was dismissed by the trustees. Under terms of the injunction, however, the dismissal did not become effective until today.

Despite the upheaval in the school following a meeting of the trustees May 11, the commencement program contained but occasional references to the disturbances, which included, besides dismissal of the faculty, a student riot during which the trustees were egged and Dr. T. T. Shields, board president, was forced to leave town, under police protection.

The commencement speakers were Deans E. O. Calloway and Arthur E. Bennett, of the university. Dr. Wayman referred to the action of Dr. Shields and the board secretary, Miss Edith M. Rebman, neither of whom signed the diplomas, in registering at a Grinnell, Ia., hotel under assumed names over the week-end following the burning of a cross on the campus. The blanks for their names were filled instead by those of the deans and that of Miss Minnie Rice, registrar.

The commencement ended merely a part of the battle for control of the school. The trustees still have to conduct an investigation into the rock and egg demonstration and into the eligibility of the seniors for the diplomas issued. Whether the result of such an investigation will have a bearing on the degrees issued is a matter of conjecture.

200 Horses on Way For Sewickley Show

More than 200 horses from nine states and Canada will arrive in Sewickley today and tomorrow for the Allegheny County Club Horse Show in Sewickley Heights Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Among the entries will be a number of blue ribbon winners of other shows.

Rum Case Favoritism Laid to U. S. Judge

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 4.—(AP.)—The Commercial Appeal says today that Lindsay B. Phillips, federal district attorney at Memphis, has placed complaints before the Department of Justice at Washington, charging that Federal Judge Harry B. Anderson has favored "certain attorneys" in the disposal of liquor cases in his court here.

The district attorney, in a recent conference with justice officials at Washington, complained because of appointments Judge Anderson has made to the federal jury venire. One account of a conversation between Phillips and the judge which is said to have occurred when Judge Anderson learned of the charges and called Phillips to his office, describes a stormy scene between the two.

Coolidge Sprains Left Arm in Fall While Fishing

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., June 4.—(INS.)—Calvin Coolidge was wearing his left arm in a sling today. The former President sprained his arm during a fishing trip in Goshen in the Berkshire hills.

The fact that the former President was injured did not become known until late yesterday, when he appeared at his law office. The explanation was made that while fishing in a brook for trout he slipped on a bank and fell, spraining the arm slightly. However, he was engaged at his desk in his law office.

Earle Files Answer To Dancer's Charges

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—(AP.)—Ferdinand Pinney Earle, internationally known artist, has filed an answer to Dolores Salazar's $180,000 breach of promise suit. He said he is a resident of Paris, France, and therefore not under the jurisdiction of the Los Angeles courts.

Earle, who is known as "Affinity Earle" because of previous similar court actions, denied he promised to marry the dancer or to give her a large sum of money. Miss Salazar charged Earle took her to France and abandoned her there and that he wrote her passionate love letters. She filed attachments on Earle's Hollywood property.

Brutal Sales Policies

Brutal and dangerous sales policies of competitors, working an inhuman hardship on the sorely tried tobacco trade, cannot halt the success of Lucky Strike. Lucky Strike, the choice of experts, is now the favorite of millions. Public testimony of those whose voices are precious, of those who keep trim, of those who prize the slender figure of fashion, and 20,679* physicians substantiate the benefits of the secret toasting process. The quality of Lucky Strike merits public approval as it won expert commendation.

"A MOST DELICIOUS DRINK"

"AND SO INVIGORATING"

Now Science adds a third superiority to the new-style Hires—nourishment. Hires becomes the most unique beverage of all—a delightful energizer . . . at all soda fountains and from Hires Barrels.

Posed as "THE SPRINTER" a classic Greek attitude to be found in various statues, G. R. Reed, of New York City, is a splendid modern example of buoyant health and vitality.

Now all who drink Hires get more than a wonderful flavor, more than the tonic reaction from the juices of its 16 rare roots, herbs, barks and berries.

For over 50 years Hires has appealed as a thirst-quencher and natural bracer—pure, free from drugs. Soothing, restorative.

But today's new Hires offers a plus value: nourishment.

A wonderful discovery showed how to include Vitamin B and Calcium in Hires, two needed food elements lacking in many diets nowadays, possibly in yours, yet so necessary for complete, buoyant health.

Now these sustaining, balancing foods are an added reason for drinking Hires—the protective beverage.

End fatigue, attain new vigor, feel infinitely better, by drinking 3 glasses of Hires daily, and sufficient other pure liquids. Counteract acidity. Correct your unbalanced diet. Avoid malnutrition. The 18 plant juices and food elements in Hires are scientifically approved.

Hires supplies the missing health needs which are lacking in the ordinary, refined foods—the average meal of white bread, meat, potatoes, and over-cooked vegetables.

What could be a more delightful, appetizing way to virile health? What an easy way to get Vitamin B.

After a month of drinking 3 glasses of Hires daily, note your new, buoyant condition, how foods are better digested, how nerves are quieted, how vitality is recreated.

Free from drugs—utterly pure—

Hires does not contain caffein, tannic acid or any other harmful or habit-forming drugs. No capsicum or red pepper to irritate the stomach. No artificial coloring or flavoring to hinder digestion. Hires is certified as pure by a leading research laboratory. No artificial stimulants. Hires is 100% natural, beneficial ingredients.

W. VA. PRESENTS 476 DEGREES

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., June 4.—(AP.)—Election of J. Williams Cummins, of Wheeling, speaker of the house of delegates, as president to succeed R. R. Talbott, of Philippi, marked the annual meeting of the West Virginia University Alumni Association here yesterday. I. B. Bush, of Charleston, was named vice-president, and Robert Hennen, of Morgantown, treasurer. F. Roy Yoke is the full-time alumni secretary.

Plans for a more adequate financial system for the association were discussed. A meeting of the stockholders of the Alumni Student Loan Association for the election of directors and the appointment of a loan committee was authorized. The association assists students with small loans during their collegiate career.

The class of 1879 was honored on the occasion of its fiftieth anniversary. Dr. S. S. Wade, of Morgantown, was the only member of the class present. There is one other survivor, but he was unable to attend.

The secretary's report showed he had addressed more than 25,000 persons in the state and nearby territory during the past year in the interests of the university. Prof. Bush, the new vice-president, urged a more active participation by the alumni in university affairs.

Accepting the presidency, Mr. Cummins pledged his efforts for the best interests of the university, the Alumni Association and the program of President John Roscoe Turner of West Virginia U.

The sixty-second annual commencement exercises will be held today, with Gov. William G. Conley delivering the address. A class of 476 will receive degrees.

CLAIRTON MAN VICTIM OF GAS

Suffered From Stomach and Bowel Disorders; Ten Herbs Restored Health.

The great and ever-growing popularity of the new natural medicine, Ten Herbs, is evoking much comment from the people of this section, where this amazing preparation with the ten wonderful herbal ingredients has helped thousands of men and women back to normal health and strength. Ten Herbs is giving sufferers from stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders such remarkable relief that it is probably the most talked-of medical compound that has ever been sold in this city. Every day more and more health-seeking persons are calling at May's Main Store, Fifth and Liberty, Pittsburgh, where this famous medicine is being introduced.

MR. E. G. KUHN

"Ten Herbs did wonders for me," said Mr. E. G. Kuhn, millworker, 235 Penn Ave., Clairton, Pa. (near Pittsburgh). "My stomach became so badly disordered that food would not digest properly. Gas would form and almost suffocate me at times. I also had gas pains. I lost all desire for food; in fact, I was afraid to eat much because of the distress that indigestion would cause. At times my whole digestive system seemed to fail me. I was subject to severe dizzy spells, and constipation compelled me to resort to laxatives all the time. I was getting in a weak, rundown condition.

"I read about Ten Herbs in the papers, and finally decided to try this medicine. It made a great change for the better in me. I was completely relieved of stomach trouble—all gas pains disappeared. My appetite became very good. My bowels were regulated, and I gained freedom from dizzy spells. I give Ten Herbs credit for my improved health."

Ten Herbs helps Nature help you—makes you feel like your real self again, by cleansing and toning up your whole system. It also relieves rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

Ten Herbs is being introduced at May's Main Store, Fifth and Liberty, Pittsburgh, and is sold at all May's Drug Stores.

"A SICK MAN HAS NO CHANCE"

Big, Hearty Italian Mine Worker Relates Amazing Experience.

No one would ever guess from looking at Peter Gallo, Ford City, Pa., that he had ever had a day of sickness in his life. He looks as strong as three ordinary men and he is. No one would ever think that until about a year ago he had been a weak, discouraged invalid. Here is his own story in his own words:

"I was in good health when I first came to this country. But soon I got catarrh while working in the mines and the catarrh poison spread over my body. The droppings poisoned my stomach and I got no good from food when I tried to eat. For years I was so weak and sickly that I could not do any steady work. My food seemed not to digest and I would swell up after eating and I had to take different kinds of medicine to make my bowels move, and I was so short of breath all the time. I had left my wife and baby back home in Italy and I longed to see them. But I could not make enough money to bring them over here or even enough money to pay my own passage back. I lost heart entirely and despaired of ever seeing my wife and child again. A sick man has no chance. Nobody wants to give him work and if he gets a job he can't hold it.

"When I was so miserable that I had given up all hope and expected only to die, here, alone, and in a strange land, a friend told me about World's Tonic. Ordinary American medicines had never done me any good. But I soon found World's Tonic is different. World's Tonic is compounded of remedies brought from many parts of the world. That is why it is so amazingly helpful to men of different races. To us Italians it is as good as a trip back home.

"I grew better and stronger from the first dose of World's Tonic. At the end of three weeks I got a steady job and I have never lost a day from illness since. Soon I had enough money to send for my family. Now we have a nice home and a fine new baby. I owe it all to World's Tonic."

World's Tonic is on sale at Dow's, formerly McCulloch's, also May's and all other modern drug stores.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Many Parties Planned for Ellen Page

THE procession of June brides has started—would you mind if I called it "Sweethearts on Parade"?—and with nearly every day that passes we are able to add one or two more to the line. There was Margaret McClintic's marriage to George H. Love yesterday afternoon to give the week an excellent start, and other weddings are planned for nearly every day.

Not only the weddings are attracting interest. There are all the parties for the girls who are being married, and during this week quite a few are planned in honor of Ellen Page, daughter of the Benjamin Pages, of Colonial place, who will become Mrs. Samuel Durand Ringsdorf Monday. Tomorrow afternoon, Ellen's cousin, Mrs. Louis R. Schmertz, Jr., the former Marcia LeMoyne, will give a jam and jelly shower in her home in Shady avenue. And in the evening, Oliver Evans is going to give a supper in his home in South Negley avenue for Ellen and Mr. Ringsdorf.

Ellen's aunt and uncle, Dr. and Mrs. Frederic T. Billings, of Wallingford street, are planning to give a swimming party Friday afternoon and evening in the pool at their summer place, Fox Valley, on the Fox Chapel road, and the next evening, Saturday, that is, Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. LeMoyne, Ellen's uncle and aunt, will be hosts at dinner in the Pittsburgh Golf Club. Wilhelmina Balken, who is to be one of the bridesmaids at the wedding, will give a breakfast Sunday morning in the Golf Club and that night Mr. and Mrs. F. LeMoyne Page will entertain with a supper at their cabin on the Fox Chapel road.

MARGARET M'CLINTIC, who is, you know, the daughter of the Howard Hale McClintics, of Beechwood boulevard, and George Hutchinson Love, son of Joseph K. Love, of Johnstown, were married at 5:30 o'clock in Calvary Episcopal Church by the rector, the Rev. Dr. Edward J. Van Etten. Masses of blue and pink hydrangeas, together with ferns, banked the altar.

Margaret was given away by her father, and she wore a gown of ivory satin made on straight lines, with a yoke and long sleeves of old rose point lace. Her veil, caught with a cap of lace, fell over a court train of the satin, and she carried an armful of Calla lilies.

The former Mary Louise Johnson, who is now Mrs. Raymond Ford Moreland, and who returned just a short time ago from her wedding trip, was the matron of honor, and she wore orchid chiffon with a horsehair braid hat to match. And the bridesmaids, Anna Knevals Childs, Eleanor Graham Croft, Mary R. Oliver and Margaret W. Stewart, appeared in hydrangea blue chiffon with the horse-hair braid hats in the same color. All the girls carried bouquets of spring flowers.

Jennings K. Love was his brother's best man and the ushers included Howard Hale McClintic, Jr., Robert H. McClintic and Stewart McClintic, Margaret's brothers; Edward H. Jennings, Jr., James M. Bovard, John S. Hess, Raymond Ford Moreland, Lewis R. Schmertz, Jr., and Walton Scully, all Pittsburgh men; Charles H. Dennehy and Donald B. Lourie, of Chicago; William R. Kent and John R. Westerfield, of New York; John E. Love, of Johnstown; Kenneth Drummond and Paul D. Moser, of St. Louis.

After the ceremony there was a reception in the McClintic home, with the bridal table placed in a small marquee adjoining the house. This table was decorated in white and gold, with ivory candles and a centerpiece of gardenias, white orchids and lilies of the valley. A larger marquee housed the tables for the other guests, and in the garden between the two were tables placed under huge umbrellas.

Mr. and Mrs. Love are planning a trip abroad and when they return they will make their home here in Pittsburgh.

ANOTHER wedding of yesterday took place over East, when a Pittsburgh man took a Gotham girl for his bride. This was the marriage of Evelyn Fahnestock, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Fahnestock, of Fifth avenue and Shadow Brook Farm, Shrewsbury, N. J., and George S. Steele, son of the Frederick Hall Steeles, of Pittsburgh. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock in St. Thomas' Church by the Rt. Rev. Ernest M. Stires, bishop of Long Island, assisted by the rector, the Rev. Dr. Roelif H. Brooks. The Fahnestock family has long been identified with St. Thomas', and the reredos back of the altar is a memorial to the late Mr. and Mrs. Harris C. Fahnestock, grandparents of the bride. Evelyn's sister, Mildred, was married to Charles R. Beattie last June in the same church, and she was matron of honor at yesterday's wedding.

The bride wore ivory satin and her veil is an heirloom in the family. Her bridesmaids included Susan Todd, Sarita Weekes, Clara Legg, Elizabeth Callaway, Ruth Peck and Lavinia Riker, all of New York. Peter Schladermundt was best man and the ushers were E. Ritzema Perry, Lawrence Phillips, Charles R. Beattie, Henry Putnam, Samuel Riker, Jr., and Ellery S. Husted. A reception in the Fahnestock home followed the ceremony.

Lee Club Presents Guest With Gift

TWO new classes, one for magazine review and the other for current events, will be formed in the Congress of Clubs next season. This bit of interesting information was passed on to the Lee Community Club yesterday by the Congress president, Mrs. Ralph W. Johnston. The Lee Club had its annual luncheon in the Congress clubhouse with Mrs. A. J. Rogers and Mrs. Johnston as the honor guests. Mrs. Rogers, who served the club on almost every one of its committees, is leaving Pittsburgh and in appreciation of her continuous services and as a farewell gift, she was presented with a watch bracelet. Mrs. Charles H. Richards, chairman for the day, also presented Mrs. Joseph G. Moorhead, the retiring president, with a platinum pin, set with an aqua marine.

A short program was presented by Mrs. Charles B. Bartley, who pleased her audience with several soprano numbers, and Mrs. R. N. Smith, whose readings were given with naturalness. Miss Mary Elizabeth Batschelet accompanied Mrs. Bartley. Among the guests was Mrs. Roy Adamson, a former member of the club, who now makes her home in Asheville, N. C., and Mrs. Adamson's flower-like little daughter, who was brought in for a minute or two to make the acquaintance of her mother's friends.

IN addition to the annual business meeting on June 20, the Aspinwall Woman's Club has a number of affairs on its calendar for the month. The literature and art department is having a luncheon today with Mrs. R. B. Saylor, Mrs. R. W. Crist, Mrs. Eleanore Duckwall and Mrs. J. E. Humes as hostesses. The committee on finance is arranging the sunshine luncheon for Thursday, when each member's admission ticket will be her "sunshine" offering for the first payment on the piano.

The annual dinner dance for the graduating class will be held Saturday night in charge of the school committee. Monday at noon, June 17, is set for an executive board meeting, and on the evening of that day the music department will entertain husbands and friends with a supper and stunt party. A meeting of the school committee is scheduled for June 18.

Eugenie Finds David Dead While Searching With Don After Storm

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Don Carlos Whiting goes to Hawaii after he discovers that his wife, Eve, is carrying on an affair with George Phillips, a neighbor. On landing in the island he is accosted by a native, David Nahuli, who offers him $2,000 for delivering a black bag. In carrying out this mission he meets Eugenie, Nahuli's white wife. Then in wandering about Don Carlos meets Selma Wilson, crippled mother of an unusual family, which includes a daughter, Ruth. The latter plans a companionate marriage with Al Harding, much to the disgust of her father, Big Tim Wilson. Nahuli orders him to carry the black bag again. Eugenie invites him to her cottage on Tantalus Hill. She tells him he has been delivering opium and warns him. Among revelations is that Nahuli forced her to marry him to save her father from prison. Don Carlos spends his time working on a play from which he expects success. He and Eugenie fall in love. On Ruth's wedding day Big Tim goes on a vacation—disgusted. Then David learns of the affair between his wife and Don Carlos. At a gay party Don Carlos thinks he hears a movement in the bushes and goes to investigate. Nahuli threatens him again. Later Eugenie tells him something terrible has happened.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXI.

"EUGENIE, tell me! What has happened? Have you come to any harm?

"Don't waste time now; come to the bungalow at once."

Through the blinding storm he drove the small coupe up the hillside to the gray bungalow and found a frightened, haggard woman awaiting him.

"Don Carlos, we must go at once."

"Go? Where, Eugenie? You can't go anywhere in this storm. What is it frightens you so?"

She muttered one single word:

"David!"

"David? What about him? Has anything happened to him? Tell me."

"Oh, he's dead—I know it. All night I heard his voice carried back to me on the wind; oh, the fearful wailing of it. I wonder how he met his God—David, who scoffed at everything while he was alive."

Don Carlos looked at her searchingly. There was madness—or was it fear—in the depths of her fascinating black eyes.

"I tell you we must go, Don Carlos, please." In her voice a note of entreaty.

"But, Eugenie, you must tell me. Where is it you want me to go?"

"Out to Makapuu Point."

"Makapuu? Impossible. Why, my dear, no car could go over those roads in this storm. Are you mad? What must you see?"

Again she muttered the one word through set lips: "David."

"What makes you think he is out in this storm? David Nahuli usually takes pretty good care of himself."

"But he is dead, I tell you. All night long I heard the wailing of his voice—of his spirit. It came back to me over the waves. We must find his body."

He attempted to soothe her; was successful in a measure; and broken bits of the story of the last three days fell from her lips.

"He was terribly angry—that night after the luau, Don Carlos. He—he frightened me. He—he has beaten me other nights; but this night—look." She showed him her arms, her throat, where deep black bruises marked the white flesh. Don Carlos flushed angrily. This was what the scream had meant, then.

"And then he tried to force me to do some of the dirty work for the ring. They were offering a huge sum of money for this delivery out at Makapuu. Beatings I have taken rather than do this. And so he beat me this night, finally, into unconsciousness. Of course, I was useless to him then. In a measure, I had won.

"In the dim lapses of returning consciousness which came to me that night I could see David handling vast sums of gold. Gold—gold everywhere it seemed; on tables, in little white sacks upon the floor; in his long, bronzed fingers. Nothing but gold.

"I thought it was a dream. Finally, I knew that it was real. David was sewing the gold into the lining of his coat; in the lining of his vest—$20 gold pieces.

"The rings are wary, they take nothing but gold. Could it be that he, himself was going to be the runner, now that I had escaped him because of the awful beating he had given me?

"The night passed; dawn came. When he finished concealing the gold pieces, he stuffed the coat and vest in a small grip and placed the remaining pieces in small bags in the pockets of his trousers and left the house. I had just enough strength to drag myself to the window; saw him go down the mountain path."

"But, Eugenie, perhaps he may still be alive. David Nahuli was too fond of his own life to risk it."

"But you don't know him as I do. There is a recklessness—a daring in him. If you don't go with me, I am going to get a car and drive out there myself. But—I'm going to know—and know today."

Don Carlos saw it was useless to argue with her. He forced her to put a wrap over her shoulders; together they went down the mountain path in the great swirling sheets of rain and climbed into the coupe.

Over roads that were washed out into deep ruts, over bridges that were a mass of splintered wood, they plunged. Far into the black, storm-riden night. Finally, the rocky coast of Makapuu Point. They could hear the pounding against the shore.

Eugenie opened the door of the coupe, ran out before Don Carlos could help her. Up and down the wave-washed shore of Makapuu she ran; stumbled, fell, gathered herself together. Seeking, always seeking the body of David Nahuli.

They spent the night huddled in a little hut out at Makapuu Point, where they found shelter. Dawn found them wide-eyed, haggard.

Dawn—the blood-red dawn of another tropical day. Dawn; revealing the beauty of the rocky shore line. And a clear, blue sky.

And then they found him. There upon the golden sands of Makapuu—driftwood cast upon the Shore of Life—the thing which has been called David Nahuli.

Gone was the hatred which she had felt for him all these years. One could not hate him now. One could only feel—intense pity.

They dragged him the short intervening space to the hut.

"I wonder," said Eugenie in her low voice that night, as they sat on her lanai in the warm tropical night, "just how David met his God in the dark lowering night."

It was like her, Don Carlos thought, to have so quickly forgotten the bitterness of all these past years. And by the same token this was not the time to tell her of his great love for her.

Not tonight, when her mind was full of memories past and present.

But there would come for them the Dawn of a Tomorrow; the rising of a new sun.

Little did he dream as he sat silently on the lanai of the gray bungalow that far off, on the mainland a fair haired girl lay on her rose-covered couch and dreamed of her triumphal re-entry into his life. George Phillips and Eve had come to THEIR parting of the ways.

PETTING PATTY

Not a Bit Jealous

PHILANDERING

By BERTHA R. M'DONALD

Daily Short Story

MARION GRAVES sat in the stuffy day coach of a west bound local, trying to gather courage to go about the plans she had made to become Mrs. Philander Hepburn, as soon as possible after reaching Merrivale, her old home town.

While she and Phil were still callow youths he had proposed to Marion and she had refused for several reasons. She, along with all those who knew Phil well, realized his utter selfishness and narrowness of mind and outlook. He was thrifty and saving but he had absolutely no personality and his appearance was anything but prepossessing. His small, pig-like eyes, set too close together in a long, narrow face, made his countenance almost grotesque. He shambled when he walked and slouched when he sat and his hair was of that indeterminate red shade that always looks soiled.

Neither Phil nor Marion had married. Phil still lived in bachelor solitude on the old place left him by his parents. It was reported that he had accumulated quite a bank account; also a reputation for standing to get something for nothing whenever it was possible.

Marion, the eldest of four children, had taken the self-imposed task of mothering the other three when their parents passed away. For a time, they, too, remained in Merrivale, but the moment the fledgelings showed signs of wanting to try their wings, Marion sold everything they had and moved the family to the city. The two boys were married now and Marion and her younger sister, Nan, kept house together in a cozy little apartment.

Marion had frowned on the advances of more than one splendid man because she felt it her duty to remain with Nan as long as Nan was single, but two nights before she had overheard a conversation between her sister and the man who wanted to marry Nan, which, in a breath had changed everything.

"It's no use arguing, Dick," she had heard Nan say. "I'm never going to marry. I'm all Marion has now. She gave up everything for the boys and me. If I leave her she'll be alone for I know as well as if I had heard her say it that she will never come to live with me."

"But dear," had come back Dick's answer with boyish eagerness, "I want her to live with us. You know I think a lot of Marion, Nan. Don't you love me?"

"Oh, Dick!" Nan had sighed. "I love you so much that it nearly kills me to think of giving you up."

It was then that thoughts and ideas and plans had come tumbling fast upon each other in Marion's mind. If she were safely married and put out of the way, Nan, her beautiful, darling sister, would take the happiness awaiting her. She thought of Phil Hepburn and his early desire to marry her. She knew that Phil was still single, so she resolved to go to Merrivale and literally throw herself at his head. Her old chum, Zeta Matthews, now Mrs. Tom Bellows, long had begged her to come to visit her and the time had come when Marion was very glad to accept Zeta's invitation.

The following day she had broached the subject to Nan, contriving to appear in dire need of a vacation of some kind. Nan fell in with the idea enthusiastically. She had brought out some of her prettiest clothes to make her beloved sister splendid for the visit; the piece de resistance being a lovely black velvet, touched up with a bit of coral. With what Nan lent her and the natty ensemble Nan had insisted on her buying some weeks before, Marion would indeed be elegant.

Now she was almost to Merrivale. She was looking forward to just one thing—being married or at least engaged to Phil Hepburn, and that solely because he seemed the only way out of a serious difficulty.

Zeta Bellows was very happy to have her old friend with her. When she hospitably asked Marion if there was anyone in particular she'd like to see, Marion answered without hesitation but much to Zeta's surprise, "Yes, Philander Hepburn, unless he's married."

"Married nothing!" was Zeta's laughing rejoinder. "He's so stingy and selfish he wouldn't think of taking on another mouth to feed. But I'll invite him to dinner. Phil's always on the lookout for a free meal."

In spite of Zeta's unpromising report, Marion's determination remained unchanged. She even went so far as to array herself in her plainest clothes, the day he was scheduled to dine with them, hoping thus to impress him with her thrift.

Her meeting with him emphasized every unprepossessing thing she had remembered about him and if he was at all moved by meeting the object of his youthful proposal, he showed no signs of it.

Marion smiled ironically when at last she was alone in her room that night. The man she had hoped to beguile with feminine fascination had even boasted that he needed no woman in his scheme of things. In a revulsion of spirit she resolved to erase him from the picture, but the next moment her thought flew to Nan and her firm little jaw tightened. She would make Phil Hepburn propose!

A few evenings later Tom Bellows brought a client home to dinner—the head of a Chicago factory now establishing a branch in Merrivale. Bruce Demming was all and everything a woman would find charming and it was patent from the start that he was particularly attracted to Marion. The attraction was mutual, but true to her determination, Marion kept her heart strings subjugated and devoted herself to Phil Hepburn, who with others had been invited to make a party.

That night she was disgusted with herself for the role she had assumed. She felt Bruce Demming's interest and it was given poignancy by the fact that her efforts to awaken some response from Phil went so plainly unrewarded.

The next week Bruce Demming drove his beautiful car to Merrivale and invited Marion to ride with him. She accepted, forgetting for the moment that she was in Merrivale for the express purpose of winning another man. The look in Demming's eyes sent a happy little quiver through her, but that evening, after he left, through the warming memory of his smiles there intruded thoughts of duty with which she flayed herself.

When Zeta, with an old friend's prerogative, took her to task for paying any attention whatever to an old frump like Phil Hepburn, when there was a man like Bruce Demming at hand, evidently to be had for the taking, Marion recalled that to date said frump had repulsed her every effort to be more than friendly, and she resolved to try a new tack. She would make Phil jealous.

Like a grub bursting from its chyrsalis, she began to lay aside her "thrift" clothes, appearing in turn in the various pretty things Nan had so generously loaned her. Immediately a change in Phil was apparent. Evidently her change of front was having effect.

"Well!" exploded Zeta one day, "I'm glad to see you waking up at last. You've been a blind little fool not to see that Bruce wants you and Phil doesn't."

Marion did not disclose the fact that all the new, butterfly ways and stunning clothes were being adopted in a new effort to snare Phil. Neither did she tell her friend that she still clung to hopes of Phil because she could not imagine how Bruce Demming could come to care for her seriously in so short a time. Yet, for the moment she threw herself into an abandonment of dressing to please Bruce, of thinking about Bruce, wondering if, perhaps, he might in time come to care for her.

It was the evening of the third party Zeta had given for Marion. Recklessly, her pulses quickened, rose tints flushing her pretty cheeks, eyes oddly alive and young, Marion arranged her hair in a distractingly becoming fashion.

She was like some rare picture painted by a great master. Phil Hepburn's mouth fairly hung open with amazement when he saw her.

Bruce Demming attached himself to her at once and never left her side. Soon he managed to detach himself and her from the rest, in a little sun den where Zeta kept her house plants. At the thrill of his touch, Marion's fluttering heart leaped up into her throat. Swiftly she lowered her eyes. Surely it couldn't be that Bruce really loved her! That his arms went about her and his lips found hers.

"Friends," Bruce said plainly, raising his voice to attract attention of the assembled guests, when he returned to the living room with Marion's hand in his, "allow me to present my bride-to-be."

Next morning, Nan Graves received a telegram announcing her sister's engagement. Next morning, too, Philander Hepburn accosted Zeta Bellows on her way to market and exploded peevishly. "Darn nice way to treat an old friend, I don't think! Making Marion wear all those duds when she first came, so's I wouldn't know she had money, just so's you could save her for that dude city friend of Tom's."

Would You Buy Milk This Way?

Would you go into a store today and buy milk right out of an open can? Certainly not.

Well, then, why go into a store and buy sugar in bulk? You can't even be sure it is cane sugar. You can't be sure it was properly refined. You can't be sure it hasn't collected dust and dirt.

But if you buy Jack Frost Sugar, packed for protection in the Blue Box, then you know you are getting 100% pure cane sugar, sugar which no human hand has touched in the refining process. Sugar which reaches you clean and fine and pure, sealed, untouched until you open it. Insist upon Jack Frost Granulated Sugar in the Blue Box.

Remember, there's a JACK FROST SUGAR for every purpose:

SPORT COMMENT

Triple Plays Less Rare. Grow in Recent Years. Two Unassisted Here.

Athletics' Long Drive. Gotham Teams Brace. Donoghue on Outsider.

GRIMES LEADS ALL MAJOR PITCHERS

TRIPLE plays such as that pulled by Thompson, Hurst and Friberg, of the Phillies, as a feature of the game in which Burleigh Grimes pitched his ninth consecutive victory of the year yesterday, are no longer the rarities they once were in the major leagues. True, they are not common, by any means, but whether due to the speed with which the rabbit ball travels to a field and the greater frequency with which hit-and-run plays are attempted, or to some other cause, the fact remains that they are not such curios as they were in the old days. Major league clubs have already made a couple of others this season.

Bill Wambsganss

In 1910 the National League teams made seven, and this number, which stands as the record, was duplicated in the American League in 1922. Two were made in one day in the same league, the Boston and Chicago Nationals doing it on August 30, 1921. The Detroit club alone made three during the campaign of 1924, and many times one club has made two in a year.

EVEN two triple plays unassisted were made in the big leagues on successive days only two years ago. The first was turned in at Forbes Field, by Jim Cooney, then with the Cubs, in the morning game of Memorial Day, 1927, and the second was added to the records the following day by John Neun, of Detroit, in a game against Cleveland.

Cooney's performance was not the only unassisted triple play ever made in this city, as Glenn Wright, then with the Pirates, placed one to his credit in a game against St. Louis here on May 7, 1925. Bill Wambsganss was the only player ever to make an unassisted triple play in a world series game.

PLAYING for Cleveland, he did it against Brooklyn in the fifth game, October 10, of the 1920 titular set. Other players to make unassisted triple plays were Neal Ball, of Cleveland against Boston on July 19, 1909, George Burns, of the Boston Americans, against Cleveland, September 14, 1923, and Ernest Padgett, of the Boston Nationals, against Philadelphia on October 6, 1923.

Some baseball historians have credited such a play to Paul Hines of Providence in the National League against Boston in 1878, but investigation has disclosed that Charles Sweezey, a teammate, handled the bll for the third out.

Sylvester Johnson

SYLVESTER JOHNSON, of the Cardinals, a very effective pitcher this season, escaped having his record of five victories and no defeats marred yesterday when Billy Sherdel went to his rescue and got credit for winning a game in which Johnson had been roughly handled by the Robins. Incidentally, the victory kept the Bucs from regaining first place. It was the first time this year that Johnson was hit hard. He has starred not only in his own starts but in relieving other Redbird flingers and saving games. Recently against Chicago he jumped in as a rescue hurler and struck out four men in a row. His effectiveness has caused a couple of beaten clubs to accuse him of doctoring the ball, the same charge that was brought against Dave Danforth, Jim Vaughn and others in the past, but so far none of his accusers has been able to produce any proof.

BURLEIGH GRIMES, wonder pitcher of the Pirates, became the leading hurler of the major leagues when he continued his nonstop drive through the National loop by registering his ninth consecutive victory yesterday at the expense of the Phils, as George Uhle, his Detroit rival, went down to his first defeat of the season in a 13-inning battle with the Athletics. Grimes has won nine games and lost none, and takes the lead over Uhle, who has won nine and lost one.

Burleigh has now defeated every other club in the National League except St. Louis, and one week ago last Sunday he saved two games for the Bucs against that team. In a previous start against the Cards his pitching hand was injured and he was forced to retire. He has downed Chicago three times, Cincinnati twice, and New York, Brooklyn, Boston and Philadelphia once each.

THERE are two clubs in the American League that Uhle has not beaten—New York and Boston—so that Grimes has the better record in that respect also.

Notice what Burleigh did to "murderers' row" in stopping the batting spree of the Phils yesterday?

O'Doul, Klein and Hurst, the much-touted home-run terrors, did not get a hit of any kind, and in a total of 12 times at bat they knocked the ball out of the infield only three times, the three exceptions being flies to the Waner brothers. O'Doul fanned twice.

Joe Cronin

JOE CRONIN, popular former Pirate, is making the Washington management regret that it did not give him a regular place in the lineup at the beginning of the season. His batting has had much to do with the Senators' brace in recent weeks. He went hitless against Sammy Gray, of the Browns, yesterday, as did older players such as Buddy Myer, Sam West and Muddy Ruel, but in other games of late he has been hitting the ball as consistently as any of the players in the big show. In five straight games prior to yesterday, Joe poled out 11 hits in 22 times at bat, a .500 clip, and even with yesterday's hitless engagement counted in he has boostd his average from .305 to .328.

NO club has approached the sensational streak of the Athletics, who have lost only one game of the last 18 played, and the Mackmen now hold the comfortable lead of five and a half games in the American League race. But there is a noticeable brace on the part of the two New York clubs that are expected to be pennant contenders in the upper circuits.

The Giants have shown that their poor showing up to two weeks ago was only a temporary off-spell by winning 11 of their last 12 games since John McGraw got back in the saddle, and the Yankees have bagged 10 of their last 16 contests, also a noticeable improvement. Ed Wells, former Bethany College pitcher, has been a factor in the Yanks' climb. He has pitched two of their victories and yes-

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Now that they have chastized the Phillies in a right smart manner, the Pirates today are visualizing another drive that would take them to the top again. The slipping Cubs have counted themselves out of the first-place reckoning for the immediate future, so the runner-up Pirates are concentrating on the pace-setting Cardinals who had a terrible time beating the Robins in St. Louis.

The Pirates this morning are two full games ahead of the Cubs and are only one and one-half games beneath the league champs, the truth of the matter being that the margin separating the first two clubs is not quite as big as that stated here, inasmuch as the Cards have lost the same number of contests as the Pirates.

GRIMES WINS NINTH

Well, anyhow, there is no time like the present, and with this thought in view, the Buccos will endeavor to make a lot of hay this week. This afternoon they will wind up their affairs with the Phillies, who sprung a surprise in Pittsburgh by winning the first two games of the series. They did not spring any surprise yesterday, however. Burleigh Grimes rode to his ninth straight victory, the unbeaten pitcher holding the hard hitters to six hits while the Buccos won, 14 to 2.

Manager Bush has Remy Kremer and Steve Swetonic ready for the finale. Steve is the likely choice. The Quakers will rely on Claude Willoughby or Phil Colins. The first-named won a decision over the Buccos Friday and as he has had three days of rest he may go back to the mound.

Adam Comorosky was back in the Pittsburgh lineup in the victory over the Phillies, and the Flying Pole resumed just where he left off before getting hurt on the left field wall in St. Louis. Commy connected for two doubles, drew a pass, stole two bases and scored two runs on his return.

SLUGGERS STOPPED

Grimes did a consummate job of stopping Burt Shotton's sluggers in the third game. The home-run trio, O'Doul, Klein and Hurst, batting in that sequence in the Quaker attack, went to the plate 12 times, but

Phils' Sluggers Rival Ruth and Gehrig

CHUCK KLEIN

FRANK O'DOUL

Great stickwork has made the Phillies a greatly feared club in the National League pennant race instead of the joke outfit of former years. The Pirates had a sample of the Quakers' stuff in the first two games of the series that ends here today, when the visitors clouted seven home runs. Klein, the rightfielder; Hurst, the first baseman, and O'Doul, the leftfielder, were the ring leaders. Klein is leading both major leagues with 13 home runs, one more than Gehrig and three more than Babe Ruth, the home run twins of the New York Yankees. O'Doul has 10 homers and is batting better than .400.

Henry Firpo Wins Over Italian Joe Gans

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 4. — Henry Firpo, Cleveland, won his 10-round bout at Jolly Bowl here last night with Italian Joe Gans, of Brooklyn, N. Y., by a wide margin. Firpo was the aggressor all the time, but because of the covering tactics of his opponent, was unable to get a knockout punch over. He had Gans all but out in the eighth round, but Gans managed to weather the storm and stay the limit.

GRIMES MAJORS' TOP HURLER

Burleigh Grimes has the field all to himself this morning, so far as pitching records go. In other words, Burleigh is leading the major leagues on top of a hard defeat sustained by George Uhle. The Tiger star was after his tenth unbroken game when the Athletics, with Grove up, downed the Tigers in extra rounds.

Grimes worked the entire nine rounds espite the one-sided situation existing after the fifth round was played. Burleigh has not been relieved for ineffectiveness as yet and there was no good reason for breaking his string in any manner.

FACES BRAVES NEXT

Burleigh should be able to reach double figures by the end of the week. He will be due to face the Braves on Friday. The Tribe is playing like it was supposed to play before the bell rang, but one can never tell in baseball.

KLEIN'S HOME RUN SWING

Southpaw Carl Hubbell upheld the contention of ball players throughout the league to the effect that this particular forkhander is easier to hit by lefthanders owing to a screw ball that breaks away from a right-hand hitter.

Hubbell faced the renowned right-hand attack of the Bears and let them down with eight hits. His de luxe twirling made it three in a row for the Giants at the home of the Cubs, and there will be a lot of moaning.

SUN-TELEGRAPH SETS JULY 11 FOR EVENT

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Here's some REAL news for junior golfers of Western Pennsylvania.

John J. Burke

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will hold its second annual junior amateur golf championship for the William Randolph Hearst Trophy on the Schenley Park municipal links, Thursday, July 11.

In order to be eligible to participate in the big event, entrants must be 18 years of age or under, not attending an institution of learning above high school grades, and have a spic-and-span amateur golf status.

THERE IS NO ENTRY OR PLAYING FEE, but every entrant must provide his own clubs and balls.

The tournament this year is being conducted on the slightly different basis than last season. There will be only one class, yet there will be as many, if not more, prizes—and the awards certainly are worth while.

NEW CADDIE TEAM PRIZE

Inasmuch as the caddies have an edge over the average junior golfer, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has requested and received the co-operation of caddie-masters at country clubs throughout the district, and a qualifying round will be held at each club sometime between now and five days prior to the tournament to determine eight caddies who will represent their club in the competition. The four low scorers in each club preliminary round will represent the club for an extra prize, a beautiful cup, while individuals on the winning team will be presented medals.

The field of almost 500 that played last year was a bit unwieldy, and this year it is expected the qualifying round for caddies will cut it appreciably. It will be necessary for caddies who play in the qualifying round to enter the tournament through the regular channel, specifying on their entry blank the club at which they work. Caddie-masters will be rendered every possible assistance in running off their preliminary round by the Golf Tournament Editor.

BURKE TO HIT FIRST BALL

John Jay Burke, former United States Golf Association executive public links committeeman, and present city office manager of Allegheny County Parks and director of tournaments at the Schenley Park municipal links, will drive off the first ball, and act in the capacity of honorary director of the affair.

The United States Golf Association's amateur code will govern the tournament in its entirety, including the preliminary play for club caddie teams.

An amateur, as defined by the U. S. G. A., is one who, (a) attaining the age of 18 years, has not carried clubs for hire, received

MULLEN UNDER BAN

CHICAGO, June 4.—(AP.)—Another blow has befallen Promoter Jim Mullen—This one in the form of an indefinite suspension by the Illinois State Athletic Commission, which has halted Mullen's activities for failure to refund money to fans who purchased tickets for the Sammy Mandell-Louis (Kid) Kaplan bout, scheduled for May 31.

M'VEY DEFEATS TILL IN TAME BATTLE

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

The chilly breezes cooled off the fans and fighters at the second show in the Meyers Brothers bowl in North Braddock last night, with the result that things were not as they might have been. The place was only about half filled, to begin with, following the capacity crowd at the opening show, and the boxers failed to warm up as they should have and the main bout especially found the fans far from pleased. In fact, they booed it roundly at several stages and at the finish.

Osk Till, of Buffalo, and Jack McVey, Negro, of New York, were the principals in the windup and McVey won hands down after the third round, in which Till clipped Jack and hurt him and then blazed away trying for a knockout until he tired. When the bell found McVey still on his feet after having taken everything in the Till punching repertoire, Osk was through. Thereafter he held and ran and danced and wrestled and did everything but fight until the final bell. He was warned a few times by the referee, but was content to stick the 10 rounds and confine his efforts to avoiding what punishment he could. After a while McVey also did some coasting, lashing out only in spurts.

TILL'S SHOWING POOR

Till won shades in the first and seventh rounds and carried the third by a mile, but was a bad second runner (and runner is meant in the full sense of the word) in all of the other sessions. Towering over McVey and having a big edge in the matter of reach, he looked pitiful as he tincanned to go the distance. As chilled as the performance was on the whole, it was plenty hot for the loser, who wound up with a badly battered and discolored right eye and bleeding lips and otherwise mistreated and was as glad as the frozen spectators to hear the final bell. Osk weighed 160½ pounds and his opponent 159¼.

Harry Williams, classy punching young Negro light-heavyweight, of Cincinnati, made an auspicious local debut in the scheduled eight-round semi-final, when he was awarded a technical knockout victory over Stanley Simmons in the sixth round. Williams carried too many guns for Simmons, whom he dropped for a count of three in the third round. After being warned for several accidental low blows in the early hounds, he concentrated his attack on the head until he grazed Simmons' body with a light left in the sixth. Stanley, who was in a bad way at the time, immediately claimed a foul, which was not allowed, and Referee Joe Keally disqualified him, alleging he quit. Williams weighed 173 pounds and Simmons 180¼.

SALA BEATS DINGER

Lee Sala, of Donora, 160¼ pounds, defeated Joe Dinger, of New Castle, 154, in the second bout. Dinger was floored for no count in the third round and the bell rang at the count of six as he was down in the fifth.

Carl Terry, of Steubenville, 155¼ pounds, substituting on short notice for Bob Concrete against Chuck Zelnack, of Glassport, same weight, was unable to answer the bell for the third round after taking a pasting and thus lost by a technical knockout. Joe Keally and Al Grayber alternated in handling the bouts and Frank Ferris and Jack Henderson served as judges. Spike Eberle did the announcing.

RODGERS, DUNN BOX TONIGHT

Jackie Rodgers, Negro bantamweight, of the North Side, and Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, meet in the main bout of the second show in the New Kensington open-air arena tonight. Mickey Hart and Young Nanci are in the semi-final.

Frank Monroe, local light-heavyweight, boxes Maxie Brown, of Youngstown, for the third time in a preliminary to the Riccardo Bertazollo-Paul Hoffman bout at Youngstown tonight.

Ignacio Fernandez, recent knockout winner over Al Singer, meets Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight champion, in the main bout of the opening show at the Queensboro Club, New York, tonight. Jackie Pilkington and Jimmy McNamara are in the semi-final. Canzoneri holds two decisions over Fernandez.

Young Stribling boxes Jack McAuliffe, II., of Detroit, in another of his pushover acts at Fort Worth tonight.

Ken Hargraves, of New Kensington, will box Lew Sanders, of Ambridge, in the semi-final to the Willie Davies-Frisco Grande bout at Johnstown Thursday night.

Speedy Dado boxes Jimmy Evans and Huerta Evans meets Sid Torres, while Ritchie King will oppose Joe Marcus in 10-round bouts at Los Angeles tonight.

Four amateur boxing bouts will feature a smoker of the Knights of Columbus in Sharpsburg K. of C. hall, Main street, Thursday night. Joe Sampson will meet Jim Bell at 112 pounds, Mose Butch will mix with Louis Santucci at 118, Billy Zwick will meet Dick Graham at 135 and Cowboy DeLuca is paired with Andy Andrucci at 147. Billy Linder will act as referee.

Dan Billick defeated Johnny Erickson in an eight-round bout at Jersey City last night, scoring a knockout in the first round; Tommy Crawley drew with Patsy Ruffalo in a 10-rounder at Flint, Mich.

Les Marriner, who has been out of the ring for eight months because of injuries, returns against Jack Dorval, in a 10-round bout in Chicago Wednesday night of next week.

Phil Goldstein and Tony Herrera have been matched for the main bout in the Meyers Brothers Bowl, North Braddock, next Monday night. The Joe Dundee-Joe Simonich bout is scheduled for a week later.

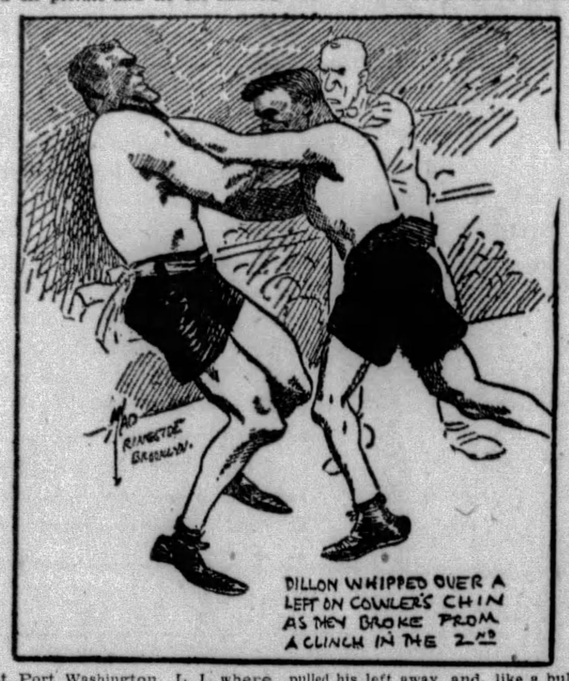
GREENFIELD LOOP OPENS

After several postponements, the Greenfield Community League will open its new season this evening with the Wuertheles meeting the Sims team at 6:30 o'clock. Mayor Kline and Councilman Herron are to participate in the opening ceremonies.

Tad's Immortal Fight Stories

By TAD

(For 30 years, Tad (T. A. Dorgan), one of the greatest cartoonists and sports authorities, covered the "fight game." Shortly before his death, recently, he wrote and illustrated a score of stories describing, in his inimitable style, those ring battles which for thrills and sensationalism were stamped indelibly in his mind. These reminiscences deal not only with fights in which titles were at stake, but also with thrilling affairs staged in private and at the smaller clubs. This story is one of the series. Others will follow.)



ON February 1, 1916, at Brooklyn, Jack Dillon knocked out Tom Cowler in two rounds. Jack Dillon, if you recall him, was a middleweight who grew a bit heavier and took on the boys in his class and the heavies as well. He almost killed our old pal, Frank Moran, over in Brooklyn one night at an open-air show. And the funny part of it is, Moran took the thing on as a joke. He got a big fat purse, and, instead of something soft, was almost torn to pieces.

At any rate, this 5-foot-7-inch Mr. Dillon met Tom Cowler, who stood 6 feet 1 inch and weighed 220 pounds in shape.

Cowler was no sucker at the fighting game. He was pretty clever, had a whale of a punch and could step with the best of them.

He had a plate glass chin, though, and whenever one of the boys pasted a stiff one on Tom's kisser the plate glass chin immediately wired to the brain that everything was dead.

Tom had another weakness, and that was for merry mucilage. Keep Cowler in strict training and keep him very sober and he was a VERY good fighter. Let him go his own way, however, and flirt with the suds and he was NOT SO GOOD.

For the Dillon fight Tom trained at Port Washington, L. I., where the clam diggers hold forth. The night before the fight Tom was out with a bunch of the boys whooping it up and having quite a time.

One of them suggested that Tom hit the hay early as he was to fight the following night. "Oh," piped Cowler, blowing the suds off something that wasn't a pineapple soda, "He's only a little fellow. I'll knock him off in a round or two."

On the night of the fight, however, Cowler didn't feel so well, and it is said that he wrapped himself around five big slugs of pre-war stuff before leaving his dressing room.

In the ring, however, he looked grand (as we say at the club). He did—he looked like a million dollars. As he faced the black pompadoured, gray-eyed Dillon he simply towered above him. Jack was very serious. He had quite a job before him and evidently realized it.

As the bell rang Dillon walked into the big man from Cumberland intending to trade lefts immediately. Instead he bumped into a left that sent his head back. He got more than that, for Cowler followed him right up and cuffed him with lefts and rights and Mr. Dillon didn't look so good at all.

COWLER blocked whatever leads Jack made, belted the smaller man on the ribs and jaw, staggered him with rights to the ear, and rather surprised the multitude.

When the bell came to his relief Mr. Dillon was not only unsteady on his feet, but his ears were red and his nose was sore and he began to think that he must have bitten off more than he could chew.

The crowd expected Dillon to go out in a round or two, and there was quite some brisk betting during the minute's rest.

The second round was a repetition of the first while it lasted. Cowler was never better and, with the advantage of height, weight and reach, was getting all the breaks.

The men fell into a clinch about a minute after the round got going, and Cowler's back was to the ropes in a neutral corner. They were embracing one another and about to break when suddenly Dillon pulled his left away, and, like a bullet, whipped it up to Cowler's chin.

The latter might just as well have been shot. I never saw a man drop so fast to the floor. His head hit the canvas before the rest of his body, and he didn't twitch a muscle until he was counted out and carried to his corner.

BUCCOS SEEK FIRST PLACE

failed to register a hit, so cautious and effective was the slab work of the spitball ace.

Southpaw Lester Sweetland started out in a manner that indicated he would be a match for Grimes, but after working two rounds of hitless hall, Lester began to weaken. Boots Grantham nicked him for a three-run homer in the fourth and a moment later the southpaw departed in favor of Luther Roy, who finished for the invaders.

Grantham was not the only athlete to get the range on the right-field stands during the afternoon. In the fifth inning Paul Waner drove one into the seats that also scored Brother Lloyd, this wallop tending to even up for a similar smack of the bat of Walter Levian, clever Quaker catcher, who smacked the ball thither with Barney Friberg on the runways. Brother Paul's sock was a high spot in a six-run drive that put the game on the ice. The Quakers were loose in their fielding during this festival.

Manager Shotton of the Quakers put George Susce behind the plate in the sixth and the Oakland kid finished the contest like a real catcher.

The defeated club gave the spectators a big thrill in the fourth by engineering a triple play that cut into a Pirate rally. Sheely was on second and Hargreaves on first when Grimes lined to Thompson. Fresco threw to Hurst to double Hargreaves and Sheely was nipped for the third out on Hurst's flip to Friberg.

Long's Sport Comment

terday turned in one of the best-pitched games of the season by beating the White Sox, 1 to 0, and holding them to two hits.

AFTER they have started to slide in Sportdom they go down the chutes quickly. It seems only a short while back when Steve Donoghue was England's greatest jockey, was picked to ride the star horses in that country's biggest races and was sent here for the big international match test.

But times have changed. First Steve was reported in financial straits, and since he returned to racing he has been among the obscure jockeys. In the great Epsom Derby tomorrow, for instance, he will have the mount on Grayday, considered as having so poor a chance that the betting is 100 to 7 against the horse. Hunter's Moon, owned by Lord Derby, is favorite at less than even money, with Mr. Jinks second choice at 15 to 2, and Kopi third at 8 to 1.

Captain Sharples

PITTSBURGH soccer and golf men who became acquainted with Capt. William Sharples, director of the Preston North End soccer football team while that eleven was in this city recently for a game with the Heidelberg National amateur champions, were relieved to learn that he had suffered only slight injuries when hurt in an automobile accident in Chicago yesterday. Sharples' comment on American and Pittsburgh sports customs while here amused his hearers. He always made clear his point, but had a manner all his own of expressing himself. One day Tom Birks, Sun-Tele soccer expert and sandlot baseball editor, took Capt. Sharples out to the Oakmont Country Club, where the Captain tried a round of golf, using clubs loaned to him by William Stitt, manager of the Oakmont club. The fact that it was the first time Sharples had ever used steel-shafted clubs added to the trouble he experienced in trying to negotiate the well-trapped course in respectable figures.

EVEN the leading amateur and professional golfers will tell you that hidden and furrowed sand traps and other obstacles cause the Oakmont course to rank with the toughest in the world. Sharples, accustomed to the English courses, which are grass and have only natural hazards, soon was ready to cast his vote with the others who had called Oakmont one of the hardest courses they ever tackled. "It's a beautiful course," said the captain, as he finally gave up in despair. "But my word, old chap, there are too many unseen difficulties."

any consideration, either directly or indirectly, for playing or for teaching the game, or for playing in a match or tournament; (b) because of his skill as a golfer, received after the thirty-first of December, 1922, a salary or remuneration, either directly or indirectly, from any firm dealing in goods relating to the playing of the game; (c) played for a money prize in any competition.

MUST BE AMATEUR

That means, any amateur 18 years of age or under, within the high school grade limit, which includes all caddies who have not reached their sixteenth birthday or will not between now and the day of the tournament are eligible to enter the contest for the beautiful William Randolph Hearst trophy and the other coveted prizes.

The one-division plan will make the tourney a real fight from start to finish. It will be an honest fight, too, for any boy who does not adhere strictly to the U. S. G. A. rules will be automatically disqualified. The rule of last year that any entrant who does not replace his divots will be disqualified stands.

Who will be the first to get in his entry blank to the Sun-Telegraph and his picture with it?

Last year, the entry list totaled in excess of 600, with almost 500 actual competitors. Joe Curto, youthful member of Pittsburgh's public links team in the National tournament last year, was the winner of the William Randolph Hearst Trophy, a gold medal and a fine golf club. Curto scored 68. And little Steve Slivka, 14, shot a 70 to capture the sub-junior division honors. The latter class last year included boys 14 and under.

It is up to the boys to get in a lot of practice for the big event. There will be enough prizes for a good many to share in—and they will be announced in the near future.

Practice is all that's left now—except for clipping, filling in and getting properly signed the entry blank which appears herewith, and mailing it immediately to the Golf Tournament Editor. Please print your name and address clearly.

BOB CAFFREY WEDS

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 4.—At a quiet ceremony performed this morning at 8 o'clock, in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Rev. M. J. Hughes officiating, Miss Kathleen Larkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Larkin, 315 East Chestnut street, and Robert Caffrey, son of Mrs. E. T. Caffrey, Third street and Duncan avenue, were united in marriage. Caffrey attained prominence as an athlete at Duquesne University, Pittsburgh. He had a tryout as a pitcher with the Pirates and later was with the Giants and Toledo. A wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home.

Pete Gavuzzi Gains Bunion Derby Lead

MIAMI, Ariz., June 4.—(AP.)—Meeting the challenge hurled at him by Johnny Salo, Passaic, N. J., Policeman, Pete Gavuzzi, bewhiskered Italian of England, yesterday leaped into the lead in C. C. Pyle's corn carnival, deposing the flying cop, who had forged to the front Sunday.

WESTINGHOUSE AND SCHENLEY PLAY TODAY

The long drawn out schedule in Section I of the City Scholastic Baseball League will be brought to a close this afternoon, all concerned hope, as Westinghouse and Schenley fight it out at Malone Field for the sectional championship and the right to meet Langley, Section II rulers, for the city title. Barring rain, hail, fire, brimstone, a new administration, the collapse of modern civilization or too many lost balls, this fracas will be played.

If Schenley wins, and goes on to meet Langley, it will mark the third year in succession these two schools have reached the City League finals. Up until last week, when Westinghouse arose in its might and won a 6-to-5 verdict over the Bellfielders to tie matters up in the section, it looked as though Schenley would hop through almost without effort in the first division.

Jim Matoney buffaloed the Oaklanders last week, serving them their initial setback of the year. Earlier in the season, Schenley beat Westinghouse in the latter's own back yard.

Matoney will be back on the hill for the Silver Lakers today, with either Studnicki or Stratton flingin' 'em for Schenley.

departed from the Chicago club when Leo Hartnett failed to go to his post. The club had quite a lot of dash in Pittsburgh recently, but not what it would have displayed had the fiery receiver been on the job. Picture the Quakers without Fresco Thompson, the Buccos without Traynor, the Giants without Jackson or the Cardinals without Bottomley and you have a fair measure of what Hartnett means to the Cubs. And, by the way, the batting order shows that Leo batted in a pinch yesterday. Perhaps he is on the mend.

Cold to Keep Ruth Idle For Week

NEW YORK, June 4.—(AP.)—A heavy cold will keep Babe Ruth out of the New York Yankees' lineup probably for a week.

Ruth has been in bad physical condition for some time. He was taken out of the game last Saturday in the ninth inning and didn't play at all the following day. Yesterday his cold became so bad that he went to St. Vincent's Hospital for an examination. Physicians there discovering congestion in the chest, told him to remain at home for three or four days at least.

Sammy Byrd will patrol right field for the Yanks while Ruth is recuperating.

Clyde Van Dusen At Washington Park

CHICAGO, June 4.—(AP.)—Seeking his second major triumph of the 1929 racing season, Clyde Van Dusen, sturdy son of Man O' War, and winner of the Kentucky Derby, today was quartered at the Washington Park track, to prepare for the $60,000 American Derby, June 15.

Clyde Van Dusen arrived at the track yesterday after a trip in his special car, from Churchill Downs. His trainer, Clyde Van Dusen, said the horse had breezed a mile in 1:42 2-5 before leaving Kentucky.

Narrow Changes Here

WHEAT UPTURN WELCOME

WASHINGTON, June 4—Wheat price increases with which the grain exchanges opened the week were particulrly welcomed in Washington circles, both in a Congress still struggling to devise farm relief legislation, and in administrative quarters. This was the first upward turn given to grain quotations since President Hoover last month induced railroads to make emergency low rates on export wheat and flour. Transportation people, too, followed the market closely.

"Railroads now have between 15,000 and 20,000 empty box cars parked through the West awaiting the wheat flood that is due to begin to move with June," said L. M. Betts, who represents the American Railway Association in arranging the co-operation. "The figures will run a little higher by June 15, when the crop will actually start in volume. This price increase, if maintained, will be a considerable help all around. It will induce immediate shipment, but in any case, through the territory where the combine harvester is in most use, the grain was going to have to move immediately with harvest anyway."

Last Week's Checks Show Gain Over '28

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP.)—Bank checks drawn in leading business cities for the week ending May 29, as reported today by the Federal Reserve Board, showed a very heavy increase over the corresponding totals for the like period last year, though a decline from the preceding week this year. The Reserve Board commented that the corresponding week last year included Decoration Day, which largely accounted for the difference stated. Figures are:

Week ending May 29...$18,491,846,000
Preceding week......... 18,527,834,000
Same week last year... 13,364,431,000

New York checks for the week amounted to $12,316,781,000, against $11,980,145,000 the previous week. Chicago's were $1,687,461,000, against $1,753,312,000.

Consumption of Tin Sets Record in May

LONDON, June 4.—According to official statistics of the London Metal Exchange, world consumption of tin reached an all-time record in May, total deliveries amounting to 13,265 tons against 13,018 in April, the previous record. Visible supplies are stated to be down to 24,765 tons or 200 tons in excess of the total at end of last year.

Taylor, Ewart & Co. Receiver Averted

CHICAGO, June 4.—Appointment of a receiver for Taylor, Ewart & Co., investment bankers, appeared to have been averted today when leading creditors decided to force no drastic liquidation of the company's collateral, but to await a more favorable market situation.

Fireproofing Common Up On Local Exchange

National Fireproofing common was the active member of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange list in the early dealings today, moving up about 2 points on a larger turnover than had been noted in the stock for some time.

While there was no definite information bearing on the activity in Fireproofing, it is understood earnings are showing a marked improvement for the current six months as compared with the first half last year. Earnings for 1928 did not quite cover the full dividend of $3.50 on the preferred stock. The current year's earnings are expected to meet that requirement and leave a balance for the common. For the year 1928, the company paid $3.32½ on the preferred. The financial position at the end of the year was strong with the funded debt showing a reduction of $290,000, leaving outstanding 5½ per cent debentures amounting to $2,580,000.

The general list showed only moderate changes and there was no pronounced activity. Fuels held close to the previous session's closings.

FUEL AND POWER FOR A THOUSAND COMMUNITIES

COLUMBIA SYSTEM

Through a vast network of gas mains and electric power lines, the Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation serves a population of over 5,000,000 in one of the richest industrial regions of the United States. Homes and industries in over a thousand communities in New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky draw light, heat or power from this great system of distribution.

The development of Columbia System has been almost phenomenal. In the thirty years of its existence, it has grown from a small company serving a few thousand customers to a six hundred million dollar corporation serving nearly 1,500,000 customers.

The Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation is represented in Pittsburgh by one of its subsidiaries, the Manufacturers Light & Heat Company, which, together with several smaller subsidiaries, supplies gas to over a quarter of a million customers in the Pittsburgh District.

FIVE MILLION MILES OF WIRE!

There are more than a million Bell telephones in Pennsylvania. More than 5,000,000 conversations take place from these telephones daily.

Nearly 5,000,000 miles of wire are necessary to interconnect them. Enough to reach from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh thirteen thousand times.

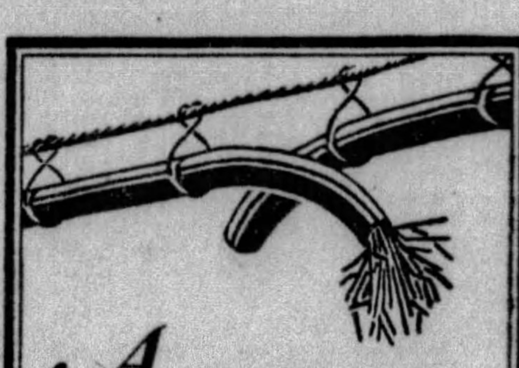
Early telephone wires were strung on tall poles with many cross-arms. That was the only method known—even along city streets.

Scientists and engineers attacked the problem. A new telephone construction technique was developed. The result—despite insulation and transmission difficulties—was a telephone cable which made it possible to put wires inside a lead pipe or sheath. Research went on. New inventions and discoveries came into the telephone art. Cables containing more and more wires have been developed.

Fifteen years ago 1800 wires in a cable was the last word. Then came 2400.



A TELEPHONE CABLE consists of tiny wires each insulated from the other and all enclosed in a heavy lead cover or sheath. Cables containing as many as 3600 wires are now in service.

Today cables containing 3600 wires are being installed. Eighteen hundred conversations can travel over one of these marvels of communication at the same time.

And the latest cable with its 3600 wires is smaller in diameter than its 1800-wire predecessor! Another achievement of Bell Telephone Laboratories.

Of the 5,000,000 miles of Bell wire in Pennsylvania more than 95% is now in storm-defying cables—either under the streets of the larger cities or on short, sturdy, unobtrusive poles in the less-congested districts. Nearly 3,000,000 miles will be added in the next five years.

TELEPHONE CABLE is the economical method of telephone construction where large numbers of wires are required. Its development, introduction and extension are in line with Bell System Policy: "That the service shall at all times be adequate, dependable and satisfactory to the user."

STOCK MARKET CONTINUES ON UPGRADE

Reports of Improvement In Credit Situation Help To Influence Buying

NEW YORK, June 4.—(AP.)—Stock prices made further recovery in today's market on buying influenced by reported improvement in the credit situation and favorable trade and earnings reports. Widespread rumors were in circulation in the financial district that the Federal Reserve Board had relaxed its credit policy and that an increase in rediscount rates was now unlikely.

Call money renewed at 7 per cent as against an opening rate of 6 yesterday, and held steady at that rate throughout the greater part of the session. There was no change in time money rates. While Wall street expects a flurry in the call rate around June 15, the advance is not likely to be as violent as the "money squeeze" in March.

SPECIALTIES GAIN

High priced specialties, in which a substantial short interest had been created on the recent decline, showed some striking gains. Commercial Solvents jumped 24 points, Reis first preferred and Otis Elevator 10 each, Case Threshing Machine 9½, International Business machines 7¾, and Burroughs Adding Machine, Curtiss, Stromberg Carburator, Marmon Motor, Sears Roebuck, General Electric and Worthington Pump were run up 5 to 7 points.

Some weakness developed in the railroad shares in the early trading but offerings were readily absorbed, and the rails moved forward again i the early afternoon. Chesapeake Corporation was marked up more than 3 points to a new high above 101, and New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio, Union Pacific, Lehigh Valley and Southern Railway sold 1½ to 2 points higher. Commission houses report extensive switching from the industrial to the railroad stocks on the theory that many of the latter are out of line with the general market.

Bendix Aviation, a newcomer to the "Big Board" was bid up 4 points to a new high record at 93⅝. Sharp recoveries also took place in such recent weak spots as Radio, Wright Aeronautical, Electric Auto Lite, Columbia Graphophone, Air Reduction, Crosley Radio and the advance Rumely issues.

OIL IN DEMAND

Oils continued to attract a large following on the theory that recent gasoline and crude oil prices advances would be reflected in higher second quarter earnings. Simms Petroleum, which, it is estimated, will add more than $1.50 a share to annual income if the current prices are maintained, in addition to an appreciation in inventories, was brought in large volume, crossing 36 to a new high record.

Profit-taking cut down some of the early gains in the public utilities although the group, as a whole, showed marked underlying strength on buying influenced by favorable merged, dividend and earnings rumors. Coppers also moved forward in the early afternoon under the leadership of Greene Cananea.

Hand-to-Mouth Trade May End This Fall.

The possibility of considerable freight congestion in the fall, with a consequent increase in forward buying of most commodities, is considered by The Brookmire Economic Service, Inc., in its latest report on the general business situation. The line of argument by which this question is raised starts with the ability of the steel manufacturers to meet the potential demand for their products in the fall. "Steel output shows but little sign of recession at the present moment," the report says. "If the forward shipping orders reported to be on hand may be taken at their face value—which in view of apparent over-buying is not entirely certain—there is likely to be no more than the usual seasonal decline during June. There is consequently a possibility—dependent on whether or not present orders are executed in full—that steel activity will show only a brief let-up in mid-summer before the time when fall shipping orders usually begin to pile up. This raises an interesting question regarding deliveries in the third and fourth quarters. The supply of surplus freight cars now stands at the lowest point for this season in recent years. Apparently there will be a very large wheat crop to move this summer. If steel activity along with general business holds up at anything approaching recent levels, there is a possibility that the railroads will have difficulty in meeting traffic requirements at the seasonal peak in September and October. Any shortage of freight equipment leading to delay in deliveries usually stimulates heavier forward buying, duplication of orders and stocking of materials. If we should run into such a period in the late summer and fall, its effects on steel operations and prices is easy to foresee."

Weather and Wheat Prices.

There have been many comments recently regarding the decline in the price of wheat, and no one can deny that this has been quite a factor in the stock market, because it has resulted at times in selling from outsiders on a rather large scale. One economist, however, contends it is too early to predict that 1929 will be a poor year for all the farmers. He points out that old crop wheat, in which price weakness is most apparent, is reported to be held 80,000,000 bushels by farmers and about 200,000,000 bushels by middlemen. The economist adds that the weather in June and July will have much to do with values for the new wheat crop and many farmers will depend upon the prices received for the present growth. Another point made is that farming is more diversified than ever before, which will spread any decrease in receipts among more growers than would have been the case in the past.

Equipment Orders.

The equipment stocks have been going down, but not as rapidly as some other issues. The reason is that equipment stocks have not shared in the rise in the general list over the last two years. American Car and Foundry common is selling at its low of the year, and only three or four points above its low of last year. It has set aside as a reserve dividends on the common for two years. So far this year the railroads have been more liberal in placing orders for equipment, and inasmuch as railroad earnings are running considerably ahead of last year, this equipment buying will be continued. Car orders to May 1 totaled 44,429, an increase of 100 per cent over the corresponding period of last year.

Packard's Diesel Engine.

While the Packard management realizes the possibilities of its new Diesel type motor for airplane and marine use, a statement of the head of the company indicates that no great rush will attend the introduction of its new product to the market on a commercial scale. Production of the new motor will not be begun until next fall, as it will not be until that time that installing necessary machinery in the new plant will be completed. Capacity of the new unit will be 500 engines a month, but there is no intention of starting at that rate or of any hurry on the part of the company in stepping up production.

Anaconda Wire and Cable.

Production capacity of the Anaconda Wire and Cable Company, recently formed as a consolidation of six units, will be more than 400,000,000 pounds of wire and cable, according to Hornblower & Weeks, who, in an analytical study of the possibilities from this consolidation, state that the enlarged company will be in a position to produce all wire products, ranging from the most important heavy cables to delicate wiring devices used by automobiles and radios.

U. S. Auto Exports Worth $254,134,917

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Automobile manufacturers exported during the first four months of this year passenger and trucks valued at $254,135,917, which exceeded by $89,000,000 foreign sales for the corresponding period in 1928, the Department of Commerce announced.

Canada continues the leading purchaser of United States automobiles.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 4.—There were no sales in the raw sugar market early today but it developed that late yesterday 5,000 bags of Porto Rican were sold to an outport refiner at 3.49c, a new low record price for the season, and about 150,000 bags of Cuban for June shipment to outport refiners at 3.52c. Early today there were additional offerings at these prices.

Raw sugar futures were not very active, and after opening unchanged to 1 point lower under liquidation and selling by houses with trade connections, the partial setback was recovered with the list of midday about net unchanged. The continued liberal offerings in the spot market seemed to restrict any aggressive buying, and there appeared to be a disposition among operators to hold off and await fresh developments.

The refined market was unchanged. Withdrawals were fairly liberal but new business continued light. Prices were listed at 5.00c for fine granulated by all refiners, with second hands available at concessions.

FARM SERVICE ASKS CHARTER

CHICAGO, June 4. — (AP.)—Papers for the incorporation of the American Agricultural Service, Inc., as a national organization to assist agricultural co-operative organizations, have been filed at Springfield, Ill., the American Farm Bureau Federation announced today.

The action was hailed by Sam H. Thompson, president of the federation, as the greatest step forward yet taken by the organized agricultural industry for co-operative associations.

"It is the outgrowth of more than 10 years of study and accomplishment by officials of the farm bureau and came as an answer to a nation-wide appeal of co-operative organizations for a national co-operative service to aid in research, tax legislation, legal and other phases of co-operative work," he said.

The American Agricultural Service, Inc., will act as a clearing house of information between co-operative associations and service will be available to other organizations and individuals on a fee basis.

Selection of the personnel of the new organization will be made at a meeting of the board of directors here June 28. The board includes Mr. Thompson and Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois.

PRESSED STEEL ORDERS GAIN

More orders for freight cars are on the books of the Pressed Steel Car Company's books today than at any time in the last five years, it was stated at the office of the company.

As a result the McKees Rocks plant is operating at between 50 and 75 per cent capacity, employing 2,500 men for the first time in several years, and should future orders justify it, the Woods Run plant of the company will be started, it was stated.

Based on the present stage of operations, the McKees Rocks plant of the company has sufficient orders on the books to keep the plant operating on the present ratio for the next three months.

As a result of the activity at the McKees Rocks works, houses long vacant in the neighborhood have been rented, and the business of the community greatly stimulated.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, June 4.—(AP.)—Curb market stocks today after an irregular opening turned strong on a rush of buying that sent public utilities skyward. New highs for the year were touched by some of the leaders. Traders who have been standing on the sidelines for the last few days stepped in as the advance got underway in the face of stiffening in call money. Selling later in the day cut down the gains.

American Superpower issues again assumed the leadership, all three—the "A," "B" and new establishing new peaks. The "A" crossed 205 for an overnight jump or more than 16 points, while "B" got up to 205 for a 10¼ point rise. The new crossed 41. The bulk of the trading was in these three issues.

Electric Bond and Share, Electric Investors, United Gas Improvement old and new and Buffalo, Niagara and Eastern joined in the rise, but their gains were comparatively small. Mohawk Hudson Power and Northwestern Power sold off.

Penn-Ohio, one of the Morgan-Bonbright group of companies, held steady on reports of record electric power output in May.

Oils were steady, but the aviation stocks were active and higher under the leadership of Fokker, which advanced on the first earnings report of the company showing a net profit of 23 cents a share for the first 1929 quarter. Fokker is reported planning to enter the field of small plane manufacture. General Motors holds a 40 per cent stock interest.

Deere & Co. snapped back from an early slump of 9 points, on further recovery by wheat and reports diversification of American agriculture will sustain the demand for new farm equipment.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, June 4.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 4 points to a decline of 11 points, near months being relatively firm on the firm showing of the early Liverpool cables, while later months seemed to reflect a favorable view of the weather outlook. Private crop advices claiming that prospects had deteriorated slightly during the past week, brought in a little buying, but Liverpool eased off right after the local opening and prices here soon showed net losses of 13 to 16 points with July selling off to 18.25c and December to 18.60c. The market was within 2 or 3 points of these figures at the end of the first half hour.

Private cables said market had advanced early on covering, London and Continental buying and a continued active spot demand.

The early selling influenced by the favorable weather outlook proved sufficient to send prices off to 18.20c for July and 18.55c for December contracts. It was attributed largely to liquidation by buyers of yesterday, however, and the market was quiet and steadier late in the morning on covering. At midday prices showed rallies of about 8 to 10 points from the lowest and some trade buying was reported in the near months.

$139,983 Earnings Shown by Fokker

NEW YORK, June 4.—The Fokker Aircraft Corporation of America in the first quarterly earnings statement to be given out by the company reported earnings of $139,984, equivalent to 23 cents a common share, for the three months ended March 31. In the listing application filed with the Curb market a net loss of $46,388 for the first six months of last year was shown by the company. Unfilled orders totaling $2,983,374 were reported on the books, with negotiations practically completed for $3,000,000 in additional orders. General Motors recently acquired a 40 per cent stock interest in the company.

Midget Mike Wins Over Stan Williams

WHEELING, W. Va., June 4.—(AP.)—Midget Mike O'Dowd, of Columbus, O., finished in a swirl of flying gloves to take a 10-round decision away from Stanley Williams of Martins Ferry, O., here last night. It was a slugfest which kept the customers on their bunions all the way.

The six-round semi-final saw Charley Baxter, Columbus, 126, take a decision over Harry Morris, 127½, Wirt, W. Va., Johnny Popicz, Wheeling welterweight, got a decision over Jimmy McGraw, Yorkville, O. In a scheduled four-round special bout, Red Lyda, of Columbus, 168, won on a foul from Fritz DeMark, Wellsburg, W. Va., in the second frame.

Utility Leaders Describe How Nation Is Prospering.

By B. C. FORBES

ATLANTIC CITY, June 3.—A cheerful picture of conditions throughout the country is obtained from leaders of the electric power and light industry gathered here by the thousand for the annual convention of the National Electric Light Association.

Interviews with heads of important corporations serving large territories elicit that general business everywhere is comfortably ahead of last year and that, almost without exception, confidence is entertained concerning the second half of the year.

CAPITAL expenditures running into the billion are being made this year by utility companies to cope with the nation's industrial growth, the electrification of rural communities and farms, the rapidly-expanding demand for electricity for multifarious purposes in the home, and to provide ahead of time for still further assured national expansion.

Here and there rates have been lowered with an eye to encouraging freer consumption.

SINCE manufacturers of power are in an excellent position to gauge business activity, the following statements obtained from heads of various utility companies are of special interest:

Matthew S. Sloan, president, the New York Edison Company:

"With industrial production establishing new high records, with corporate profits (including railroad and utility groups) higher than they were last year, automobile production at record levels, 40 per cent above last year, building contracts for April equal to 1928, car loadings ahead of last year and continued increase in transportation efficiency, retail sales running well above last year, income of wage-earners more than last year, and exports unusually heavy, I am very optimistic about the business outlook.

"So long as business in general remains healthy, the power and light industry will continue its progress because electric service has come to be essential in industry and homes. I believe there is opportunity for larger sales of electricity for home use and that our industry over a long period will and should find a valuable and growing market by aggressive stimulation of domestic sales and by revision of rate schedules to promote greater domestic use of electric service for labor-saving and comfort-yielding appliances."

J. J. O'BRIEN, president, H. M. Byllesby & Co., Chicago:

"Properties in the Standard Gas and Electric Company system have recently made rate reductions amounting to an estimated total of nearly $5,000,000 annually. Sales of electricity and gas are showing a vigorous, but not abnormal growth. Business conditions in the territories served are excellent."

A. W. LEONARD, president, Pugent Sound Power and Light Company, Seattle:

"General business conditions in the Pacific Northwest are, I believe, better than they have ever been in the history of the country. Building permits are 30 per cent greater than last year, while conditions in the lumber industry are materially improved over those of 1928 and recent years.

"Reports from dairy associations show them to be in excellent financial condition, while the poultry business, already one of our most important industries, will show a greater expansion this year than ever before.

"The most gratifying development of the past 12 months, however, has been the marked increase in manufacturing. While the expansion of the paper and pulp industry has been the principal feature, there is abundant evidence that many corporations of national standing have come to realize the advisability of establishing Pacific Coast branches. This industrial development has been of great importance, bringing new money, new blood and a renewed spirit of optimism to the entire Northwest.

"There is a greater demand for industrial power than ever before in the history of our company."

WALTON JONES, first vice president, Cities Service Company:

"The use of electrical energy in American industry and homes has now become so general that a composite load curve of the electric light and power companies of the country may be taken as a barometer for general prosperity. An examination of such a curve for the current year to date indicates a generally healthful condition of business throughout the United States and there is ample evidence that we should have a continuation of good business for the remainder of the year.

"I know of no time in the history of the light and power business when we could look forward with more optimism.

"We are now to the point where the accumulative effort of years of research is beginning to bear fruit in the production of new equipment, and each day sees new applications for electric power which in many fields has no competitor."

COPPERWELD PROFITS GROW

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

OFFICIALS of the Copperweld Steel Company have estimated that shipments this year will be 20 per cent greater than year ago. Earnings for 1929 are expected to reach the highest level in the company's history. After depreciation and federal taxes $400,000 has been estimated as the probable profit for the year. This would be equivalent to $2.18 a share on the common stock after allowing for dividends on the new preferred stock.

The company has doubled its business in the last five years and in each of these years a gain in both tonnage and total value of sales has been recorded in comparison with the preceding year.

In the first three months of 1928 net profit was $81,290. In the entire year of 1928 profit was $233,923 compared with $218,839 in 1927. The gain was shown in spite of the fact that production was hampered and extraordinary expenses were shown through the fact that a new plant was placed in operation at Glassport, Pa.

THE new plant, which was completed in August, 1928, will permit production to be expanded to four times the present rate with only slight additional capital expenditures.

The company has developed a means of combining the corrosion resisting properties of copper with the low cost of steel by a new process. Steel billets are covered with copper through a means of welding the two materials while the copper is in a molten state. The remarkable thing about the product is that it can be rolled or drawn without breaking the protective sheathing of copper. The relative proportion of the copper coating and the steel core remain the same no matter how much the material is worked.

WIRE and other products made of Copperweld steel have resistance to corrosion almost equal to that of solid copper while they also have the high tensile strength of steel. In addition to this, the material sells for less than solid copper.

Wire made by the process has an electrical conductivity of 30 to 40 per cent of that of solid copper wire. As a result of this the material is coming into use for transmission lines with long spans where the size of solid copper wire would be determined more by the necessary strength than by the amount of current to be carried. The new wire is also replacing galvanized steel for some purposes due to its longer life.

New uses are being developed through arrangements with other companies for the conversion of Copperweld steel into products in addition to wire. The Superior Steel Company is now making strips of Copperweld steel.

THROUGH the recent sale of $1,500,000 of 6 per cent convertible preferred stock, the company was able to retire its funded debt and to increase its working capital. An interesting feature of the financing was that the holders of a very large share of the new preferred availed themselves of their conversion privileges on May 27, the first day during which this right could be exercised.

The preferred was convertible into common on the following basis. Each of the first 5,000 shares of $100 par value were entitled to receive four shares of common, each of the second 5,000 shares, three shares of the common, and the remaining preferred, two shares of common. All of the preferred in the first two groups has been exchanged.

Before the conversion 142,000 shares of common stock were outstanding.

DIVIDEND VOTED BY DONAHOE'S

The board of directors of Donahoe's, Inc., today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 per share on the first preferred stock of the company and 25 cents per share on the Class A stock, payable June 29 to stockholders of record, June 20. This makes the forty-sixth consecutive quarterly dividend on the preferred stock and is the first quarterly dividend on the new Class A stock.

The company reports an increase in profits to date over last year and excellent prospects for the balance of the year. Sales for the first quarter of this year were $1,819,483, which is an increase over last year. Net profits for the first quarter also show a substantial increase over last year. The second quarter, thus far, reflects a continued substantial increase in net profits over the second quarter of last year.

3 TOURNEYS CARDED TODAY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Three tournaments are on the district golf card for today.

The Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania is staging another team league match at the Shannopin Country Club. Section 2 teams are waging the battle. Some of the finest golf of the season is anticipated, what with the great rivalry among the teams.

At the beautiful Alcoma Country Club, caddie-masters and assistant professionals who are members of the Caddie-Masters' Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania will be playing in their second tournament of the season. Indications are that every eligible member will be on the scene of action. Bobby Loeffler, Oakmont Country Club's caddie-master, captured the first event, held recently at the Edgewood Country Club.

Women members of the Westmoreland Country Club are staging a one-day tournament today. An event of the same sort was slated for last Tuesday, but was rained out; so it may be expected a big field will be entered today.

TEE TO GREEN

E. H. Kelso scored a hole in one at the Edgewood Country Club yesterday. Playing with Dr. R. V. Acker he made his ace on the 175-yard twelfth hole.

Tomorrow Section 1, Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania, will hold a team league match at the Edgewood Country Club.

The spring handicap tournament at the Hill Crest Country Club begins tomorrow.

STOWE IN TIE FOR LEAD

Stowe Civics went into a tie for first place in the City League last evening by defeating the J. L. Thomas Club, 9 to 5. Pemberton held the Civics to seven hits. The Stowe club and North Side Civics each won five out of six starts.

Hawthorne suffered its fourth straight defeat in the Crafton-Ingram Church League, losing to Ingram, 6 to 2.

In the other league results, the Y. M. H. A. defeated the Lawrenceville Business Men in the Metropolitan League, 3-0; Soho defeated Roosevelt in the Central League, 10-7; Stowe Club defeated the R. L. Irwins in the Major League, 5-0; Whitaker defeated B. and O. in the Greater Pittsburgh League, 6-2.

READING GETS TAYLOR

READING, Pa., June 4.—(INS.)—Outfielder Danny Taylor, obtained by the Reading International League Club from the Chicago Cubs on option yesterday, is expected to join the Keys at Baltimore on Thursday. Taylor formerly played with Memphis in the Southern Association.

HARRY FAY STOPPED

NEW YORK, June 4.—(AP.)—Leo Williams, slugging Negro heavyweight, stopped Harry Fay of Louisville, Ky., in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round match at the Dexter Park Arena last night. Williams weighed 181, Fay 182½.

300,000 TO SEE ENGLISH DERBY

EPSOM DOWNS, England, June 4. — (AP.) — The Epsom Derby, ancient classic of the English turf, rules all Britons tomorrow.

Thirty-one of England's choicest three-year-olds have been selected to battle for the honor and glory awarded the winner of the world's most celebrated horse race. Five million people have wagered hundreds of thousands of pounds in the gigantic London Stock Exchange and Calcutta sweepstakes and other similar pools throughout the United Kingdom. The Calcutta and Stock Exchange sweeps alone insweeps alone involve about $5,000,000 each, holders of tickets on the winning horse to receive in the neighborhood of $625,000.

From city, farm and hamlet the multitude began pouring into this quaint little English village today. For in England everyone goes to the Derby. It is a national pilgrimage in which all classes participate, from king to costermonger, from landed lord to wandering Gypsy.

SHOPS, OFFICES CLOSED

Londoners turned their backs on their shops and offices and joined the early arrivals by train, tram, omnibus, automobile, taxicab, carriage, cart, bicycle and on foot.

The influx of England's populace is expected to exceed the quarter-million mark this year. The huge grandstand built in the bowl like setting of the Downs course and adjacent standing room furnishes some kind of an accommodation for nearly 300,000 people.

Betting today failed to dislodge Viscount Astor's Cragadour from the position of the favorite although Lord Derby's Hunter's Moon and Maj. McCalmont's Mr. Jinks were strongly played. Future betting quotations have made Cragadour the popular choice at 6 to 1 with Hunter's Moon at 7 to 1 and Mr. Jinks at 17 to 2. Lord Derby's entry lost some of his popularity last week when he pulled up after a workout with sore shins.

TWO YANK ENTRIES

Hopes of American victory lie in P. D. Q., owned by Gordon Selfridge, the man who successfully introduced American department store merchandising in England, and A. K. Macomber's The Carthaginian. P. D. Q. is quoted at 40 to 1 in the future books while Macomber's racer is one of the rank outsiders in the speculation.

STOPPED, QUITS RING

CINCINNATI, June 3.—(AP.)—Billy Freas, Grand Rapids (Mich.) heavyweight, announced his retirement from the ring here tonight after being knocked out in the first round of a scheduled 10-round bout with Tuffy Griffiths, of Sioux City, Ia. Freas was knocked down twice.

ALUMNI ON TOP

The Shady Side Alumni defeated the Shady Side Academy baseball team in a twilight game yesterday, 4 to 3.

BUGS BAER Says

THE TEN-TON DEMONS OF TRAFFIC

"Bugs" Baer bles-and-a-half.

WE cannot claim that the cochineal bug is responsible for the red flag of Communism nor that the invention of Chinese fireworks started the World War.

But we do know that gasoline is the father of a superiority complex which is making our luxurious landscape a shambles.

The justice in his tribunal, the lion in his den and the monarch on his throne are three bums compared to the chauffeur on the perch of his 10-ton truck.

When he swings that wheel and steps on the juice you had better do the same with him as the Pullman porter did with President Taft when Bill was in all the glory of his avoirdupois.

Give him a wide berth.

The driver of the 10-ton truck is the tyrant of traffic. Trying to compete with him is just as sensible as starting your daily dozen when the barber has his razor on your most important chin.

The truck engineer doesn't care any more for traffic rules than a chimney does for its smoke.

He starts with the red lights, stops with the green and skids with the spectrum.

He knows that his lincensed car of juggernaunt has the weight and the power with it. When he smacks you between fenders you have about as much chance as a soap bubble on a mandarin's finger nail.

Did you ever try cracking your delicate flivver up against the back of a monster truck? It is one time when the right-of-way is the path of doom.

We have seen many boulevard duels but we have yet to see the flivver towing away the truck.

The balance of power is with the man on the ponderous vehicle. And he knows it like a bee knows his buzzer.

It wouldn't be so bad if the drivers didn't think a truck was a pleasure car. It is their pleasure to sideswipe limousines and to ditch roadsters.

What is sauce for the goose is persimmon jelly for the gander. But don't try to prove it. The truck has no fenders to bend, no paint to be scratched or no doors to be twisted.

The turmoil and strife of war would have been more terrible if Napoleon had been the driver of a 10-ton truck.

If you don't believe it, how about 1918? Those tanks were merely 10-ton trucks that had enlisted for the duration.

When a 10-ton truck goes to war the duration is spasmodic. They won the war and now they are back again. But their paths lead not to peace nor do their detours smack of arbitration.

Rogers Gives Us Example On How to Travel Fast

Will Rogers, comedian and home-spun philosopher, who writes a daily department "Will Rogers Says," for the Sun-Telegraph, prepared the article that appeared Saturday while he was in Pittsburgh, where he closed his theatrical season Saturday night. His article for Monday publication came from Amarillo, Texas.

Mr. Rogers is inclined to be slow of speech, but when he travels he wastes no minutes, thus setting a valuable example to those whose time is extremely precious, as Mr. Rogers' is. Completing his stage work about 11 o'clock, he was speeding westward an hour later, on his way to the coast.

Will Rogers is one of the intrinsic citizen assets of the United States. He sees us as we are, tells us our shortcomings with whimsical humor and makes us appreciate it fully by compelling us to pay for his opinions. Fortunately for us, he doesn't specialize in free advice. We wouldn't like that so well.

Mr. Rogers is doing and has been doing valuable service to the cause of aerial transportation. Some time ago he made a record-breaking trip (for a passenger) from California to New York. Now he has given Pittsburgh air travel service a boost by showing US how to save time on long trips. Read again his own words about how he condensed distance:

"Left Pittsburgh at midnight Saturday, caught big three-motored Ford plane at Indianapolis at 9 o'clock Sunday morning, St. Louis at 11, Wichita, Kans., at 2, and into here, Amarillo, Tex., at 5:30 Sunday afternoon. Stayed here for the night and on to the Coast today."

We have been doing a lot of talking about our aviation advantages. To be of value to us they must be used. If Rogers uses them so effectively so can the rest of us.

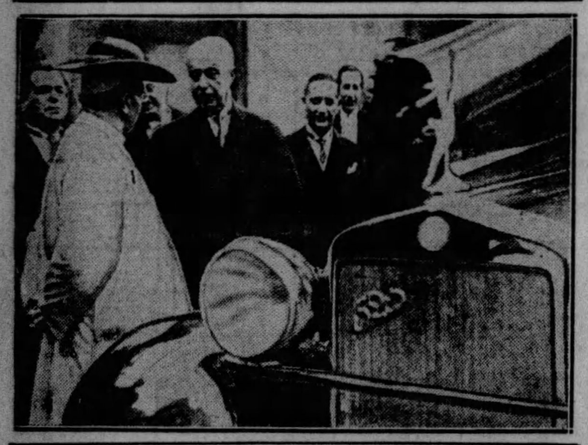
Night Traffic Learning New Signal Operation

Perhaps you won't lose any sleep as a result of the information, but the pedestrians as well as motorists who are out o' nights are receiving the first lessons in the operation of the new automatic control of traffic by synchronized light signals in the Downtown district. The lessons are valuable, too, since the system is somewhat intricate. Really worth a trip down town in the evening to practice both driving and walking, in order to know how to do either when the new system is completely in operation.

It is expected that all lights will be in operation at night within a day or two. For a number of nights tests have been made to determine timing intervals and to check up on defects in installation that tend to prevent perfect operation, and the kinks are gradually being straightened out. While the traffic controllers are learning how to do their part those who make up the night traffic streams also are learning how to keep in line under the plan soon to be in operation at all hours.

The Pope's Automobile

He Is Free, at Last, to Use It.



POPE PIUS XI EXAMINING THE ENGINE OF A FINE, NEW AUTOMOBILE RECENTLY PRESENTED TO HIM.

Hitherto, the Pope, remaining within the Vatican walls for 59 years past, ever since Garibaldi and the Italian government terminated the Papal temporal power, have had no use for automobiles.

During their long imprisonment in the Vatican, self-imposed as a protest against the action of the Italian government, the Popes from the day of their election have seen nothing outside of the Vatican walls. They have been driven slowly around the Vatican Gardens in carriages drawn by horses, never going outside the walls.

But a recent agreement between the Italian government and the Pope, arranged by Mussolini, restores to the Pope temporal power in certain definite territory, and with temporal power, freedom of action.

In a short time, Pope Pius will quit the Vatican, joining in the Corpus Christi procession to the Square of St. Peter's, and thus establishing an important historical date in the history of the Vatican.

Previous to his election, Pope Pius had been a man of very active life, an Alpine climber of distinction, a lover of mountains and outdoor life.

At his age, 70, confinement to the Vatican has been vexatious, dangerous to his health.

This automobile doubtless will play an important part in his life of physical freedom.

It will take him to the scenes of his boyhood, and to the mountain regions.

The picture is important to millions of Catholics to whom the health and happiness of the Pope are matters of great moment.

He Doesn't Fit the Part -:- By Jimmy Hatlo

Tales That Are Told

Surely Got in Wrong

SHE was a slight young girl, but having recently married and become the mistress of a pretentious home, had become seriously obsessed by the importance of her position, which in no manner conformed with her physique.

The other day she was summoned to the door by the ringing of the bell, and quickly discarding her apron and adjusting her hair, she went to receive the caller.

It was one of those door-to-door salesmen who, observing the diminutiveness of the young housewife, innocently inquired, "Is your mother in?"

He probably will never quite understand why the door was so wrathfully slammed in his face.

Valuable Loss

MRS. WOOLEY excitedly entered her lawyer's office. "Have you filed my application for a divorce yet?" she asked.

"No, madame," replied the lawyear; "but I am at work on the papers now."

"Thank goodness, I am not too late. Destroy all papers and evidence at once, please."

"A reconciliation has been brought about between you and your husband, I infer?"

"Gracious, no. He was run over and killed by an auto this morning and I want to retain you in my suit for damages against the wealthy owner of the car."

The Wanderers

IT WAS a most astonishing thing, but the Smiths were always changing their residence.

Some people decided that perhaps Mr. Smith found moving about cheaper than paying rent, but the real reason was the fact that Mrs. Smith loved a change.

One day a friend of the family, returning home rather later than was his usual practice, espied Smith following a van of furniture.

"Hello, Smith," he cried. "Movin' again! And where to this time?"

"I dunno," was the weary answer. "I'm just followin' the van to find out."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

TWO guys from Illinois were looking over an old cathedral in England. It happened to be time for the organ player to practice, and he was making the old pipe organ sing. The two Americans were looking at tablets and windows and things. But there was an Englishman beside them that couldn't contain himself any longer. He says, "Isn't that a wonderful organ!"

One of the Americans says, "What?"

"Such beautiful music!" says the Englishman.

The Americans looked at one another, and one of them says, "Didn't get you! What did you say?"

"Divine organ music, isn't it?"

"Say bo," says one of the Americans, "you'll have to yell louder, I guess! That blasted organ is making so much noise we can't get a word you say!"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

"WHY can't the sun shine forever? Why must the rain fall? Why does desire pass? Why do illusions fade?"

That's A. J. W.'s problem and he wants an answer. So do most of us!

We all spend a good portion of our days kicking at rainfalls and peeving at sunsets and whining because soap bubbles burst in our hands. Life is just one disillusionment after another. The girl that drove us mad with desire yesterday is a pain in the neck today. The house or the car or the job that we thought would fill our cup of happiness to the brim soon palls on us—leaving us as dissatisfied as ever. And like A. J. W. we conclude that life has cheated us.

"Why should we be given all these fine feelings—love, desire, ambition, curiosity, the ability to appreciate beauty—if they are all to end in pain and futility," we cry. "Somebody has double-crossed us!"

Somebody has. But I suspect that it's We—Ourselves!

Is life wrong—OR IS IT OUR INTERPRETATION OF IT THAT IS WRONG?

HAVE WE HUNG THE WRONG MEANING ON THINGS?

We dread change, loss, disappointment. We think of these experiences as painful scourges. We meet them with wheezes or grim determination or resigned sniffles about "bearing our crosses." But are these difficult experiences "crosses" — OR ARE THEY SIMPLY PHASES OF NORMAL GROWTH?

We don't consider it a tragedy when a child loses its baby teeth. Yet we raise Cain when we, in later years, experience various losses which are as infantile as baby teeth.

Loss is nearly always the prelude to growth, but we refuse to recognize that fact.

Life changes—we must move along—and how we yell when the traffic signal changes! But would we prefer the life that never budges from its rut—the mind that never alters its attitudes or opinions? There are lives and minds like that. They are often very happy minds. They are never afflicted by change or disillusionment. They chuckle and bubble happily to themselves in their padded cells in insane asylums. Would we really like to change places with them? Isn't it better to pay the price of pain for growth and sanity?

This is not a Pollyanna article. There is nothing more contemptible than spineless resignation to adverse fortune. But let's not add to our miseries by rating as "misfortunes" those experiences which are nothing of the sort.

The sun must set, for such is its cycle. But that does not necessarily imply that night is dreadful. We have made night seem dreadful by our fear—and changes seem dreadful by our ignorance and laziness. But they are simply steps on the trail of growth. And perhaps that darker night of death is frightful only because we have read horror into its silence. It may, in truth, be but the lovely prelude to a happier dawn.

We are such blind and blundering children! Long ago wise old Saint Paul described us:

"For now we see through a glass darkly," said he.

There is a shadow on the scene—but we have put it there by our own dullness!

UNIVERSE IN TEACUP

By Garrett P. Serviss

"In your 'Freak in the Universe' article you say we have 'no laboratories big enough to experiment in solar system making? But, we don't have to.

"When drinking your tea or coffee, pour in the milk or cream, stir it two or three times, then watch how the fatty particles resolve to form special ring or globe nebulae. Detached sections revolve around the central mass till its revolutions die down, and the particles are drawn quickly to the sides of the cap. An occasional comet will also push its way through the more regularly circulating milk or cream. For years I have amused myself with this easy experiment, and it never loses its novelty.—Horace T. Welch, New York City."

AS you suggest in another part of your letter, "there may be various causes for apparently the same effects in the universe." Your teacup experiment recalls the celebrated "Plateau experiment," which some three-quarters of a century ago was regarded by many as a practical demonstration of the truth of Laplace's nebular hypothesis of the origin of the solar system. And when skillfully managed it was, indeed, an astonishing exhibition. Immersed in a liquid medium one saw a globular mass of suspended liquid of carefully chosen density, rotating, contracting, and leaving off rings, which broke up and shaped themselves into "planets" revolving around the central mass from which they had separated.

But it was no such proof at all, for the conditions were only superficially like those of the supposed solar nebula. It was a highly interesting and important experiment in molecular physics, but its phenomena depended upon other forces than those concerned in the astronomical theory.

But every experiment of this kind is worth making for itself alone. When you are playing with your little solar system in the teacup, noticing its resemblances to the sun's great system of planets and comets, you are nourishing your mind together with your body. I know some people who would probably tell you that it was "bad for digestion" to keep your mind active when eating and drinking. I, on the contrary, believe that it is good for digestion. Of course, you are not to make a profound labor of it, but the surprising nature of the analogies which you notice amuse the mind with a light play of thought, like pleasant conversation.

The peculiarity of the scientifically trained mind is that it not only notices analogies and resemblances, but it always subjects them to critical analysis. It looks for dissemblances, too. It is not convinced by superficial likeness. Most of the mistaken theories that prevail for a while, and all the influence exercised by augurs and diviners of every kind, are based upon striking analogies and resemblances.

Bible Passages

God Appears Unto Moses

(Exodus 3: 1-15)

NOW Moses kept the flock of Jethro his father in law, the priest of Midian: and he led the flock to the backside of the desert, and came to the mountain of God, even to Horeb.

And the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a flame of fire out of the midst of a bush: and he looked, and behold, the bush burned with fire, and the bush was not consumed.

And Moses said, I will now turn aside, and see this great sight, why the bush is not burnt.

And when the Lord saw that he turned aside to see, God called unto him out of the midst of the bush, and said, Moses, Moses. And he said, Here am I.

And he said, Draw not nigh hither: put off thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground.

Moreover he said, I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. And Moses hid his face; for he was afraid to look upon God.

And the Lord said, I have surely seen the affliction of my people which are in Egypt, and have heard their cry by reason of their taskmasters; for I know their sorrows;

And I am come down to deliver them out of the land of the Egyptians, and to bring them up out of that land unto a good land and a large, unto a land flowing with milk and honey; unto the place of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites and the Jebusites.

Now therefore, behold, the cry of the children of Israel is come unto me: and I have also seen the oppression wherewith the Egyptians oppress them.

Come now therefore, and I will send thee unto Pharaoh, that thou mayest bring forth my people the children of Israel out of Egypt.

And Moses said unto God, Who am I, that I should go unto Pharaoh and that I should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt?

And he said, Certainly I will be with thee; and this shall be a token unto thee, that I have sent thee: When thou hast brought forth the people out of Egypt, ye shall serve God upon this mountain.

And Moses said unto God, Behold, when I come unto the Children of Israel, and shall say unto them, the God of your fathers hath sent me unto you; and they shall say to me, What is his name? what shall I say unto them?

And God said unto Moses, I AM THAT I AM: and he said, Thus shalt thou say unto the children of Israel, I AM hath sent me unto you.

And God said moreover unto Moses, Thus shalt thou say unto the children of Israel, The Lord God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, hath sent me unto you: this is my name for ever, and this is my memorial unto all generations.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 4.—No section of New York has been so extravagantly publicized lately as the Harlem Black Belt. It has been whooped up in a half-dozen plays and as many books. Cabaret resorts attract hordes of downtown slummers and Strivers Row is the scene of studio soirees attended by whites.

Harlem in recent years has given the stage Florence Mills, Bill Robinson, Adelaide Hall and others and sent Josephine Baker, a dusky singer, to triumph in Paris and Paul Robeson in London. Jules Bledsoe and Roland Hayes have become singularly conspicuous in singing roles.

Two current successful plays and three big selling novels were authored by Negroes. From such surface indications, the Negro would appear to have attained a striking stage of artistic development, yet those who know say the majority in Harlem face economic disaster.

Judging from the colorful flow on Lenox avenue, the district has never before displayed such fine feathers. The gaudy sheiks and flashily dressed brownskins are promiscuous in every block. But these it would seem are representative of only a favored few. Many doors have closed to colored workers.

Except on Pullman trains, there are few places for the colored maid, and the colored nurse has a similar struggle. Hairdressing and manicure parlors, once an occupational high spot, are now using only white girls, chiefly Scandinavians. Washroom attendants are also mostly white.

Most hotels long ago discarded the colored waiter in favor of foreign importations. This also applies to chefs. And there are only a handful of colored valets and butlers, and just a straggling few footmen, coachmen, yardmen and chauffeurs.

First-class apartment houses are no longer employing colored elevator operators, and apartment houses that do, employ chiefly the West Indian Negroes, who are far from popular in Harlem. Posts of doormen and building superintendents are also seldom held by colored folk.

Fortunate gentlemen who slip off to Bar Harbor and other natty nooks over week ends for golfing in the sunshine and canoeing in the moonlight, usually land at Grand Central Monday morning. To the red saps they are "gliders"—a colloquialism for gilding the palm. They are reputed the most extravagant of tippers.

The bright young collegiates who edit college magazines have not done badly of late in New York journalism. Four attained responsible editorial posts at salaries of more than $10,000 a year. On college journals they acquire a knowledge of makeup and other printing technicalities it often takes years to master on the paying job.

Smart hair dressing and beauty parlors now ask patrons to make engagements at least a week in advance. In spite of 300 new salons opening in the metropolitan district last year, the business has grown out of bound. Hair dressers on liners in port are able to work full time. The big factor in the increase of trade is the demand for beauty treatments. Women who used to have "facials" once a week often make a daily visit. And so far as one can notice homely women remain homely.

Upper Broadway is acquiring all the chop suey, dance hall, souvenir shop and vaudeville glitter of the lower strip and is to have two legitimate theaters above Seventy-second street playing first class attractions.

There is no optimism like that of the man with thinning hair for the barber's newest restorer. Only this morning I hurried home from a barber shop, fearing the new growth would push off my hat along the sidewalk.

Mr. Whalen's traffic plan may be the billiards. Everybody sings its praise. But it took me exactly 42 minutes by clock to travel from Forty-sixth and Madison avenue to a theater on West Forty-fifth street the other night, so Mr. Whalen may have his idea—with love and kisses.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

HOW are your table manners at restaurants?

Isn't it true that you pay no attention to table etiquette?

Even use a toothpick in public, don't you?

Can you think of anything more disgusting?

Yet when you are among strangers you sometimes indulge in this practice.

Do you avoid making noises when you are eating soup?

Aren't there many things you do at table in restaurants that you would not do at the home of a friend, or in a good hotel, in your own home town?

Those who sit at table with you or near you can easily realize what your breeding or instruction has been by your table manners.

They see you as you really are, shorn of the veneer you use when dining with those whom you wish to impress favorably.

An inborn sense of proper table manners does not violate good usage.

It is the acquired kind which under certain circumstances annoys others by infractions of rules that should always be followed.

A gentleman or a gentlewoman does not lapse in the fine art of dining, whether it be in the courts of honor or a wayside inn.
